'Denial Of All Great Grits'

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Monday night that Pearsonian Liberalism has started chiselling away at Confederation.

He said Prime Minister Pearson's brand of Liberalism is a denial of what all the great Liberals have stood for.

The provinces have great responsibilities and must have the authority to carry them out. But if they were raised to the status of associate states Canada would have 11 sovereign governments in greater or lesser degree.

MANY STANDING

"When that day comes this nation will never hold together," he said.

The Conservative leader spoke to some 1,200 persons in a packed and clammy-hot auditorium. More than one-quarter of the

Pearson Swings Westward

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson leads his campaign caravan into Western Canada today but for a good deal of the time his mind will be on the other side of the world.

He told newsmen Monday he would be in constant touch with Commonwealth leaders about the worsening Rhodesian crisis.

The Prime Minister's world-wide reputation as a peace saver had thrust him into the centre of desperate negotiations to halt the progress of the crisis which could so easily escalate into another African bloodbath.

Rhodesia was one of the main items on cabinet agenda yesterday. And it popped up again and again during a very busy non-campaign day for Mr. Pearson.

NOTES TRADED

Mr. Pearson said he had exchanged messages with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and the other leaders about "what may require to be done in certain contingencies we hope won't arise."

He was apparently referring to the intention of Commonwealth nations to invoke sanctions against Rhodesia if the African country unilaterally declares its independence.

Mr. Pearson also talked to Paul Tremblay, Canada's United Nations ambassador, and other external affairs officials, about a resolution being drafted for possible use if the crisis worsens.

He accused former Conserva-

Secret Deal
Nuclear Devices For Sale

LONDON (AP) — Diplomatic sources and British informants disclosed Monday night a secret decision authorizing sales of nuclear power reactors, for peaceful purposes only, to Communist countries of East Europe.

The decision was reported to have been taken quietly last July by the inter-allied co-ordinating committee, a little-known group known as COCOM. Members are all the 15 Atlantic Alliance countries, excepting Iceland, plus Japan.

If the move is followed by firm deals with interested countries such as Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Poland, it could, in the British view, mark a multi-million-dollar breakthrough in trade relations between East and West. For years these relations have been subject to strict control of all goods with a war potential.

U.K. INITIATIVE

Informants said the COCOM decision was taken as a result of a British initiative, backed by the United States.

In Ottawa, a government spokesman said Canada took part in the decision but none of the countries involved have made requests for Canadian-produced nuclear power reactors.

Oil Tanker To Run Picket Line

VANCOUVER (CP) — An oil tanker was expected to attempt this morning to make a run past a floating picket line to reach a British American Oil Co. Ltd. dock.

The tanker, the BA Canada, anchored in Burrard Inlet on Monday.

* * *

BA officials here would not say where she had sailed from, or where she had loaded. Her normal run is between Venezuela and Halifax, and she is believed to have loaded in South America.

The oil and gasoline aboard was to be pumped into shore tanks at BA's bulk loading terminal in Port Moody, up the inlet from Vancouver.

* * *

The terminal is normally supplied by pipeline from the company's refinery at Port Moody. The refinery has been out of production since the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC) struck Sept. 14.

Erhard Coalition Survives Crisis

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard today saved his government coalition in a tense six-hour meeting that lasted until the early hours.

Vice Chancellor Erich Mende, who held the key to the crisis, left the marathon meeting to tell reporters, "the coalition remains in being."

* * *

While a full cabinet list has yet to be worked out, he said he will support Erhard for chancellor when his name is put before the Bundestag Wednesday.

The crisis stemmed from Erhard's demand that Mende give up his post as head of the ministry for All German Affairs. Mende threatened to bolt the coalition if he was forced out. It was not known immediately how the situation was resolved.

Erhard confirmed Mende's statement that the four-year-old coalition had been saved.

Sukarno Resists Army Reds Face Pressure

SINGAPORE (AP) — Indonesia's army imposed a military ban on the Communist party in Jakarta Monday, said a broadcast from the Indonesian capital. But President Sukarno was reported resisting military pressure to dissolve the party.

A Jakarta broadcast heard here said a number of parties and organizations linked to the Communist party also were placed under the ban and the powerful, Communist-dominated trade union federation, SOBSI, was outlawed, presumably throughout Indonesia.

The Indonesian army continued its crackdown on Communists believed involved in the Sept. 30-Oct. 1 coup attempt against Sukarno despite the president's appeal to the military to desist.

REDS ARRESTED

A dispatch from Jakarta reported the arrest of the suspended Communist director of the government-run Jakarta radio, Sukirman.

Also reported arrested were Satya Graha, chief editor of the nationalist party newspaper Suluh Indonesia, suspended by the army, and four staff members of the official news agency Antara. This brought the total of arrested personnel from Antara, which was Communist-infiltrated, to 31.

Mobs were reported systematically burning and sacking Communist offices in other parts of the country.

The ban on the Communist party in Jakarta was announced in the name of Gen. Umar Hadikasumo, commanding officer in the capital area. He ordered officials of the party and of the other banned organizations to report to the army or police within five days.

Also placed under the military ban were Permuda Rakjat, the Communist party's youth wing, and Gerwani, the party's women's branch.

A Jakarta press dispatch flown to Singapore said an Indonesian cabinet minister reported Sukarno still is resisting army pressures to dissolve formally the Indonesian Communist party.

India Claims Line Violations

NEW DELHI (UPI) — India Monday charged that Pakistani troops attacked across the cease-fire line in Kashmir with mortars and machine-gun fire. It said the attack was repulsed and the Pakistanis suffered some casualties.

Former Premier

Rhodesia Seizes Critic

SALISBURY (Reuters)—The Rhodesian government seized former Prime Minister Garfield Todd Monday as he was about to leave for Britain and ordered him confined to his farm for 12 months.

The restriction order followed by only a few hours Prime Minister Ian Smith's rejection of British Prime Minister Wilson's latest offer to continue talks on Rhodesia's demand for independence.

Todd, a champion of Negro-majority rule, was served with the restriction order at a Salisbury house just as he was preparing to fly to Britain to address a televised Rhodesia teach-in at Edinburgh University in Scotland.

LAST-MINUTE STEP

In London, Wilson sent a cable to Smith in an 11th-hour effort to persuade Rhodesia not to seize independence from Britain unilaterally.

Todd was scheduled to share the platform at the teach-in with Britain's former Conservative prime minister, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, and Cledwyn Hughes, the British Labor government's minister of state for Commonwealth relations.

NO DRAMA

Todd's host in Salisbury, Frank Haddon, said the special branch police arresting officers arrived as Todd was eating dinner. Haddon said:

"There was no drama. They were so gentlemanly and British you have no idea. The senior officer could not have been nicer."

CARRIES FIGHT

Todd has carried his fight for Negro rule in Rhodesia, where an all-white government rules 4,000,000 Negroes and only 220,000 whites, to the United Nations.

The Rhodesian government said it is studying the texts of Todd's UN speeches last April for possible subverions. A Rhodesian law makes it an offence for citizens to make subversive speeches overseas. Todd denied any subversive intention.

RULE BY FORCE

He said the only alternative to negotiating rights and liberties for various Rhodesian racial groups is the maintenance of white rule by force.

He once said that drastic measures such as restriction without trial "had the result of putting the white people on top of a smouldering volcano."

MEDIATION DENIED

Todd's restriction came a few hours after Smith rejected Wilson's proposal for mediation in the Rhodesian independence dispute by leaders of Commonwealth countries.

Smith also said his government has made up its mind whether to defy Britain and

Underwater Domicile Big Success

MONTE CARLO (UPI)—French marine explorer Commander Jacques Yves Cousteau said Monday his most recent project—the three-week research mission in his underwater house Pre Continent III—was a complete success.

The pressurized sphere, which kept six men under water at a depth of 330 feet for 22 days, surfaced four days ago, but the oceanauts completed their decompression only Monday.

Secret Pact Hinted

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Douglas Fisher, New Democratic party House leader in the last Parliament, said Monday he believes the Liberal government has a secret pact or agreement with President Johnson to send Canadian troops to Viet Nam after the Nov. 8 federal election.

In an interview with radio station CJLX, Mr. Fisher said he knows for a fact the liberal government drafted a plan for sending communication and transportation personnel to Viet Nam.

MILITARY LEAK

He said the draft was on Defence Minister Paul Hellyer's desk in August. He credited a defence department source for leaking the information.

Mr. Fisher, who does not plan to contest the Nov. 8 election, termed as nonsense allegations by Creditiste Leader Real Caouette that the Liberals plan to introduce military conscription after the election.

He said conscription would be political suicide for the Liberals.

Four Jail Rebels Hold Hostages In Prison Hospital

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Four rebellious convicts held a half-dozen hostages for several hours at Southern Michigan Prison Monday, commandeered the penitentiary's surgical centre and grabbed its narcotics supply.

After three terror-filled hours, the prisoners released two doctors and a guard they had threatened with home-made knives. Later, they decided to release their three other hostages and surrender.

All of the hostages were reported in "good health" by Louis Utess, administrative assistant to warden George Kropp. About 40 state policemen, armed with riot guns, were dismissed from stand-by duty.

NO REASON

During Monday's disturbance, one prison official said: "All we are hearing from them over the intercom is a lot of angry talk that has no definite rhyme or reason. And they are using the intercom only when they choose to. We haven't really been able to discuss this with them to see what their demands are."

Held hostage were Dr. W. R. Latchaw, 62, of Jackson; Dr. Hamner Hannah, a University of Michigan consultant; guard inspector Joseph Demobskey, 58, and guards George Hutchins, 48, Ronald Thompson, and Walter Gould.

Warden Kropp did not immediately release the names of the inmates involved, and all but local reporters were refused admission to the prison during the incident.

Beer Talks Into Sixth Day

VANCOUVER (CP) — Negotiators go into their sixth day of talks today still seeking a common ground to end the brewery workers' strike.

Brewery representatives and officials of the International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers (CLC) have been talking to conciliation officers since last Wednesday.

Chief provincial labor conciliator Reg Clements said Monday he is still hopeful of a settlement.

Hundred Turned Back From Quebec Inquest

QUEBEC (CP) — Some 100 persons Monday were refused entry to a tight-security coroner's inquest into the death of four persons whose bodies were found recently in different parts of the province.

Thirty Quebec Provincial Police officers guarded all entrances to the building as Dr. Paul-W. Desruisseaux opened the inquest into the deaths of Redempteur Faucher, 47, Paul Brie, 44, both of Quebec City, Alberic Bilodeau, 52, of Ste. Marie de Beauce, Que., and Paul Chandonnet, 38, of Sherbrooke, Que.

The inquest was originally scheduled to be held in the criminal assizes courtroom but was switched to a smaller room. No explanation was given but it was believed to be a security move to reduce the audience to a minimum.

The smaller room, with space for an estimated 100 persons, was three-quarters filled with police and newspaper men.

Everyone admitted to the inquest was searched by police before entering the court house.

Scientist Believes — May Unlock Mystery

New Probe Cancer Enemy

By BOB MACKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — An instrument used mainly to detect minute quantities of metal in microscopic samples eventually may unlock the mystery of cancer, a U.S. scientist said Monday.

H. T. Dryer of Dearborn, Mich., said the microprobe, an instrument developed about five years ago, has been used almost entirely in metallurgy.

* * *

"But in the next couple years there will be a big swing to biology.

"We only have theories now, but the microprobe will enable us to examine processes taking place in blood samples and in living cell tissues."

The microprobe bombards its test sample with high energy electrons, and determines the presence of elements by measuring the x-rays given off by the sample during the bombardment.

* * *

But its early use was restricted to metal research as it only could detect heavier elements. Now, it can identify all but the five lightest elements known to man.

"We still can't use it for hydrogen, but we can locate as little as a hundredth of one per cent of heavier material, like iron or copper."

Mr. Dryer, manager of the applications laboratory of Applied Research Laboratories, Inc., of Dearborn, said microprobe improvements have made the instrument a key analysis instrument in areas where analysis was impossible before because of the minute size of samples.

* * *

In the case of cancer it would enable scientists to determine the chemical differences between good and malignant cells.

"There are certain elements a malignant cell will pick up. With proper development work, the microprobe should show us how the process takes place."

The same could hold for work in genetics, "but there still is much more work to do."

* * *

While the microprobe will not determine amounts of light elements, there is a process where tracers of a heavier element can be aded to the light element.

"We've already done this in plant work, determining the cause of nutrition deficiencies due to either too much or too little of an element in the soil."

Mr. Dryer is in Ottawa for a three-day symposium sponsored by the Canadian Association of Applied Spectroscopy.

seize Rhodesian independence unilaterally.

But, he said, just when the declaration would be made could not yet be determined.

Smith rejected the British proposal for Commonwealth mediation as "not practical." He said a Commonwealth mission is bound to contain self-professed enemies of Rhodesia's present white - dominated constitutional government.

And even with the best will in the world, he said, Commonwealth leaders would be too far from the issue at stake to decide. The issue, he said, is between Britain and Rhodesia only.

As for Wilson's warning that a seizure of independence would be rebellion, followed by crippling economic sanctions and perhaps even throwing Central Africa into bloodshed, Smith declared:

'THINK AGAIN'

"If Britain or any other outside interferences were to promote this, then the responsibility would be on their shoulders."

He echoed Wilson's words to him by saying: "Prime minister, think again."

Rhodesia has been an internally self - governing British colony since 1923, but Britain has refused to grant full independence unless the country's Negro majority is put on the road toward the vote and other civil rights which could give them control over the country.

Smith's all-white government insists on independence under the present constitution. Although the 4,000,000 Negroes outnumber the whites 18 to 1, only a few thousand of them have the vote.

RECALLS MASSACRES

As for Wilson's reference to the fact that Britain had granted independence to 700,000,000 people since the Second World War, Smith mentioned what he indicated are poor electoral records of Nigeria, Ghana and Tanzania and recalled the post-independence massacres in India and Pakistan and the present dispute between them.

"What sort of independence is this?" he asked.

He said Rhodesia has achieved one of the highest levels of civilization in Africa —"an enlightened democracy where color is no barrier."

He declared: "Is it not incredible that the British government has allowed our case to deteriorate into this fantastic position—almost comical if it were not so tragic."

crowd had to stand at the rear or in the aisle.

The Liberals have denied everything they used to stand for. The trouble had started soon after Mr. Pearson became prime minister when he had said at Murray Bay, Que., that Canada is two nations, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Mr. Diefenbaker said a Conservative government would increase the old-age pension to persons 70 and over to $100 a month, with the money coming out of the Canada Pension Plan.

He quoted Mr. Pearson as saying such an increase would cost $850,000,000.

But Mr. Pearson "pretends I said at age 65."

'UNWORKABLE'

"Mr. Pearson says that's terrible but he makes money available for a so-called medical plan which at present is unworkable."

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Pearson had stated he would never engage in an auction but now he was saying he would give old-age pensioners more than $100 a month if they needed it.

"And he'll raise the ante aagin," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Mr. Diefenbaker moves into Ontario's nickel belt Tuesday with campaign stops at Sudbury, Capreol and North Bay, then moves south into the Ottawa Valley.

tive trade and commerce minister George Hees of having a "strange, short-sighted and irresponsible approach" to the Rhodesian situation.

Last week Mr. Hees said economic sanctions "could have a very important effect on our Canadian tobacco industry."

He pointed out that Canada only sells 25,000,000 pounds of tobacco to Britain each year whereas Rhodesia sells 100,000,000.

"The important thing of course, is for the minister of trade and commerce to immediately leave Canada for Great Britain to make sure all the necessary arrangements are made for our tobacco industry into the market," Mr. Hees said.

"That's a strange, short-sighted and irresponsible approach to one of the most critical situations in the world today," Mr. Pearson told newsmen.

FIRST ESKIMO

The Prime Minister's day yesterday began with an appointment at 8:15 and it continued until late in the evening.

After a two-hour cabinet meeting he chatted for a short while with Abraham Okpik, of Yellowknife, the first Eskimo ever appointed to the Council of the Northwest Territories.

SPEAKING DATES

Mr. Pearson arrives in Edmonton shortly after noon today for a reception in the Jubilee Auditorium. Then he drives some 70 miles for a rally in Westlock, Alberta at night.

He will be in Calgary tomorrow and Humboldt, Sask., Wednesday.

There he will meet the Saskatchewan cabinet and members of the Liberal caucus.

A spokesman for the provincial government said Mr. Pearson requested the meeting during his visit to the central Saskatchewan centre for a political rally. The rally will be the only one held by the prime minister in Saskatchewan during the Nov. 8 Federal election campaign.

Beefsteak Held Poor Remedy For Black Eye, Ice Better

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: How should you treat a black eye or a black and blue mark? I've read everything you write but don't recall anything about this.—MRS K.T.

I guess I haven't discussed it. Maybe nobody asked me.

As you correctly imply, a black eye is a black and blue spot, limited to a special area.

The body is full of blood vessels, ranging in size from large to microscopic. When you get whacked (or when your youngsters do) some of the small vessels close to the surface can be broken, even though the skin isn't.

TURNS BLUE

The blood that escapes forms a sort of puddle; as it stays there and loses its oxygen, it turns blue. That's a black and blue mark. Gradually the body removes it, molecule by molecule, and eventually the mark disappears.

Since the leakage or seepage of blood creates the black and blue mark, the best way to keep it small is to limit the bleeding.

APPLY PRESSURE

What do you do if you nick your finger? Why, you wrap your handkerchief around it and hold it tight for a minute or two, until the blood clots. You can do the same with minor bleeding below the skin surface: apply pressure for a short time.

Cold compresses (ice packs, or cold towels) against the area are the first line of defence. The problem is that when you get a punch in the eye, you don't always have an ice pack handy. But if a child gets a whack in the eye, or elsewhere, and comes in the door crying, a quick cold compress (wet towel, or ice cube wrapped in a cloth) applied to the bruised spot will slow down the bleeding and be soothing.

Ten minutes later, the bleeding has stopped anyway, so for all ordinary purposes, this sort of first aid has to be applied at once or it doesn't do any good.

Second, speaking medically, certain enzymes can be taken by mouth, and they speed up the absorption of the blood that has leaked into the bruised area. This is a matter for a doctor to handle. It should be done primarily only when the area is very large.

NO BEEFSTEAK

There isn't much else you can do to get rid of a black eye except to wait for Nature to absorb the blood.

There's the old idea about pressing raw beefsteak against the eye. This procedure is not much good — if any. Besides, raw beefsteak is too expensive these days to be used for that. If you got a punch in the eye and just happened to have some steak handy, and pressed it instantly against the bruised area, the pressure itself would limit the bleeding. But your wadded-up handkerchief would do as well.

The only extra you may want with our '66 fastback sedan is a square back.

It already has most everything else.

Bucket seats. Floor-mounted stick shift. Padded dash. Whitewall tires. Independent torsion bar suspension. Front-wheel disc brakes.

The kind of sporting extras they charge so much money for on other cars.

It has a dual carburetor 1600 cc. engine tucked neatly away in the back. Air-cooled so that it never needs water. Or anti-freeze.

It has an electric clock. A four-way flashing indicator for night emergencies. A carpeted floor. And seat backs that adjust to seven different angles.

About the only thing you could want more of in our fastback sedan is load space.

You get it in the model with the square back. About twice as much of it. Even more when you fold the back seat down.

Aside from that, the two cars are just about identical. Same kind of performance. Same kind of gas mileage. Same kind of fun.

In fact, you may have to keep looking back to see which one you're driving.

OTTAWA (CP) Cleanliness now, and financial protection against automobile accident and sickness charges in the future, are the biggest contributors to recent increases in living costs.

Compared with a year ago, the latest available official statistics show:

1. It costs $214.90 to obtain the automobile insurance which a year ago cost $169.90.
2. It costs $219.20 now to pay for the prepaid medical care plan that a year ago cost $193.20.
3. And toilet soap which cost 13 cents last year now costs more than 15 cents.

These are increases of more than 25 per cent, 13 per cent and 15 per cent respectively.

The figures don't indicate the costs of specific insurance policies or brands of soap.

The survey is taken late in every month to compile the bureau's consumer price index for the following month, based on 1949 prices equalling 100. The index was 139.4 in August, just a tenth of a point off from its all-time peak. It dropped another three-tenths of a point to 139.1 last month.

SHOES, HELP

Two other major price increases in the past year have been in children's shoes and the cost of household help. From an index of 154.9 a year ago, children's shoe prices have moved to 169.1. And the household help index has risen to 202.3 from 184.4.

The cost of shelter and of household operations together make up 32 per cent of the total index, and food costs account for 27 per cent.

TWO PER CENT

The August food index meant that it cost $13.78 for a sack of groceries which could be purchased a year ago for $13.51. This is an increase of two per cent.

And in August this year, the combined cost of owning or renting a house or an apartment, along with fuel, electricity, home furnishings and supplies was less than two per cent higher than a year ago. The housing index was 141.2 this year, compared with 138.7 a year earlier.

NATO Studies Alternate Sites

LONDON (UPI) — The possibility that French President Charles de Gaulle may ask NATO to take its headquarters out of Paris is forcing officials to seek alternative bases outside of France, authoritative sources say. Despite formal denials, plans under active study include Britain, Belgium and Luxembourg as the most likely sites for NATO's political and military headquarters if the move becomes inevitable.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police have ordered radar equipment for experimental use in patrolling Vancouver streets. Police traffic superintendent Alan Rossiter said he hoped the equipment would be in use by the end of the year.

Long Shot Pays Off

ST. ALBAN'S, England (Reuters)—Christine Weaver, 20, faced a problem when her parents won a family cruise on the liner Queen Mary in a competition—she didn't want to tell them she preferred to stay home for Christmas with her fiance, Julian Powell.

So Julian, 21, tried a 1,000,000-to-1 shot, and entered a similar competition run by another firm.

He was among the top prize winners, and will join the Weavers on the liner's Christmas cruise.

Seven Miners Dead

Workers remove last of six miners' bodies from smoked-filled coal mine Monday near Clarksburg, W. Va., following a fire that broke out when coal-digging machine cut electrical cable, causing short-circuit. Seventh miner was brought out alive, but died minutes later. Chalk marks along tunnel corridors made by seven were grim evidence they had stayed alive for nearly day following blaze.

Horse Thief

HORSE THIEF SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Police here are looking for a thief who stole two quarterhorses valued at $2,000.

Police Seek Elusive Gunmen

WILLIAMS LAKE (CP) — RCMP said Monday they will continue searching for another two or three days for clues that would lead them to phantom gunmen who shoot at forestry service boats.

They said investigations following a pitched battle on Quesnel Lake last week have drawn a blank. The lake is 40 miles from this community 200 miles northeast of Vancouver.

A B.C. Government Forestry Service boat was shot at 30 times last Thursday night from both land and a boat in the water. Forester George Dorrans, 45, said he got off 16 shots in return.

BALLISTIC TEST

Bullets taken from the hull of the boat were sent to RCMP headquarters in Vancouver for ballistics tests.

RCMP here said they have checked every known boat and boathouse on the 85-mile-long lake.

But the lake's 600-mile shoreline dips in and out and police said the boat may be hidden in a small cove.

"We've got our own plane searching the lake, as well as two men in a boat," an RCMP spokesman said.

NO SIGN

"They'll continue in the area for at least another two or three days. But so far there has ben nothing."

He said there were two communities on the lakeshore, Horsefly and Likely, but nobody had reported any strange boats in the area.

Forester Dorrans suffered minor face cuts in the Thursday night gun battle.

Rasputin Recalled in Court

NEW YORK (UPI)—The ghost of Rasputin was evoked in State Supreme Court Monday as the aged niece of Czar Nicholas II testified she never met the "mad monk" who was murdered in her palace by her husband and cousin in 1916.

"I did not know him but I knew of him," Princess Irina Romanoff Youssoupoff said crisply, her dark eyes flashing at the memory of old gossip that linked her to the licentious semi-literate peasant who held unrivalled power at the Czar's court.

ADMITS KILLING

The gauntly elegant princess, 70, daughter of Grand Duke Alexandre Mikhailovitch and Grand Duchess Xenia, took the witness stand to support the claim of her husband, Prince Felix Youssoupoff, for $1,500,000 damages from the Columbia Broadcasting System. Youssoupoff admits killing Rasputin to save Russia from political chaos.

But the Prince, 79, insists that a CBS television film, Rasputin, the Mad Monk, shown on CBS-affiliate stations in Chicago and New York in 1963, was an invasion of his privacy, made without his consent and partially inaccurate. His attorney, Herbert P. Zelenko, read into the record a pre-trial statement by CBS that the film was made without Youssoupoff's consent.

MATTER OF HISTORY

The network claims Rasputin's murder is a matter of history and therefore in the public domain as a subject for literary or dramatic treatment. It points out that Youssoupoff, Grand Duke Dmitri, and two other conspirators declared themselves the assassins 50 years ago and the prince even wrote a book about the episode.

Youssoupoff specifically complained that the film made an "inaccurate" assertion that he used his beautiful bride of a few months as "seductive bait" to lure Rasputin to the Youssoupoff's Moika palace in St. Petersburg (Leningrad).

At the close of Monday's session, the princess testified that she had been ill for four months and was in the Crimea when Rasputin's murder occurred. She denied ever sending for Rasputin to cure a headache, as mentioned in the television script, and said she did not know her husband used her headache as a ruse to get Rasputin to their palace until she read it later in his book.

Bleak Moor Yields Body

MANCHESTER (CP)—Police conducting a week-long search on a bleak moor near here Saturday found the almost complete remains of an unidentified young girl. The discovery came as a dramatic climax to the search, sparked off after a man was heard to boast about burying a body on the moors.

Futile Protests

IT IS A HOPEFUL sign for the future of mankind that so many feel so strongly that war no longer belongs among the instruments of political science or expediency.

Never before in the history of the world has there been such widespread and vociferous condemnation of war as a policy.

The increasing economic destructiveness of war, the so-called sophistication and refinement of weapons, have made statesmen more and more hesitant and reluctant to resort to it.

Thinking people everywhere condemn it. The League of Nations and the United Nations Organization outlawed it. Only from a few, like Achmed Sukarno, the Indonesian radical, and the men in power in Peking, comes advocacy of violence to further revolution and the domination of neighbor states.

As long as that sort of immorality exists, as long as the universal acceptance of negotiation and arbitration is lacking, and as long as peace-keeping machinery cannot function by reason of lack of agreement or the veto, nations will feel themselves justified in taking up arms in their own defence.

Where self-defence begins is a matter of conscience. The United States believes she must help contain the Communist aggressors in Southeast Asia, and she has poured troops and treasure into an area she considers the frontier of democracy. The Canadian government believes in the altruism of her motives.

The United States wants peace in Southeast Asia, and has earnestly sought negotiation to put an end to hostilities.

As Mr. Diefenbaker said here last Friday: "The U.S. is willing. North Viet Nam and its partners in Peking are not willing."

"It is my hope and prayer," said Mr. Diefenbaker, "that North Viet Nam, the puppet of Peking, will agree to cessation of hostilities."

It is the hope of all of us.

The protests against U.S. policy in Viet Nam are not likely to have the slightest effect upon the thinking of the Washington administration. The demonstrations of the pacifists will only encourage the avowed enemies of the democratic sysem.

In effect, these well-meaning people whose honest hatred of war impells them to parade in protest are aligning themselves with the real aggressors, the powers that would destroy their freedom—and the freedom of all the rest who are prepared to fight to defend it.

Until the whole world is prepared to submit to the rule of law and there are adequate agencies of enforcement, as we know them within the state, we shall continue to have adventures in ideological expansionism.

There is only one way to stop it—and that is not by protest marches.

Policy Vacuum

IT IS A RATHER strange spectacle when the leaders of the two largest political parties in Canada are not only at odds with each other on the question of water export, but at variance also with colleagues of their own. If this is an election issue, the voters may look with some puzzlement on the split planks.

Mr. Pearson, while granting that Canada would have to be "awfully careful" to meet its own needs before sending water south of the border, says nevertheless that this export can be as important as wheat or oil or anything else, and that talks will be held with the United States on the subject.

His resources minister, Mr. Arthur Laing, takes a much different, and less yielding, position. His message to the United States is in effect that it should takes its eyes off Canada's water resources; that flooding of extensive Canadian areas as reservoirs in a continental water system would be undesirable in itself, and that even such returns to Canada as there could be in such a scheme might not be as beneficial as the establishment of local industries and population to use the same water in Canada.

Meanwhile, Mr. Diefenbaker comes out strongly against surrendering vital water resources to the United States, and almost simultaneously, his former agriculture minister, Mr. Alvin Hamilton, says Canada should agree to the export proposal—as long as guaranteed markets for Canadian industrial products, such as steel, are obtained in return.

Thus we are left in doubt as to the policy of either party—which only serves to emphasize the recent warning of the former chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission, Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, that in this respect Canada is proceeding in a "policy vacuum" and therefore hazardously. His point was that programs shaped by special interest groups can get out of control for lack of a firm national intent and purpose; that Canada should look to its distant needs, its future development, before starting international studies and negotiations. The warning is surely worth heeding.

Up to the City

THE BIZARRE story of a civic playhouse without a piano proceeds apace, although the Victoria School of Music hopes to do something to rectify a mortifying situation.

It will stage a benefit concert next month which it is hoped, together with donations and the raising of other funds, will result in an instrument of the required quality being purchased for the McPherson theatre.

One wonders at the oversight that omitted in the rebuilding of a playhouse into a distinctive feature of Centennial Square the provision of an essential adjunct —a piano of appropriate type and the space to house it.

One wonders too why the city, the owner of the civic playhouse, doesn't remedy matters by providing a suitable instrument instead of forcing an outside agency to cadge funds to make up for its mistake.

The predicament is the more farcical when one considers the expense, far outreaching the cost of a piano, of providing an adjunct restaurant which nobody wants to manage. There is another and ironic factor which highlights this strange story; it was the McPherson legacy which restored and refurbished the McPherson Playhouse, and the city is prepared to borrow against this bequest in order to build a sports stadium. By comparison the price of a piano would make scarcely a dent in the funds available.

The Victoria School of Music is to be commended for its interest and effort to correct an anomaly, but it is the city that should remove the blot on its copybook by acquiring the desired instrument of quality, even if for lack of storage facilities it has to sublet it for rental purposes elsewhere.

A Rare Gift to the Nation

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

NOTES from the campaign trail. Just look at Diefenbaker go!

He's worn out his entourage before—his executive assistants and secretaries and the corps of newspapermen scrambling to cover his campaign—running them, exhausted, into the ground, in other elections.

But never quite like this.

Never so frantic.

The pace in his other campaigns has been furious, but there were pauses and it was possible to catch your breath, rest for a precious moment, even squeeze in a couple of hours' sleep.

But not this time.

Where the stops are close—as they were by bus across populous vote-heavy industrial southwestern Ontario—or where they are many—as they are train-whistling across the Prairies—the Conservative leader's incredible day begins before it breaks.

It's still dark, and reveille can—and actually has—come as early as 5:15 to start the long perpetual motion daily talkathon that mercifully may end 18 hours later.

What drives this man of 70 to such routinely physical and often emotional extremes?

He must so want—to the point almost of hurting—to return, in triumph to Parliament Hill's East Block as prime minister, that he aches with the very deep desiring of it.

★ ★ ★

It seems to baffle him when others groan with fatigue.

And he's taken to making jokes from the platform about the "weary young men" in the press party which he trails across the country like the tail of a comet.

He says he draws "my strength from the people," who, he swears in all seriousness "renew my faith."

And it just could be so.

Some sort of faith—in his destiny, he knows—must propel him.

And there's no question of his enduring strength.

Somebody kidded him the other day that he was the first of the old-age pensioners to make the "Pepsi generation."

That was enormously understating it.

★ ★ ★

For there came a snort from one of the bone-beat newspapermen on the campaign tour:

"If Dief gets any younger, he won't be able to vote."

Believing in himself this fiercely, and working this punishingly hard for the political vindication he so deep-burningly wants—what happens to him if he doesn't get it?

It will be the political end for him, of course. For this, as even he must know now, is the Last Hurrah.

That will be bad enough, almost impossible for him to take.

But it will be nothing, fear his friends, to the awful anguish he will suffer in the deeply personal sense in realizing—if not accepting—that he has failed his last and greatest test.

Having watched him closely, from the front row seats of Parliament Hill these past 25 years, it can be firmly stated as a hard fact that to him, disappointment is a devastatingly physical thing.

He experiences it as an actual pain.

And there have been times—twice eye-witnessed—when the pain seemed almost beyond the bearing.

He is impossible of understanding in failure, and even more impossible of reconciling himself to it.

He simply won't accept it. Never has. And if it comes this time, there is no valid reason to suspect he will bow to what almost any ordinary person would consider simply as fate, unkind, and even unfair as it might be.

Having seen the actual perspiration of the pain of disappointment stand out on his forehead when he lost to George Drew the Conservative leadership in the convention of 1948, you know just how intense the suffering will be if the night of November 8 turns out to be one of anguish.

★ ★ ★

Those who were there in Prince Albert the night the returns came in from the election two years ago will tell you it was a highly dramatic spectacle. There sat the railway car, blinds drawn, on the siding, with a television antenna on the roof bringing in the impossible news of disaster. There wasn't a sign of life for more than four hours, and it wasn't until near midnight that John Diefenbaker, ashen-faced and shaking with the shock and pain of disappointment, emerged, briefly, to publicly face the fact that he had become an ex-prime minister.

That a man in public life—who has served all his adult years in the national interest—can care this much is a rare and great gift to a nation.

So many leaders so often don't seem to as John Diefenbaker does.

Today In History

By The Canadian Press

A party of escaped Confederate soldiers raided the town of St. Alban's, Vt., 101 years ago today—in 1864—and returned to Canadian territory after robbing three banks and killing a bystander. It was not the first involvement of Canada in the American Civil War because agents of both sides were abundant in Canada and about 40,000 Canadians had enlisted in the Union armies. The raiders of St. Alban's appeared in court but Canadian judges refused to extradite them to the United States. Consequent resentment among Americans increased their desire to annex Canada.

1646—Lalande, a lay member of the Mohawk Mission, was murdered by Iroquois Indians.

1936—H. R. Ekins finished the fastest world circumnavigation to date (begun Sept. 30) by airship.

First World War: Fifty years ago today—In 1916—von Hindenburg's army advanced to within 12 miles of Riga; Italy declared war on Bulgaria; English and French soldiers arrived to garrison Salonika.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—two German raiders were shot down as London and the English Midlands were heavily bombed at night; about 50 Italians were killed and 400 wounded in a patrol battle on the Sudan-Eritrea border; Germany and Yugoslavia signed a new trade agreement.

Music Criticism Welcome

THE correspondence on music criticism is a healthy sign.

Mrs. Ohrt, in her letter, accuses me of insulting "our" years of hard work to develop a good orchestra. She also accuses me of inviting patronizing acceptance of poor performance and expresses the wish to be treated as an adult.

I believe she is tilting at the wrong windmill.

In my letter I welcomed criticism, being of the strong opinion that sugary praise, ill-deserved, is worse than destructive criticism which, if nothing else, tends to stimulate letters to the editor.

Mrs. Ohrt may not be aware that at the Sidney concert the cello section of six had, besides the leader, three children ages 16, 16 and 18 and one gentleman in his middle 70s. The symphony orchestra at best gets three full rehearsals for a performance but, in fact, due to the difficulties of getting together an amateur orchestra, the Sidney concert itself was the first time the full orchestra had played that particular program together.

So that fine an orchestra as ours may be, the advent of two full time professional orchestral musicians does not lift it out of the class of fundamentally amateur even though its standard of performance is heroic. It should, therefore, be criticised on that basis.

As to the soloist, Mrs. Ohrt in the same paragraph comments upon the sweetness of tone (an understatement if I ever heard one) and yet suggests that the applause was for effort rather than interpretation. The fact is that the interpretation was excellent even if the technique could be improved.

Which brings me to ask how Mrs. Ohrt knows what the soloist would be prepared to admit.

I, too, would thank Mr. Thomas, and indeed have done so personally, for his effort to bring life to his music criticism but must insist that in my view there was much to be enjoyed in the recent performance and he should have said so.

JOHN GRAEME,
990 Terrace Ave.

Needless Suffering

There is occasionally an advertisement in the newspaper which is disquieting to all who know what it may imply—"free kittens" or "mother cat and kittens." No stipulation as to what kind of homes are required. The idea seems to be: the kittens or puppies are a nuisance, get rid of them anyhow, anywhere! Could the advertisers foresee what will happen to many of these small creatures the most indifferent would be shocked.

Mauled and squeezed by mere infants who are far too young to handle "pets" other than wooly ones. To "use as dolls," to quote one caption, or the give-away may be cruelly used by older children. I have seen a kitten used as a ball, tossed back and forth, or nearly pulled asunder when two children grabbed it. When the little, tortured cat can stand no more and scratches the child, it is frequently thrown out to become one of the thousands of homeless outcasts which are such a problem to our humane societies. Much of this needless suffering stems from people's selfish laziness. Unwanted puppies and kittens can be drowned immediately after birth. The cruelty is in waiting for weeks, then deciding to drown the unwanted animal. Better still is to have all house pets neutered. Fees for the disposal of small animals are very moderate at the animal clinic and if even these are not forthcoming a call to one of the humane societies will bring a prompt call and they will see to it that no poor little unwanted will have to face the bitter life of "those who have no keeper."

Of those who abandon the superfluous pets, I had better not write. I am sure it would not be printed.

(Mrs.) LILIAN J. HEYWOOD,
2938 Tudor Road.

Heritage

I should like to commend Eileen Learoyd on her very fine article "Frustrated Canadians." I am only sorry that the article was relegated to page 20 of your edition.

I know that it is fashionable today to be anti-everything which has any connection with our British heritage but I feel that Canadians should be made aware of the trend which the Liberal Party is following in Ottawa. There is little doubt in my mind that their final goal is a republic. It should be borne in mind that Texas was a republic for two years before she was absorbed by the U.S. and history could very readily repeat itself.

I was unaware of many of the facts contained in Eileen Learoyd's article such as the suppression of the Canadian coat-of-armse on social security cards, the removal of the Canada customs from the caps of our customs officers and the suppression of "God Save the Queen" at the end of the CBC broadcasting. These are all trends which Canadians should be made aware of as I feel it might be too late if the Liberals continue in power.

I suppose I am one of those unwanted Canadians who remains proud of men like Fraser, Mackenzie and others who explored and developed this land of ours.

War on Poverty

The Liberal candidate, Mr. Groos, invited suggestions in a pamphlet some time ago. With your indulgence I should like to ask the aforementioned Mr. Groos a question or two.

I have always understood that under democratic government all persons are considered equal. How does the Liberal party reconcile the ruling that $6,000 of a member of Parliament's salary is exempt from income tax, while an old age pensioner and some employed persons are compelled to pay income tax on as little as $1,000 taxable income? Is this just or fair?

Mr. Pearson has declared war on poverty! I suppose doubling his own and members' salaries and giving them take-home pay to almost $18,000 per annum should keep them from the breadline. From reports I hear there are a number of retired civil servants who are receiving less than $300 per annum pension! To him that hath shall be given, etc., seems to be the motto of Mr. Pearson's cabinet.

HARRY J. SHIPMAN,

Decolonizing Problem

Freedom and Justice

By DR. ARNOLD TOYNBEE from London

THE ex-colonial West European powers have been abdicating since the end of the Second World War. To give up an empire over foreign peoples before being evicted by force was a new departure in the history of international relations, for the renunciation of power goes against the grain of human nature.

But the ex-colonial powers at least had one compensation in prospect. At the cost of divesting themselves of power, they were going, so they thought, to rid themselves of the toil and trouble of continuing to try to hold down by force foreign subjects of theirs who were "rightly struggling to be free." It therefore seemed reasonable to expect that, for the colonial powers themselves, abdication, though painful, would at least be easy, because they were setting out to give their subjects the very thing that these subjects were insistently demanding.

Yet in case after case, the liquidation of colonial rule has been proving more difficult and troublesome than the original establishment of it was.

The reasons for this are worth looking into, especially, perhaps, for the people of the United Kingdom: for Britain, who was the pioneer in decolonization, when she renounced her rule over India, Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon in 1947, is having today, more trouble in carrying the process through than any of the other ex-colonial powers. Rhodesia, South Arabia, Malaysia—the mere recital of these names calls up the sea of colonial troubles in which Britain is now floundering.

The problems created for a colonial power by the policy of decolonization are not unlike those a private individual meets when he makes his will. In the making of a will, it is generally recognized that, in principle, the testator should refrain, as far as possible, from trying to pre-determine what is to happen to his estate after his own demise. He should leave his heirs as free as possible from the incubus of his dead hand. The heirs have a right to be free, and the testator cannot foresee the future. Therefore, the testator should allow his heirs the maximum freedom of action.

But what is the limit of this maximum? The maximum is limited where there are more heirs than one, and where these several heirs have conflicting interests over the disposal of the estate. In this situation the testator does have a duty to limit his heirs' freedom by predetermining the disposal of his estate, in so far as this may be necessary in order to secure at least a minimum of justice as between one heir and another. This is a responsibility which the testator cannot escape, since the estate is at present in his hands.

In decolonization, the crux is the difficulty of striking the right balance between freedom and justice. There is no formula: in each separate case the right balance has to be found, ad hoc, by trial and error; and this process is inevitably costly.

Two cases in which Britain gave freedom without providing sufficiently for justice are the Sudan and the Indian sub-continent. The case of the Sudan is the clearest. In the Sudan the Muslim North is so much stronger than the pagan and Christian South that giving freedom to the Sudan has meant leaving the South at the North's mercy. In retrospect we can see that British policy in the Sudan was inconsequent. Before granting independence, we shielded the South against being penetrated and assimilated by the North, and thereby we enabled the South to begin to develop on separate lines of its own. Having done this, we ought surely to have given the South its independence as a separate state. Alternatively, if it was our intention ultimately to give independence to a unitary Sudan, we ought to have promoted the assimilation of the South by the North instead of hindering it.

In the Indian sub-continent Britain gave freedom to the Hindus, the Muslims, and the Burmese each to set up a separate successor-state of its own. We were grieved to see the breakup of the political unity that had been Britain's best gift to the sub-continent, and anxious (as it has turned out, with good reason) about the ulterior consequences of the breakup. At the same time, we felt that it was wrong, and probably futile, to try to impose the maintenance of a political unity that the people themselves did not want. In this, we were surely right—as is indicated by the collapse of our attempts to impose an unwanted unity in Central Africa, South Arabia, and Malaysia.

Where we went wrong in our dispositions for setting the Indian sub-continent free was in failing to make enough provision for justice. Before evacuating the sub-continent, we ought to have ensured that members of the respective minorities who wished to migrate to the other side of the new frontiers should be able to migrate without mutual massacre.

We ought also have ensured that the political destiny of all territories in the Indian sub-continent was settled before we withdrew. Instead, we left the destiny of Hyderabad State and Kashmir State still undecided. The consequence was that, in both these cases, the decision was made by force after our departure. The military decision in Hyderabad coincided with the wishes of the Hindu majority of the local population. The military decision in Kashmir did not coincide with the wishes of the Muslim majority there. In Kashmir, the result of our failure to ensure in advance that justice should be done has been a feud between Pakistan and India that recently broke out into open war.

The cases of the Indian sub-continent and the Sudan are highly pertinent to the case of Rhodesia, which is the thorniest decolonization problem with which Britain is confronted today. The government of the United Kingdom is surely right in taking the stand that independence for Rhodesia must be independence for the Rhodesian people as a whole, and that therefore the political rights of the huge African majority of the population must be guaranteed in advance. We should be failing to act up to our responsivility if we were voluntarily to abandon the majority, without guarantees to the minority's mercy.

But, in our present dealings with the white minority in Rhodesia, we are paying for a political mistake we made long ago, when we handed over to this minority the government of the country. African majority and all. This was a grave error of political judgment. We ought never to have put the government of Rhodesia in the hands of a minority that was one of the parties to the case in the racial issue.

It is true that we did not give the white minority dominion status, not to speak of independence. But we did give it so much power, in spite of its being only a minority, that it has come to feel it to be its prescriptive right to perpetuate its minority rule after Rhodesia has become independent. The consequence is that, in Africa today, Rhodesia is as full of dynamite as Kashmir is in Asia.

Whatever may be the outcome of the present conflict between the people of Britain and the Rhodesian whites, Britain's reason for opposing the white minority's is a genuine and justified concern for the future of the African majority.

In the trouble that Britain is now incurring in Rhodesia, she is seeking nothing for herself. By contrast, Britain's present policy in Southern Arabia and in Malaysia is not disinterested. It is being complicated and bedevilled by a concern to rig the grant of independence in such a way as to secure the continued retention, by Britain, of the British bases at Aden and at Singapore.

A policy that aims at retaining bases is a policy of continued colonialism under the disguise of decolonization. The disguise is transparent; and, if the British government is determined to try to perpetuate its colonial rule in these two cases, it would be more honest and honorable to be frank about this. At the same time, if it is true that the retention of these two bases is the British government's policy, this policy is surely both mistaken in itself and unfortunate in its effects on local British policy.

Experience has already shown that, when a colonial power denies genuine self-determination to a subject people for the sake of maintaining a base in that people's territory, the local hostility which this policy arouses turns the base into a military liability instead of a military asset. The British bases in Cyprus, for instance, have been useless to Britain and always will be. The British base at Aden is now being similarly sterilized by current British policy in South Arabia. We must expect to see the same fate overtake the British base at Singapore sooner or later.

It is sometimes argued in Britain that the local population will wish Britain to retain these bases because the bases give remunerative local employment. This might be true if the economic advantage were not accompanied by unpopular political conditions. But it is one of the laws of human nature that, when a community's economic interests conflict with its political aspirations, it invariably gives its political aspirations priority. Trieste's insistence on being incorporated politically in Italy is a classic case. British statesmen ought to take this point to heart.

Peace Marches

Aides, LBJ Upset

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, federal officials and a dozen senators expressed concern Monday that anti-war and anti-draft demonstrations across the United States may undermine peace efforts in southeast Asia.

At the Capitol, Senator Thomas H. Kuchel, assistant Republican leader from California, declared that protesters who burn draft cards and feign illness to escape military service are "sowing the seeds of treason."

President Johnson, recuperating at Bethesda Naval Hospital, expressed concern that weekend demonstrations in a score of American cities may cause Peking and Hanoi "to miscalculate American unity and determination."

ANOTHER MARCH

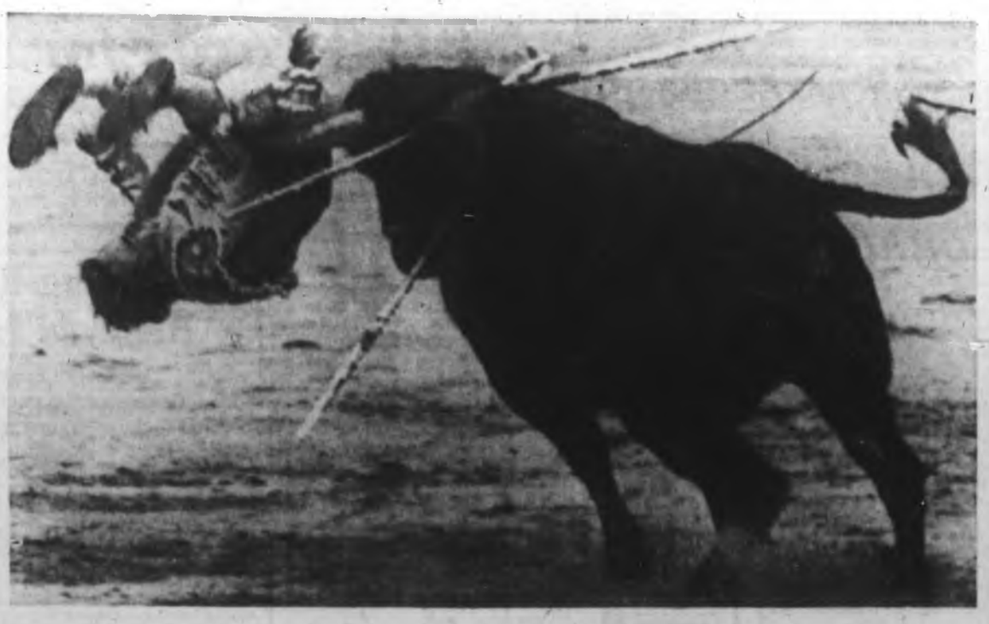

Even as the criticism poured forth with virtually no dissent, plans were announced here and in New York for another mass protest march in the federal capital, and the FBI made its first arrest under a new law prohibiting the destruction of draft cards.

The White House press secretary, Bill Moyers, told reporters at Bethesda hospital the president endorsed a justice department investigation of whether Communists are involved in the parades and picket processions.

ORGANIZERS

In New York, Donald Keys, executive director of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, said his organization plans a Nov. 27 march of perhaps 20,000 persons from the White House to the Washington Monument.

Among those sponsoring the march, Keys said, are novelists Saul Bellow and John Hersey, playwright Arthur Miller, James Farmer, head of the Congress of Racial Equality and Dr. Albert D. Sabin, who developed an anti-polio vaccine.

Cong Opens New Attack

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas, operating in battalion strength and attacking with mortars, appeared Monday to be stepping up their campaign to seize effective control of South Viet Nam's rice bowl—the sweltering Mekong River Delta.

Attacks on 10 South Vietnamese government military posts and watchtowers in the last few days indicated the Viet Cong strategy may be switching from seeking to expand Viet Cong influence in the Central Highlands to a drive for further control in the south.

Winters to Be In Cabinet?

HALIFAX (CP)—Robert H. Winters, Liberal candidate for York West in the Nov. 8 federal election, said here Monday it is a "reasonable conjecture" that he will be a cabinet minister if he wins and the Liberals form the next government.

The business executive and former cabinet minister told a press conference at the airport here that "there were no deals made with anybody" for a cabinet post.

* * *

He said he had re-entered politics because he had been urged to do so by Prime Minister Pearson and other friends.

Mr. Winters said if he were elected and appointed to the cabinet he would resign his various positions in business, including the chairmanship of the British Newfoundland Corp.

Canada's Biggest Riding

Electioneering Giant Job

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

TORONTO — They campaign in a big way in Scarborough.

They have to, if they're going to have any chance at all of winning.

For by long odds it's the country's biggest riding, and nothing les than the giant-economy-size in electioneering will even come close.

Scarborough has 96,000 households, 320,000 residents, about 200,000 voters, represented in Parliament by one member.

CANVASSERS UNKNOWN

"I've got canvassers working for me I've never met," says Edward G. Phillips, the 24-year-old professional enginer flying the NDP banner and directing a campaign force that now tops 1,000 and will double before election day.

"Who can keep track?" says Frank McGee, Conservative winner in three of four previous campaigns. "Who knows exactly how many women are addressing envelopes at some mailing bee in Don Mills, or how many others are busy on the phone? A thousand, fifteen hundred, maybe more."

100,000 DOORS

Come redistribution — why it hasn't come already is a key factor in the campaign — it will be broken up into four new ridings with enough left over to help make up a fifth.

But for this election, the candidates must still try the impossible — knocking on nearly 100,000 doors.

In this riding, even organizing the organizers is a giant job.

The Liberal candidate, newcomer Robert Stanbury, a young lawyer who makes no secret of running scared, claims he has 2,000 volunteers knocking on doors, hosting coffee parties, working the phone and canvassing the supermarkets, with another 1,000 set for the final fortnight's blitz.

The Conservatives have put Scarborough at the top of the list of four Toronto-Metro seats they already claim as theirs.

Among the several things that Frank McGee has going for him is experience.

This is his fifth campaign, and so he knows the riding like his own backyard, and as many of its always-changing 200,000 voters as he possibly could get to meet through eight years and four elections.

"McGee—a good MP"—that's his slogan.

Just plain McGee.

And not "the Honorable" that his short tenure as a Diefenbaker cabinet minister entitles him to use.

Frank McGee's young, pleasantly handsome face creases in a self-conscious grin when you mention that "Honorable," and you get the idea that he may have felt it a bit of a drag and took a little good-natured kidding about it.

NEWSPAPER MAN

If he was as well known before as a politician can hope to get in populous Scarborough, he has become a lot better known as a Toronto newspaper man and CBC public affairs host since his '63 defeat.

His victor in that election, Maurice Moreau, displayed the Liberals this time by bowing out.

The general problem is one of candidate identification.

And the strategy is what they call the "visual campaign."

But it isn't easy.

Militia Mess Served Garbage

PLYMOUTH, England (UPI) — A soldier on K.P. walked into a regimental dinner of officers at a Royal Marine commando unit and dumped a bucket of garbage on the table.

"It was not the kind of thing that happens every day," Lt. Col. S. D. Smith, commanding officer, told newsmen. "Some time ago this man had been sent to a psychiatrist because he was acting oddly. He is now in a hospital."

Needs Lesson

VANCOUVER (CP) — An 11-year-old boy was charged with reckless driving and careless driving following a wild seven-block chase in Vancouver. Police said the boy, driving his father's car, went through three stop signs and sideswiped a parked car as he reached speeds of 50 miles an hour.

Laing Looks North

Panhandle Link Urged

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Federal Northern Affairs Minister Laing Monday called for expansion of communications systems and access routes through the Alaska Panhandle to northwestern British Columbia.

"I was encouraged . . . to note the recommendation of a group of U.S. Republican congressmen that arrangements should be made as soon as possible to facilitate such access," Laing said. "I have no doubt beneficial consequences would flow (to both Canada and the U.S.) from such a scheme."

HIGHWAY WORK

He also said he hoped "arrangements for upgrading the standard of the Alaska Highway can one day be made" to facilitate access between Alaska and the rest of the U.S.

"My department is expecting a report prepared by the Stanford Research Institute within two or three months which will have a great deal to say about this subject, and we will also have under evaluation a study undertaken by the department of public works of Canada with respect to access to the Yukon through northern B.C.," he said.

The study will take into account more than one possible routing," the minister said.

RAIL ROUTE

Laing also praised the Canadian National Railways for "undertaking at the request of my department a study of a possible rail route in the Yukon from tidewater to the enormous iron deposits on the Snake River."

And Laing reiterated the shortage of fresh water in the more densely populated parts of the continent could be "solved by adequate planning and control. The solution is not to look suddenly at Canada as a potential source of unlimited quantities of fresh water which can be tapped at any time."

He was referring to the so-called North American water and power alliance scheme, which would store water in B.C., the Yukon and Alaska for distribution to southern areas of the continent.

Doyle Says Charges 'Hogwash'

TORONTO (CP) — The Telegram quotes multi-millionaire promoter John C. Doyle as saying that allegations by Dr. Guy Marcoux of bribery attempts in The Affair of The Six are "hogwash without a grain of truth."

Mr. Doyle is quoted in a Montreal interview as saying that Dr. Marcoux published the allegations in a pamphlet last week "because he is trying to get himself elected."

SUPPORT PLEDGE

Dr. Marcoux, Social Credit member of the last two Parliaments and independent candidate in the Nov. 8 election, alleged bribe offers and Liberal intrigue were involved in a pledge to back the Liberals signed after the 1963 election by six Social Credit MPs, thus helping the Liberals oust the Diefenbaker government.

Dr. Marcoux's pamphlet said Hubert Ducharme, described as Mr. Doyle's lawyer, went to Montreal's Dorval Airport with the pledge of allegiance and joined Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland, J. W. Pickersgill, now federal transport minister, Mr. Doyle and others who were waiting in Mr. Doyle's private plane. Mr. Ducharme then went on to Quebec City.

The Telegram quotes Mr. Doyle as denying that either Mr. Smallwood or Mr. Pickersgill was aboard his private plane.

Incubator to 'Freedom'

Infant Boy Flees Cuba

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Communist Cuba lost dozens of its children, including a 16-day-old boy, to freedom Monday in a swelling exodus of refugees crossing the choppy Florida Straits in small boats.

Little Juan Gerardo Hernandez, weighing only four and one-half pounds, arrived cradled in the arms of his mother, Melba, aboard the 26-foot boat El Terrible that made it to Marathon north of here.

"I took him out of an incubator in a Havana hospital and took a chance he would make it here okay because I want my son to grow up in a free country," said the infant's father, Gerardo Hernandez.

Hernandez said doctors at the Havana maternity hospital where he went to collect his wife and children, including a five-year old daughter, opposed removal of the baby on medical grounds.

"They made me sign a release assuming all responsibility," the father said.

In Washington, Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. Ambassador to the Organization of American States, reported to the OAS on the dangers being risked by the Cuban small boat emigrants.

'Yukon' Bud Fisher

B.C.-Alaska Ferries Good for Tourists

The Yukon Territory is extremely interested in helping promote the B.C. ferry system from Kelsey Bay to Prince Rupert, Yukon Bud Fisher said Monday.

"The new system will bring more tourists than ever to the territory," he said.

Mr. Fisher is a member of the Yukon's department of travel and publicity.

MEETINGS PLANNED

He arrived in Victoria Monday on a combination business trip and holiday. While here he will meet Victoria publicity men, and also visit his two daughters up-Island.

He said the Yukon is interested in promoting tourism in a co-operative effort with B.C. and Alaska.

QUICK ROUTE

Tourists will be able, with the new ferry service, to go from Vancouver Island to Prince Rupert, transfer to the Alaska ferry, land at Haines, Alaska, and drive 250 miles over a good road to Whitehorse.

"The Haines cutoff is one of the routes gold-seekers took into the Klondike," he said.

TOURISTS INCREASE

He said approximately 100,000 tourists visited the Yukon Territory this year, which is an increase of 26 per cent over last year.

Asked what he thought of a new B.C. ferry route working in conjunction with the Alaska Ferries to haul freight into the north country, he said, "It has great possibilities."

LOWER FOOD COSTS

"Delivery time would be cut almost in half," he said. "This could lead to lower food costs."

Meanwhile, Monty Aldous, general manager of the B.C. Ferry Authority, told delegates to the sixth annual Alaska Chamber of Commerce meeting at Ketchikan Friday, that daily ferry service between B.C. and Alaska's southeast marine highway is less than a year away.

He said the Kelsey Bay-Prince Rupert ferry service would have Rupert ferry service would have economy of northwestern British Columbia.

Hospital Projects Unveiled by Martin

Plan development of two hospital projects in Vancouver was announced Monday by Health Minister Martin.

One is a new 240-bed children's hospital adjacent to Vancouver General Hospital; the other is expansion of St. Vincent's Hospital, incorporating a nursing home, psychiatric, rehabilitative and intensive care facilities for 118 patients.

Mr. Martin's announcement of approval in principle to the projects gave the hospital boards authority to proceed with sketch plans, cost estimates and financing.

Eskimo Joins Council

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP) — Abraham Okpik, the first Eskimo to be named to the Northwest Territories Council, warned his new colleagues Monday that he intends to pull no punches in his new job.

"I want no favors from you because of my origin," Mr. Okpik told council as it opened a special session to draft a brief to the advisory council on the development of government in the territories.

"I will express my convictions and be ready to criticize what I think should be criticized," he said.

Fluent in English, Mr. Okpik has worked as a translator for the northern affairs department. He now is a liaison officer for the department in Yellowknife helping Eskimo miners and their families adjust to living in an urban environment.

Mr. Okpik was born in a tent in Aklavik, one of the few northern settlements where Indians and Eskimos mingle.

On Bicycle

Boy, 10 Hurt By Car

A 10-year-old boy is in St. Joseph's Hospital in fair condition after a collision with a car Sunday afternoon.

Saanich police said Darrel Strangahan, of 4119 Holland, came down the driveway at 3852 Wilkinson on his bicycle onto Wilkinson Road.

His bicycle struck the right front of a car driven by Leon Mollin, 154 Linden.

The boy was taken to hospital suffering from shock, a skull fracture and a fracture of the left collarbone.

4-H Awards for Saanich

Achievement presentations were made to members of two Saanich 4-H clubs over the weekend with 4-H supervisor for southern Vancouver Island Ken Jameson of Duncan handing out the awards.

The first three winners, for Saanich 4-H club, Eileen Hoskin, Allen Looy and Richard Michell received their awards at the club's annual banquet at the Farmers' Pavilion, Saanichton Experimental Farm.

Mr. Jameson told club members they were fortunate in having Joseph Taylor as their adult leader. Mr. Taylor is one of two farmers who last August represented British Columbia on an exchange trip to Ontario.

Also attending the banquet were assistant supervisor of 4-H clubs in B.C., Wayne Wickems and Mrs. Wickems.

An annual achievement tea was held at St. Stephen's church Hall, Saanich for members of the 4-H Home Arts Club who received their awards, ribbons, badges and certificates from Mr. Jameson.

First three winners in the club's A group were Heather Lord, June Simmonds, Jean Lord; in B group—Corinne Jack, Darlene Jack and Selena Kelly.

Special guests were Gordon Landon, director of extension of the provincial government of agriculture and Mrs. Landon.

Nova Scotia

Pirate Isle Probed

HALIFAX (CP) — A Halifax lawyer and author who spent three years studying Nova Scotia's famed Oak Island says he is convinced that a shaft found on the island is of pirate origin.

Dr. Reginald V. Harris told a Halifax service club Monday of pirate raids conducted in the West Indies in the late 1600s and early 1700s. He said there was overwhelming evidence was overwhelming evidence that the pirates knew their way to and around the Nova Scotia coast.

Dr. Harris is author of the book Oak Island Mystery.

The Oak Island shaft or money pit was discovered in 1795 by three boys. Scores of attempts to bring up treasure, connected by legend with Captain Kidd, have failed.

Four men hunting for treasure were overcome by gas and died in a 27-foot shaft this summer.

Latest to try his hand is California geologist Robert Dunfield. He plans to go after the treasure with huge digging apparatus.

'Cold Pill' Answer To Sniffs?

CHICAGO (AP) — An antiviral pill may replace the vitamin pill as the most promising pellet for warding off the common cold.

A medical researcher said Sunday some anti - viral compounds he and his associates now are testing have shown promising results in tissue-culture tests in inhibiting the action of rhinoviruses, one of the principal causes of common cold symptoms.

Dr. Jack M. Gwaltney said, in a talk and interview at the annual convention of the Association of Teachers of Preventive Medicine, that chemical prevention rather than chemical treatment may be necessary with many illnesses caused by viruses.

Third Richest Woman?

'Give Queen Raise'

LONDON (UPI) — A London newspaper Monday suggested that Queen Elizabeth, reputed to be one of the richest women in the world, should get more money from the British government to pay her housekeeping and entertaining expenses.

The Sunday Express carried a special article headlined "it's time the Queen had a pay rise."

It said that her income from the state to run her palaces in England and Scotland and entertain royal and state visitors hasn't increased by a penny over the past 13 years while expenses have gone up.

The royal household is known to own vast property holdings but the full extent of the Queen's financial worth has never been officially revealed.

Said the Sunday Express:

"You may say that the fall in the value of the Queen's official income is of little account since she is already one of the richest women in the world.

how many reasons do you have for an extra phone?

Time was when members of a family conducted their affairs on the telephone quickly and, just as quickly got off. But not any more. Today, there seems to be so much to say and by so many.

Perhaps the talkingest people in the world are the younger set. That's why, when the line up starts (as above) it's time to put in a second line. It's no longer a luxury—sometimes it's sheer necessity!

Busy families find that one of the best ways to assure domestic harmony is to add a "Children's Phone." It can even be listed that way in the telephone directory and have a distinct ringing sound of it's own too.

If you're on a party line, maybe it's time to take the pressure off by switching to a private line. You'll wonder how you ever got along without it before.

Count up the reasons you have for an extra line, then call your B.C. TEL Business Office for full information today.

And here's a special cost-saving hint:
Many residential services such as private lines, extensions, bell chimes, and others, can all be included in the one installation charge while the telephone man is at your home.

Monday Is Record Day At New York

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market spurted to historic closing highs in the popular averages repeating its performance of last Monday when all these indicators were in gear.

Trading was heavy, with volume at 8,210,000 shares compared with 7,480,000 Friday.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 5.16 to a record close of 945.84, bettering its previous high of 942.65 Oct. 11.

Among heavily traded issues, Fairchild Camera rose 5⅝, Packard Bell 2, Raytheon 1¼, Varian Associates 1¼, Allis-Chalmers ⅝, Polaroid 2½, Pan American Sulphur 1¼ and General Tire 1⅜.

Speculators Subdued

VANCOUVER — Speculators were subdued and many mining issues closed lower. New Imperial dropped to 1.52, Silver Standard to 1.18, and Croyden to .62.

Scott Paper rose to 21⅛ but other paper stocks were depressed.

Moore Corp Rises

MONTREAL (CP) — Industrials and metals were higher but most other sections were off.

Moore Corp. jumped 2⅞ points to 80¼ and Dominion Textile ¼ to 32½. Chemcell and CIL each rose ⅛ to 15⅝ and 19⅝ respectively.

Senior oils were up. Home and Imperial each added ⅛ to 18⅝ and 55 respectively. Husky gained ¼ to 13¼.

Strong Metals

TORONTO (CP)—Prices were higher in all sections.

Denison Mines was up 1¼ to 40 while Roman Corp. was up 35 cents to 8.75.

Rio Algom was ahead ⅝ to 20⅝.

Cominco tacked on ⅞ while CPR, which controls Cominco, was up ⅛ to 69¼. Falconbridge advanced ½ to 17, Noranda ¼ at 49⅝ and Lake Dufault ¼ to 14.

Professional Help Needed for Tax

BY HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

If you are an amateur in the perfectly honest pastime of trying to pay the legal minimum of taxation you may lose unless you call in pro help.

Reg Kayler, executive director of the Life Underwriters Association of Canada, told members of the local life chapter in Victoria last night that the ground rules were always changing and that every Canadian with an estate should make sure regularly that he keeps "rolling with the tax punch."

"Otherwise a complete knock-out is highly likely" he said.

KEEP PUNCHING

To make sure that advantage is taken to soften the tax blow wherever possible Mr. Kayler said the tax fighter should have his lawyer, his accountant, his trust officer, his life underwriter and his banker all in his corner.

"Listen to what they tell you, keep your guard up and keep punching" he said.

MANY WAYS

There are many ways in which Canadians may legitimately ease their tax problems.

"What was an up-to-date estate policy a year ago may be obsolete today" he said.

"How many people know that the ceiling on registered retirement plans has been raised to payments of $2,500 or 20 per cent of income? he asked.

Mr. Kayler's last visit to Victoria was in connection with life insurance company opposition to the Canada Pension plan some two or three years ago.

NEW PLAN

"As a result of our efforts, some of the objectionable features were removed from the new national plan which goes into effect next January" he said.

But he pointed out that the new plan would not be fair for one and all, even in its amended form.

YOUNG PAY

He noted that people of 55 years making the maximum payments of $158 a year, would pay in $1,580 by the time they were 65. In return they would be entitled to $104 a month as long as they lived.

"If this person lives to be 85 he will have collected $25,000 for his $1,580 investment." said Mr. Kayler.

Who pays for it?

The younger pensioners, of course.

At the meeting five local life underwriters were presented with their University of Toronto five year course CLU degrees.

They were Eric Clarke, Jack Homes, Len Nyquist, Dave Peddle, and Dick Prette.

As a move to strengthen its cash resources Union Acceptance Corporation has announced it will not pay the normal Jan. 1 dividends on its common and second preferred shares.

Union has paid 15 cents quarterly since Oct. 1964, and previously made payments at lower rates.

PROPHET OF DOOM

MacMillan chairman J. R. Clyne is getting the credit for pulling out the props from under the market values of Canadian pulp and paper stocks.

The top man of B.C.'s top lumber firm sounded like a prophet of doom in his meeting with New York stock analysts last week.

MANY HURT

Reiterating his annual report comments, Mr. Clyne said that many would get hurt in the next few years as new pulp and paper construction brought about a world surplus of pulp products.

"We feel that Mr. Clyne is strictly correct," said one local dealer. "There's little doubt that there will be an oversupply just as there was in the late 1950s, but the way we see it Mr. Clyne is using this method as a weapon to discourage other companies in their construction plans."

He noted that over-production threat was not discouraging MacMillan from going ahead with its $100,000,000 expansion program at Powell River.

Crash Douglas Party

RCMP Intruders Admit Stupidity

VANCOUVER (CP) — The RCMP apologized Monday for what it said appeared to be a "Stupid Mistake" by two officers who invaded a celebration for T. C. Douglas, national New Democratic Party leader, Saturday night.

Superintendent J. J. Atherton, in charge of the RCMP in the Vancouver area, said there was no deliberate attempt to embarrass anybody at the celebration marking Mr. Douglas' 30 years in politics.

The two officers, from a detachment in the neighboring New Westminster, entered the Showmart building of the Pacific National Exhibition.

NDP officials said the constables told them they had a warrant for the arrest of a bartender. The officials said the warrant apparently dealt with a traffic charge.

HEAD TABLE

A member of Mr. Douglas' staff said he does not know whether Mr. Douglas noticed the officers, although one had walked across the dance floor in front of the head table at which the NDP leader was seated.

Other guests at the table included Woodrow Lloyd, CCF opposition leader in Saskatchewan, Howard Green, former Conservative external affairs minister, and M. J. Coldwell, who headed the former national CCF party.

The police constables stayed for 10 minutes and left after walking through the hall in search for the man. He was not there.

Supt. Atherton was asked in an interview whether it was usual for constables to enter such a gathering on such a mission.

"I tell you it was most unusual and most improper and this seems to be a stupid mistake. We have no excuses to offer."

He said the RCMP apologizes for the action of the men, immediately adding there was certainly no deliberate attempt to embarrass anyone.

He said he was continuing an investigation into the incident.

OTTAWA PROTEST

Ernest Hall, provincial secretary of the NDP, said he was grateful for Supt. Atherton's statement.

But he said "for the record" a protest will be sent to George McClelland, RCMP commissioner in Ottawa, and Atarney-General Bonner.

The protest would say that the NDP does not question the right of the police to do their duty.

But it did protest the "inexcusable" manner in which the two constables did their duty Saturday night.

EMBARRASSED

John McNaven, liquor committee chairman for the celebration, said:

"If they intended to embarrass us, or embarass Mr. Douglas, they couldn't have done it more beautifully."

Rambler Classic '66

the one car for the one-car family!

Classic—770 2-Door Hardtop

"Hey, it looks great! How about things that don't show?"

The '66 Classic's quality—like every Rambler—goes deep beneath that handsome surface. You'll discover fittings and appointments that result from thoughtful craftsmanship. And the built-in features that make Rambler another word for value. Like Single Unit Construction (an all-welded body) that means no bolts and no rattles—just a solid car of solid worth! This feature and many more—add up to family-minded quality you've never experienced before!

"What do you mean by a family-minded car?"

Just this: the Rambler Classic was designed from the start for family use with lots of interior room, bags of luggage space and lots of power. What else? Economy! In maintenance, in running costs, and, above all in terms of actual price! That's what we mean by a family-minded car!

Options?

Rambler Classic's got plenty on both counts, in motors we've got 2 new 7-main-bearing, Torque Command 6's (the 6's that act like 8's), a powerful 198 h.p. V8. In options we've got more than any one man can want! A long list of 72 (yes, seventy-two) with everything from complete power equipment (steering, brakes, windows) to reclining bucket seats. You'll have no trouble dressing up your Rambler Classic to suit your own particular needs.

"I'm sold...you're the one car maker that talks my language!"

Prince Charles to Turn Cowboy

LONDON — Prince Charles, teen-age heir to the British throne, will attend a rough-and-tumble boys school in Australian bush country next year, says Buckingham Palace.

Charles — who now may take his place in history books as "the Cowboy Prince" — will swap his school blazer for a wide rimmed bush hat, jeans and open-necked shirts. He will join other students in herding cattle and sheep at the frontier-type school.

The decision to send him to Australia was seen as an expression of the increasing awareness by the Royal Family of the changing nature of the British Commonwealth.

Charles will study for three-and-a-half months at the school.

The change in schools was viewed as an effort to make him a citizen of the British Commonwealth in the coming era when the United Kingdom is not likely to dominate the relationship as it has in the past.

Market Solution Sought

STRASBOURG, France, (UPI) —The European Parliamentary Assembly agreed Monday on a full-fledged debate Wednesday on the common market crisis sparked by France.

Sources said at the conclusion of the common market debate the assembly will pass a motion containing a "solemn appeal" to the community's member governments and institutions to seek an early solution to the crisis.

The deadlock started June 30 when France decreed a crippling boycott of the community's main organs claiming, among other things, that chairman Walter Hallstein's executive commission was overstepping its powers.

Observers doubted the French government would try to clarify its position on the impasse during the assembly debate. The assembly has only consultative powers over the activity of the common market, Euratom and coal-steel communities.

The overwhelming majority of the assembly's groups were known to be hostile to the French stalling tactics.

Meanwhile in Paris Dutch ambssador Baron Adolph Bentinck conferred Monday with President de Gaulle on the present chances of a solution of the four-month-old market crisis, informed western diplomatic sources said.

Mother Held In Deaths Of Children

LAUREL, Md. (AP) —The four children of a former Kansas congressman were found fatally shot Monday. Their mother was charged with murder and held without bail.

The victims were children of Denver D. Hargis, 44, of Vienna, Va., and his wife, Charleen June Hargis, 37. A Democrat, Hargis represented the third district of Kansas in the House of Representatives in 1959-60.

Maryland state police found the bodies of Sandra Hargis, 12; Michael, 8, and Brenda, 2, in two bedrooms of the Fox Rest Apartments, three miles east of Laurel, which is midway between Baltimore and Washington.

The fourth child, Debra, 5, died en route to hospital. Police said all four had been shot in the head as they slept.

On 'Non-Christian'

Pope Speeds New Declaration

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul endorsed Monday the Roman Catholic council declaration on the Jews and ordered it officially proclaimed a church decree Oct. 28, three weeks earlier than expected.

The pontiff demonstrated the importance he attaches to the document, approved by the ecumenical council last week, by brushing aside technical considerations that might have delayed its promulgation as a decree binding on the world's 500,000,000 Roman Catholics.

WIDE APPROVAL

Cardinals, patriarchs, archbishops and bishops from around the world approved the final text of the document Friday. It declares that all Jews cannot be blamed for the crucifixion of Christ and deplores all forms of discrimination, particularly anti-Semitism.

The documents — titled "On the church's attitude toward non-Christians"—is not confined to Jews alone. It alludes to the crusades against Islam in the Middle Ages and asks that the bloody past be forgotten. It also mentions Buddhism and Hinduism, saying Roman Catholicism "rejects nothing that is true and holy" in other religions.

UNIQUE STAND

Never before in its 2,000-year history has the Roman Catholic church taken such a positive stand on non-Christian religions.

The drafting of the document was not easy. Conservative bishops from Europe and prelates from the Middle East objected to its treatment of the Jewish religion. The version finally approved, by a vote of 1,763 to 250, was the fourth put before the council.

Prostitutes Murdered

Paris Police Hold Suspect

PARIS (UPI) — Police Monday night charged a man with murdering one of three prostitutes killed in seamy hotels during the past week.

The police, who had sent reinforcements into the night-life districts of Paris to search for the killer, would not give any details. He was being questioned at police headquarters.

More than 500 persons have been questioned in connection with the cases. Scores of girls reported seeing the killer, believed to be a tourist, and said they spoke to him in the bars of the Pigalle and Porte St. Denis quarters.

CHIEF CLUE

Apart from a vague description that could fit dozens of tourists, one of the chief clues came from a hotel chambermaid who heard the killer leave his last rendezvous.

"Au revoir, my sweet, until the next time," he called as he left a hotel on the Place Pigalle, Sunday afternoon.

In the bedroom police found 36-year-old Ginette Lambry, known as Sandra. She had been attacked and murdered.

'FELT UNEASY'

The three killings bore the same trademarks. The first two victims were picked up in the Porte St. Denis area and were attacked and murdered within a few hours of each other. Ginette Lambry was picked up outside a Pigalle bar after two other girls refused to go with the suspected killer.

One, who identified herself as Sophie, said: "I felt uneasy . . . He was too different." The other, who calls herself Nadia, added, "He made me afraid . . . He had a funny look."

Six prostitutes have been murdered in London in the past two years by a killer known as "Jack the Stripper." He is still at large, but there was nothing to link the Paris cases with the London murders.

They laughed when they saw a Scot start to make gin.

He smiled.

In 1769, all London had a great laugh at the idea of a Scot trying to beat the English at their own game. Making gin.

But Alexander Gordon was a spirited man. With a line of spirited ancestors that reached clear back into Scottish antiquity.

And so, while London laughed, he smiled a knowing smile.

The rest is history—how a Scot made English gin famous the world over.

Today, Gordon's is the best-selling gin in the world. Because Gordon's descendants are as canny as he was.

Nobody but Gordon's makes Gordon's Gin, no matter where it's made—and it's made in nine different countries, including Canada.

The exact and original formula is never varied for any reason whatsoever. Ever.

And nobody but Gordon's can approve the finished gin for bottling.

Now, some people won't understand all this fuss about making good gin. But you understand, don't you? You like gin. So do we.

Lions' Fate Balances On Dates with Riders

OTTAWA — B.C. Lions play Ottawa Rough Riders here tonight, but their chances of making a playoff spot in the Western Football Conference almost certainly rest on a game at home next Sunday.

No matter how they fare against Ottawa tonight, the beleaguered Lions could still clinch third place by beating Saskatchewan Roughriders at home Sunday. Win that one, and they could even afford the luxury of losing their last game to Calgary Oct. 31 in Vancouver.

This is the way it works out: Calgary and Winnipeg Blue Bombers are sure of playoff spots. The Lions and Saskatchewan share third place with 13 points, but the Lions have three games left to two for the Riders.

A win tonight would, of course, be a big help. But if the Lions win only next Sunday's game they would finish with 15 points. Riders, whose other game is against Edmonton, could then do no better than tie them for third, and Lions would take the playoff berth because of a better league record against the Riders.

Tonight's game will be televised live on Channel 8 and broadcast on CKNW (980) starting at 5 p.m., according to network reports.

The clubs have played twice, the Lions winning once, and one game ending in a tie.

And if Saskatchewan was to win that Sunday game? The Lions don't like to even think about it, but they must.

If Lions lost tonight and Sunday, they would then have to hope Saskatchewan will lose to Edmonton Oct. 30, then go out themselves and beat the Stamps the next day. That would leave Lions and Riders tied in points and with an identical 1-1-1 record against each other, but Lions would win it on their points for and against record.

TO BE SURE

If Lions win tonight, they would still have to win Sunday to be positive of a playoff berth.

So it all boils down to that game Sunday, and though the Lions will be going full out tonight, they'll have to be looking ahead.

They go into tonight's game without defensive end Dick Fouts, halfback Ron Morris, and offensive tackle Bob Oetting, who suffered torn knee ligaments in Sunday's game in Hamilton.

OWN REASONS

Meanwhile, the Ottawa Rough Riders trail first-place Hamilton by four points, and have only three games left.

Oh, yes, there is one other aspect to the western game of ifs.

If Winnipeg could beat Edmonton Saturday, beat the Stamps next Wednesday, then have the Stamps lose that game to the Lions, the Bombers could tie Calgary for first place—and get the bye into the final because they would have a 2-1 record against the Stamps.

No Rap on Kapp From B.C. Coach

HAMILTON—B.C. Lions, their offence still sputtering and misfiring, took a 25-7 licking from Hamilton Tiger-Cats here Sunday, and coach Dave Skrien immediately sprang to the defence of his quarterback, Joe Kapp.

Kapp has been severely criticized for his tendency to ignore the ground game and depend on his passing arm. Sunday, for example, Willie Fleming carried the ball only four times.

"Kapp has done a fine job for us," Skrien insisted. "But too many of his passes have been dropped. It must be discouraging for him, but he has played his heart out every game."

Skrien did say, however, that much of his club's trouble against Hamilton appeared to be "a matter of play selection."

GHOST OF PAST

Another mess of trouble for Lions came in the form of Hal Patterson.

Playing only his second game since coming out of retirement, Patterson made a falling circus catch for a fourth-quarter touchdown pass that put the Ti-Cats out of reach.

Another touchdown was scored on a running play that covered 44 yards, with quarterback Frank Cosentino lateralling to halfback Willie Bethea. Early, Cosentino had passed 48 yards to flanker Tommy Grant for a touchdown. Don Sutherin got the other points on a 48-yard field goal, tree converts and a single.

EARLY SCORE

Lions got their touchdown early in the first quarter on a 24-yard pass from Kapp to Peter Kempf, but Kapp, harrassed all day, completed only 13 of 31 attempts, and the ground game was good for only 35 yards.

Meanwhile, Winnipeg Blue Bombers were clinching a playoff spot in Regina with a 17-0 victory over a sad-looking bunch of Roughriders before the largest crowd of the season—17,919—at Taylor Field.

Bombers got their first touchdown from Art Perkins on a drive that started on a Saskatchewan fumble on a punt return, and another on a run by halfback Dave Raimey. Norm Winton kicked two converts and three singles on missed field goal attempts.

Raimey was the game's top ground gainer with 123 yards on 14 carries, while Perkins ran for 83 yards in 19 tries.

Saskatchewan fullback George Reed, in the thick of a struggle with Calgary's Lovell Coleman for the league rushing title, was bothered by a sore wrist and gained only 26 yards.

Third Game Of Weekend Bit Too Much

Victoria Maple Leafs, who came out of a rough opening weekend with four of a possible six points, are looking ahead to Saturday night, and a date with Portland Buckaroos.

Leafs, beaten 3-1 by the Totems Sunday in Seattle, currently share first place in the Western Hockey League with the Buckaroos. So nothing could be more natural than the meeting Saturday.

In between, the Totems play San Francisco Seals Wednesday in Portland and the Canucks Friday in Vancouver.

Leafs, perhaps a little weary after those two games with Vancouver, took too long to get started Sunday in Seattle, and by the time they got going in the third period they trailed, 3-0. Bob Barlow got one back against his old club, and the Leafs were skating well at the finish.

ACE TORMENTOR

Gerry Leonard did most of the damage as Totems scored their first win. He scored with the game 27 seconds old, made the pass for rookie Earl Heiskala's goal in the second period, and less than a minute later was in on a goal by Don Chiz.

Coach Frank Mario planned to have the Leafs out for a stiff workout today.

Meanwhile, general manager Buck Houle said he and defenceman Aut Erickson were "getting closer" in their contract talks, and that he hopes to have Erickson in the lineup Saturday.

Erickson has refused to sign at Leaf prices, and can't play until he does.

Brewer Quits Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Carl Brewer has decided to quit hockey and hopes to be placed on the voluntary retired list of the National Hockey League.

But the chances are slim that the 26-year-old defenceman with Toronto Maple Leafs will be able to get on the list, said the league president, Clarence Campbell of Montreal, Monday.

"If the Leafs gave him clearance to be placed on the list any team in the league, starting with the last-place club, could claim him for $30,000," Campbell said from Montreal and in an interview with the Globe and Mail.

WORTH GAMBLE

"He would have to be waived from the league and this is a bad time of the season to be seeking waivers because everybody's looking for players. They wouldn't be afraid to spend the $30,000 for Brewer on the chance they might talk him into returning to hockey."

Punch Imlach, Toronto manager-coach, was unable to talk Brewer, who quit the team in Peterborough last Thursday, into continuing. The two met Monday and Brewer stuck to his decision to retire.

"Hockey's a great game," Brewer said after informing Imlach of his decision, "but I've decided to retire for personal reasons. That's all I care to say."

But he did add he wasn't sure yet what he would turn to.

"I've already made one very big decision. I'll wait a while before making the next one. Right now I'm going to write to Clarence Campbell to ask permission to be placed on the voluntary retired list."

$2,000,000 Meeting

Tommy Can Earns Sandown Accolades

Sandown Park yesterday had a smashing finish to its most successful racing season as about 2,700 fans sent the mutuel handle past the $2,000,000 mark and a three-year-old chestnut gelding who stood out here a year ago as a juvenile laid claim to recognition as the standout thoroughbred of the meeting.

FORM CHART ON PAGE 21

With rain before and after the final nine-race program but a bright sun shining most of the time during the racing period, a new betting record for one day, except Saturdays and holidays, was established.

Yesterday's handle was $127,011. It pushed the meet total past the $2,000,000 mark, to $2,090,613 for the 18 days—an average of $116,145 each day as compared to the daily average of $102,321 last year, when the former meet record of $1,739,462 was set for 17 days.

BARGAIN OF YEAR

However, the story yesterday belonged to Tommy Can, who now shapes up as the equine bargain of the year in B.C. and who has put another feather in owner-trainer Bob Elliott's well-adorned cap.

Here last year as a two-year colt, Tommy Can won three of four starts, including his last two, and was beaten only two lengths in the other.

TOUGH START

Tommy Can started off in pretty tough company this year at Exhibition Park, running for as high as $4,000, and after seven starts, his best effort was a snow finish while running for $3,500.

Owner Ron Deyotte then put him up for $2,000 and Tommy Can was no better than sixth, but beaten less than four lengths. Start No. 9 was in the $3,000 class, and Tommy Can got his first win.

STEPS IN

The Deyotte ran him next for $1,200 and Elliott, the same fellow who got three wins in a row earlier at Sandown out of Green Again, stepped in to add a new thoroughbred to his string.

Tommy Can hasn't looked back since that Aug. 31 date. Elliott first started him on Oct. 1 at Sandown with a $1,600 price tag in a claimer against the second echelon three-year-olds.

DRIVING WINS

That one was a driving victory over Steve's Trust. Taking no more chances like that, Elliott had a $2,000 price tag on his newest ace on Oct. 8 and 13 against competition a bit deeper. Each time, Tommy Can caught the speed to run his streak to five in a row and six of seven at Sandown.

Yesterday came the big test. Tommy Can was entered in the featured invitational handicap in a field which included Rebel Hawk, who had included the Vancouver Island Derby in his string of three straight successes, the best of the still-available three-year-olds at the track and the five-year-old Joey Lark.

LOOKED TOUGH

It looked a bit much, particularly as the distance was a mile and 70 yards and Tommy Can's success had been at sprinting.

What happened must have made Elliott wonder why he hadn't entered Tommy Can in the derby. Shrugging off the extra 400 yards and unawed by the status of his rivals, he responded perfectly to the strategy laid on by jockey Jack Phillips, who deserves credit for a fine ride.

WELL PLACED

Phillips got his mount well placed early, laid off the pace set by Rebel Hawk and Track Record, and then opened the throttle wide in the stretch run. Tommy Can did the rest, battling all the way to get a neck decision over Joey Lark.

The $425 share of the purse gave Blue Note Stables a profit of, at least $470 on its investment in less than two months and a four-year-old for next year who looks as if he is likely to add to it considerably.

These Won't Return

Twenty-eight horses who started at the just-concluded thoroughbred meeting at Sandowne Park were included on a lengthy list of horses which have been barred from racing in 1965 on any race track under the jurisdiction of the B.C. Jockey Club.

The ban is for reason of age, infirmity or lack of performance, with the latter two predominant, the list including 23 three-year-olds and 23 four-year-olds.

ALL FAILURES

Failures at Sandown this year who won't be back for the 12th annual meeting are: Rani Jhansi, Smart Dancer, Fishermaid, Kelly Joy, Space Jet, Chickrin, Melody Man, Squirt High, All Bay, Assayador, Deedee Lea, Mantina, Miss Simon, Bull Strength, Marcam Red, Travelling Beau, Blue Frame, Golden Bough, TV Lady, Lee's Time, R. J. Lad, Solid Beat, Totem Miss, Loncue, Spree's Last, Windy Song, Cy Honour, Social Wise.

Not on the list but too old at 12 for the start of the 1966 season is Lord Renraw.

THESE TOO

Others on the list who have raced at Sandown include: Mr. Tehachapi, Prince Alfred, Magog, Poulsbo, Miss Stepfast, Silco, Glory Sweep, Uncle Hanswilly, Sully's Pixie, Bodie II, Geem Boy, Hizmarco, Sleepy Star, Merril's Mogul, Speedy Indian, Akimfast, Banguet Knight, Cold Sands, Didntimike, Edgerman, Sudsysan.

Underdog Champion Puzzled

NEW YORK (Reuters) — A confident and slightly puzzled Joey Giardello came to New York Monday to complete training for his world middleweight title defence Thursday against Nigeria's Dick Tiger.

The New York-born Giardello has not fought here since 1956 because of objections of state boxing officials to alleged underworld connections, and finds it surprising that he should return home as the champion and still be the underdog to the hard-punching Nigerian.

Giardello has been training for the last month at a posh country club in the Catskill Mountains north of the city.

Tiger, meanwhile, concluded his sparring Monday in a gymnasium set up in the basement of Madison Square Garden.

"I feel good," the Nigerian challenger said after the workout, as sweat poured down his muscular body. "I am going to give him a good fight."

Tiger dished out heavy punishment to Rocky Holliday Monday in three rounds, although the young sparring partner tried to adopt Giardello's hit-and-run style in the ring.

New Chief For Alcos

Trevor Bagot has been elected president of Alcos Cricket Club for the coming year.

Other officers are Joe Armstrong, vice-president; Arthur Hickford, secretary-treasurer; Clarence Edwards, assistant secretary - treasurer; Stanley Jackson, league representative; Ben Twamley, captain; and Jim Davidson, vice-captain.

Col. G. T Bagot was named honorary president and G. McIlvenny, B. Twamley and A. Hickford, honorary vice-presidents.

Groaner Adds To His Stable

NEWMARKET (Reuters) — Bing Crosby spent £21,735 ($65,205) for a colt and a filly at the Newmarket Yearling Sales Saturday.

Crosby, who has a third share with Canadians Max Bell and Frank McMahon in Irish Derby winner Meadow Court, was represented at the sales by the Anglo-Irish Agency.

Sunday's scores: Esquimalt 5, Colony Inn 0; Sidney 2, Victoria West 0; Gorge 1, University 1.

The laughing stock of the first division has become the power of the second.

Esquimalt, demoted at the end of last season after finishing last in the first division, has been running wild through the second. Its fourth straight victory came Sunday, 5-0 over Colony Inn, on two goals each by Rick Wyler and John Treloar and one by Brian McIntyre.

In those four games, Esquimalt has scored 17 goals and given up one.

In Sunday's other second division games, Don Williams scored both goals in Sidney's 20 win over Victoria West, and Gorge and University played to a 1-1 draw. John Yankoski scored for Gorge, Tony Fontinello for University.

Hourigan's Kickers made it two straight in the first division, beating Luckies, 5-2, on three goals by Henry Vanderhorst and two by Jim Schultz. Alan Wyatt scored for Luckies.

John Bate and Bill Abbott each scored twice to give Gorge a 4-1 win over Brodie's Bakery. Alan Glen got the losers' goal on a penalty shot.

Sayers Streaks Through Vikings

From AP, UPI

Many a college football star has stepped into the National Football League and been buried in his own press clippings. But nobody's burying Gayle Sayers, because nobody can catch him.

The former Kansas all-American scored four touchdowns in the second half Sunday, including two in the last two minutes, to give Chicago Bears a 45-37 victory over Minnesota Vikings.

Twice he put them ahead, catching touchdown passes of 18 and 25 yards from Rudy Bukich. And when Minnesota went ahead, 37-31, Sayers ran the next kickoff 96 yards for a tying touchdown. A pass interception paved the way for his last touchdown, on a 10-yard run.

On the day, Sayers caught four passes for 63 yards, carried 13 times for 64 yards, completed the one pass he threw for seven yards, and ran back four kickoffs for 170 yards.

Green Bay Packers came out of Sunday's play as the only unbeaten team in the NFL, getting victory No. 5, 31-21, over Detroit Lions. Bart Star threw three touchdown passes in the third quarter and ran for another touchdown in the fourth.

Not Everybody Fan of Koufax

NEW YORK (AP)—Eight National Leaguers, including World Series stars Sandy Koufax and Maury Wills of champion Los Angeles Dodgers, were named Monday to the 10-man major league all-star baseball team for 1965 in the annual Associated Press poll.

Koufax was a near-unanimous choice for left-handed pitcher, missing only one of 332 votes cast by sports writers and broadcasters. Whitey Ford of New York Yankees was named on the one ballot.

Wills earned 166 votes as the outstanding shortstop, 11 more than Minnesota Twins' Zoilo Versalles.

Outfielder Tony Oliva of the pennant - winning Twins and third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore Orioles were the only American League players selected.

The others were outfielder Willie Mays, first baseman Willie McCovey and right-handed pitcher Juan Marichal of San Francisco Giants, outfielder Hank Aaron and catcher Joe Torre of Milwaukee Braves and second baseman Pete Rose of Cincinnati Reds. Voting was based on regular season performances.

Mays collected the second highest number of votes, 320. He was followed by Rose with 257, Oliva 230, Robinson 190 and Torre 173.

Marichal won in a close vote, obtaining 88 to 79 for Jim Grant of Minnesota and 77 for Don Drysdale of the Dodgers.

Named to the second all-star team in addition to pitchers Grant and Ford and shortstop Versalles were Pittsburgh Pirates outfielder Roberto Clemente, first baseman Ernie Banks and outfielder Billy Williams of Chicago Cubs, third baseman Deron Johnson of Cincinnati, outfielder Carl Yastrzemski of Boston Red Sox, second baseman Bobby Richardson of the Yankees and catcher Earl Battey, Minnesota.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

The popularity of competitive golf on the local level was reflected Sunday in the entry of 66 players in the first of the winter medals. This was a record for the competition, which is confined to players with handicaps of seven and less.

The first round leader at Uplands was Dick Munn, the young Cedar Hill pro who broke through last Spring to win the first of the 1965 medals.

Munn, with 68, was the only player to break the 70 par of the Uplands course, and it gave him a two-stroke lead over Ron McLeod, back from his summer job in Jasper and George Bigelow, his buttons partner.

Bigelow missed three putts of under four feet in his fine round of par 70.

Lots of others are also in contention. On the 72 mark are Laurie Kerr of Colwood, Doug Munro of Victoria and Reg Clarkson of Gorge Vale.

At 73 are two of the new local club champions, Frank Scroggs of Uplands and Ricky Kent of Colwood along with Ardmore's left-hander Harold Jacobson.

On the 74 mark are Gordon Pellow of Uplands, Roger Ross and Urban Allen, both of Colwood.

The low net prizes were won by George Bigelow 66 and Reg Clarkson 67.

The Colwood club has left it to two of its youngest players to carry the club's banner in the district buttons this week.

Ricky Kent will have Urban Allen as partner as challengers to the Cedar Hill pair, Dick Munn and Fred Worthington. The match will be played at Colwood starting at 12:30 Sunday.

Also at Colwood on Sunday will be the junior buttons match in which the new holders David Zabel and Marty Smith of Uplands will oppose Rick Bath and Jim Clapp, a new Gorge Vale pairing.

Zabel and Smith won the buttons when they defeated clubmates Al Cliff and Roger Bishop.

★ ★ ★

Mike Turyk, who is setting a new all time speed record in the collection of holes in one, did it again on Thanksgiving Day when he aced the second hole at the Victoria Golf Club.

It was the eighth time he has done the trick in the space of the five years in which he has been playing golf.

"It's becoming quite embarrassing to me" says Mike. "People think I am using some sort of magic."

Be that as it may, Mike gets his aces all ways. One of the four he has to his credit at the tough 200-yard seventh hole at Victoria went into the hole after it caromed off a rock on the beach, bounced sideways on to the green and dropped into the cup.

The Victoria golf committee will hold its annual field day at the Colwood club Saturday. At stake is the Chairman's Mug won last year by Ab Robertson, the Gorge Vale captain.

Play will commence at 12:30 and it will be followed by a dinner meeting in the clubhouse. All members are asked to advise secretary Leo Derman if they are able to attend.

★ ★ ★

Pete McIntyre and John Sturdy retained possession of the district senior buttons last week at Uplands when they scored a last hole victory over Bert Nex and Hugh Smith of Uplands. Next challengers at Victoria are Ray Spouse and Jack Brown of Uplands.

★ ★ ★

The other day I heard a story that one of our better known golfers had been throwing his clubs around in an important competition.

The facts were these. During the final of the Uplands Championship between Frank Scroggs and Bob Hunt, a drive by Hunt at the 14th hole landed behind a tree and he pulled out an old two-sided putter to play the shot left handed.

When he made the stroke the putter head flew out of the shaft.

Someone who had seen the putter head flying wrongly put two and two together and thought that Bob had broken it in anger. It just shows how these false rumors get around.

Rookie United Balm

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Firefighters have the Anderson Cup, but mainland teams are about ready to agree that Victoria United has the rookie of the year in the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

Firefighters beat United, 5-3, in the Anderson Cup final here Sunday. Two of the United goals were scored by Ike McKay, the rookie forward who has now scored six of the club's nine goals this season.

Firefighters got two goals each from Art Hughes and Jim Blundell and another from Don Boyd, who scored on a penalty in the first minute of play after United's Bill Hamilton had handled the ball.

Peter Gooding, who was moved to centre forward, got the other goal for United.

Port Angeles Wins Swim

Victoria Amateur Swimming Club Olympians held their first meet of the new season Saturday, and lost out, 173 to 154, to Port Angeles.

Grant Treloar won three events for Victoria and Mike Chamberlain took two.

Accurate Kicking Beats Vancouver

Derek Hyde-Lay kicked five converts and two penalty goals Sunday, and his kicking was the difference as Cowichan beat Vancouver Blue Bombers 31-24 in an exhibition rugby match at Duncan.

Each side scored five trys, but Ed Long of Vancouver missed two of the convert attempts. He also kicked a penalty goal.

Barry Greenhalgh, with two, Tom Browne, Dave MacKenzie and Denny Beveridge scored the Cowichan trys. Ed Vernon had two trys and Gordie Johnson, Pete Raymond and Ray Bicknell one each for Blue Bombers.

In Saturday's play, JBAA beat University of Victoria 19-3 in the first division and Navy beat JBAA 19-6, and Oak Bay whipped University 21-0 in the second division.

Oak Bay Farmer Construction, B.C. champions last year, have clinched first place in the Vancouver Island Juvenile Canadian Football League.

Farmers beat Cowichan Timbermen, 53-6, Sunday in the last game of the league schedule. They tied in points with Nanaimo Redmen, who whipped Campbell River, 58-0 on Sunday, but were awarded first place on the basis of a winning record against Nanaimo.

Farmers play Victoria Hornets in a sudden-death semi-final next Sunday at Carnarvon Park, while JBAA Mustangs, who took third spot with a 31-13 win over Hornets, face the Redmen in Nanaimo in the other semi.

Terry Ryan and Jim Forward scored two touchdowns each to pace Farmers Sunday. Derek Garside scored Cowichan's touchdown on a recovered fumble.

In Nanaimo, Tony Mayer scored three touchdowns and Lynn Irving and Craig McRae got two each for the Redmen.

Quarterback Dave Hutchings, coming back off the injured list, sparked Mustangs by scoring two touchdowns and passing for two more to Bob Lougheed.

Regional

Library Goes To Vote

The question of whether Sidney and North Saanich want to join the Vancouver Island Regional Library District will be answered in the Dec. 11 municipal elections.

The only available library service in these areas now is the Open Shelf mail order operation conducted by the public library commission from downtown Victoria.

An order-in-council Monday approved the holding of plebiscites asking the residents of each area: "Are you in favor of your municipality becoming part of the Vancouver Island Regional Library District under provisions of the Public Libraries Act?"

SIGNATURES

The cabinet last week received a petition with more than 375 names from North Saanich and a petition with nearly 200 names from Sidney, both requesting permission to join the regional library, which operates branch offices and bookmobile service from its head office in Nanaimo.

Public library commission superintendent R. L. Davison said Monday that if the plebiscites pass by support of three-fifths of the voters in each area, North Saanich and Sidney councils will then be asked to appoint one member each to the regional library board.

EARLY 1966

Regional library costs are included in a municipality's general revenue mill rate and paid for when residents pay their annual tax bills, he said.

Sooke school district is the closest area to Victoria which uses the regional library service. If North Saanich and Sidney village vote in favor of the service in December, it will become available to all residents of those areas early in 1966, Mr. Davison said.

Students Plan March To Education Forum

An estimated 500 University of Victoria students will gather in McPherson Playhouse Oct. 27 for an education forum marking the first National Student Day.

University, government and political figures will speak at the meeting.

It will be preceded by a march through the downtown area starting at Quadra and Pandora.

The event has the approval of the university administration, education minister Peterson and the police, says Paul Williamson, president of the student council.

It aims at publicizing the problems of higher education, including cost to students. Last summer the Canadian Union of Students adopted a policy that university education should be available to anyone with academic qualifications.

"We're not protesting anything and we're not going to disrupt anything with the march," said Mr. Williamson.

"We're trying to show what needs to be done in education in the next few years."

Thieves Chisel Wall Loot Vault of $337

Thieves chiselled a hole through four layers of brick to gain entry into the vault at Humber Brothers, 531 Bastion, over the weekend.

About $337 in small bills and change is missing.

Entry was first gained by forcing a window on the second floor above a shed on the side of the building.

The vault was left a shambles, police said.

In another break-in over the weekend, about $225 cash was taken from David Motors, 1101 Yates.

Thieves entered the parts department by a door through an adjacent office which had apparently been left insecure.

The cash drawer in the department was ransacked.

Downtown Planning Impresses Visiting Experts

Sound planning in the Greater Victoria area can have repercussions all over the Pacific northwest, Anthony Roberts, director of the Capital Regional Planning Board said Saturday.

He said that a member of the University of Washington faculty had told him tourists would pick up sound planning ideas they noted here, and carry them home.

The faculty member was one of a party of UBC and University of Washington town planning students and faculty members in Victoria for a field trip Friday and Saturday.

NOT FRAGMENTED

"They were impressed by the continuity of building. The downtown area is not fragmented by parking lots," Mr. Roberts said.

Friday the party toured the Legislative Buildings, and met municipal affairs minister Dan Campbell and recreation and conservation minister Kenneth Kiernan.

They then discussed planning with chairman Allan Cox of the Capital Regional Planning Board, and toured Centennial Square with Ald. Alfred Toone.

Saturday they took a bus tour of the Victoria area.

Hospital District Detailed

Sooke ratepayers have heard details of the proposed regional hospital district on which they will vote on Dec. 12.

The meeting in Sooke Community Hall reached no consensus on the proposal, presented by Greater Victoria Hospital administrators and J. Everett Brown, deputy minister of municipal affairs.

SHARED COSTS

The Victoria and District Hospitals Planning Council has estimated that the area must spend more than $13,000,000 on hospital construction in the next five years, of which nearly half must be raised by the community.

The council advocates taxation under a hospital district to raise the money.

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell recently said that a two-mill levy will be needed.

Betting? Not So, Says Defence

Defence counsel Hugh McMillan turned his own phone number into a horse racing bet in central magistrate's court Monday.

He was defending Robert Bowden and Rebecca Bowden, who are charged with recording bets. Robert Bowden is also charged with assault.

Mr: McMillan was replying to the prosecution's interpretation of some numbers found on a foolscap pad in the Bowden house, 1216 Oxford, on Sept. 11.

'SINISTER'

"I could make something sinister out of 3851031," he said, "which happens to be my phone number.

"If it happened to be written down and say the last two numbers were illegible, that would mean the third race in California, horse five and a $10 bet.

"It would be even more incriminating if I wrote my name after it. Then we would have Hugh McMillan betting so much on a horse in California.

"So there's something that can be taken out of this code and also a perfectly innocent explanation."

NO EVIDENCE

He also submitted that nowhere in the Crown's case was there any evidence of people placing a bet.

"Take the number 602," he said, "If this was a bet, it would have to be placed by someone. Where is that person's name? I submit it would be impossible to pay out."

Co-defence counsel Gordon Vosburgh said there had been no attempt by the prosecution to identify either of the accused with the writing on the pad.

"These figures are just results that anyone interested in horse racing would write down," he said.

REMANDED

"For the bets to be bets, they would have to contain some evidence or sign which would identify the person making the bet and the amount."

Magistrate William Ostler remanded the Bowdens to Friday for judgment.

Constable James Ramsey was faced with an explosive situation in Marlborough Street at about 1:50 a.m., Sunday.

Another police officer was rolling on the ground with a man and a crowd of about 10 was gathered around yelling and screaming, trying to get the prisoner away.

One man, Garry Streeton, of no fixed address, began banging on the side of the police dog car, upsetting the dog, Constable Ramsey said.

He was warned to desist and to go away, but refused. Finally, he was arrested after a violent struggle, said Constable Ramsey, and taken away.

Streeton pleaded guilty to obstructing a police officer and was sentenced to two months in jail.

He denied he put up any struggle.

Fleming Klitz of HMCS Yukon was in a violent frame of mind when he entered a downtown store Saturday night, Constable Frederick Beard told the court.

He tried to pick a fight with the customers and was asked to leave. He then kicked and damaged a showcase valued at $100.

He pleaded guilty to mischief and was fined $150.

★ ★ ★

Dale Ashton might have received the benefit of the doubt, but instead he produced evidence for an alibi Magistrate Ostler told him.

Ashton was found guilty of breaking and entering Frank L. Bott Ltd., 1812 Cook Street, on March 4, 1964. He was remanded to Oct. 26 for a pre-sentence report.

HELPED MOVE

Ashton, 955 Goldstream, said he was on the premises in February, 1964, and said he helped move the cashbox to clear the counter.

Ashton's fingerprints were later found on the cashbox after the break-in had ben discovered.

Magistrate Ostler said the evidence of Ashton and his wife "was untruthful."

Clarence Billett, 404 Sherk, was held over to Oct. 28 for trial on a charge of obstructing a police officer.

★ ★ ★

Guy Lowe was sentenced to a month in jail for vagrancy. Constable Murray McArthur said Lowe was arrested Saturday night in front of the Government Street liquor store.

He said Lowe had been warned three times that he might be charged with vagrancy and at the time of the arrest he had no funds and was eight weeks behind on his rent.

William Aitken, 2740 Doncaster, was fined $100 for careless driving on Aug. 28.

Aitken was sent to hospital with concussion and a fractured skull following the accident on Quadra Street.

He said his car had been nudged by another as he prepared to turn right onto Hillside.

Magistrate Ostler said: "The physical facts don't bear out with the evidence of the defence."

★ ★ ★

A charge of theft not exceeding $50 against George Liska was dismissed by Magistrate Ostler.

Eleanor Van Londersele said the money was missing from her purse when she looked for it in Liska's apartment Tuesday.

Liska denied taking the money and Magistrate Ostler said it was possible the money could have been dropped.

Vancouver Newspaper Ups Subscription Rate

VANCOUVER (UPI) — The Vancouver Sun Monday announced a 50-cent a month increase in subscription rates, effective Nov. 30, because of "rising costs of operation."

This will bring the monthly carrier rate to $2.50.

The single copy remains unchanged at 10 cents daily and 14 cents for the weekend paper, the Sun said.

Arena Plan Reviewed By Council

First step in a long-range plan for a multi-purpose downtown arena and sport complex for Victoria was taken Monday when aldermen chewed over suggestions and considered a preliminary drawing by the city engineering department.

The project, suggested recently by Mayor Wilson, would range well into 1968, aldermen were told, and would probably cost more than $1,500,000.

It would unite the curling rink and Memorial Arena under one vast roof and provide, in addition, two other large areas for sports or conventions.

PRELIMINARIES

Members of the city council recreation and community services committee approved the idea in principle and instructed the city manager to get working on a schedule of priorities to be considered by council.

It was stressed that plans outlined at the meeting were only preliminary.

JUSTIFICATION

"It's a long time to look ahead," said committee chairman Ald. A. W. Toone, "but if the plans enable Victoria to get some of the millions of dollars of convention business that it is now missing, it would be justification enough."

It was indicated that McPherson estate money would probably be used to build the complex. It is estimated that when the estate is formally turned over to the city in December, 1967, there will be about $2,000,000 left.

'Urgent'

Costs Stall Schools

Construction of two Greater Victoria schools has been stalled by the department of education's refusal to share the entire cost.

Greater Victoria School Board doesn't have more than $32,000 in non-sharable funds which it needs to award contracts for the schools.

Trustees were told Monday that if Northridge and Hillcrest Elementary Schools are built with the money allowed by the department of education, then the district will soon be faced with increased maintenance and repair bills.

SHARE AMOUNTS

The board was formally notified Monday that the government has approved costs of $171,000 each on the six-room elementary schools, to be built in Northridge subdivision off Carey Road, and on Gordon Head. It will share these amounts 50-50 with the boards.

The low bid on Northridge School was $184,895. Low bid on Hillcrest, pared down from an original $204,230, was $189,664.

$16 A FOOT

Only hope the board has of raising the additional $32,559 is in a supplementary referendum to be held this fall. The government is now going over the board's estimate of nearly $2,000,000 needed to complete its building program and hasn't disclosed what figure it will approve for the referendum.

"Schools are costing about $16 per square foot and we're allowed $14," said building superintendent A. H. Smith.

SCHOOL URGENT

Trustee Peter Bunn, chairman of the building and grounds committee, criticized the government for spending $32.70 per square foot on a courthouse opened Friday in Ganges, on Salt Spring Island.

District Superintendent John Gough told the board that Hillcrest School is urgently needed by next September. Four classes which ought to be in Hillcrest School now are being taught in two adjacent schools, he said.

Board chairman John Porteous said that when the department of education discloses what figure it has approved for this fall's supplementary referendum, he will lead a delegation of trustees to talk building costs with the government.

Saanich Capital Budget

Swimming Pools Worth $300,000

Saanich capital budget provides for two heated outdoor swimming pools at a cost of $150,000 each.

Reeve Hugh Curtis said Monday that one pool is planned for the Gordon Head area, but declined to say where the other would be located.

REEVE CONFIDENT

He said he is confident the two items would be approved in the budget.

Based on this confidence, he said, he informed the Gordon Head Community Association of the provisions.

The association intends to add a building to enclose the pool, says its president, Jack Groves.

This will cost an additional $100,000, "more or less," he said.

BUDGET APPROVED

The association Monday voted approval of the municipal capital budget and decided to use its influence to gain public support for it.

RITHET BOG MEET

Saanich municipal planers and councillors will meet Monday in closed session with the would-be developers of the Rithet Bog area.

MOVING TENDER

A bid of $435 won a contract to move Saanich municipal facilities to their new Vernon Avenue home.

The bid, lowest of five, was submitted by Stockers Security Moving and Storage company.

PARTY SET

Nov. 25 council will be host to municipal employees and their families at an informal party in the new building.

Development

Voters Should Decide

Two Saanich councillors said Monday all regional development plans should be submitted for public approval in referendum.

Councillors H. C. Todd and Gregory Cook took the stand as council discussed inter-municipal planning of sewer system, hospitals, regional parks and fireworks regulations.

NEED VOTE

Only the hospital plans have been acknowledged by council to require voting.

"So should the other three," said Coun. Cook. "As they go along they will snowball and get more and more expensive. The people should know about them and have a choice."

SEWER SURVEY

Reeve Hugh Curtis pointed out that the sewer survey is already being done in co-operation with other municipalities.

"What if the people say now they don't want it?"

Saanich has already entered into agreements with Victoria and Oak Bay on regional parks development planning, he said, and there are indications other municipalities will follow.

Coun. Cook said there is no question that the municipality needs the facilities.

But the plans should at least be discussed with the public at open meetings, he said.

Appeal Climbs

Hairsbreadth away from 40-per-cent mark, Victoria United Appeal total up to 5 p.m. Monday was $174,544, or 39.7 per cent.

Delinquency Panel Topic

Delinquency in juveniles will be topic of a panel discussion at 8 p.m. today in Oaklands school, 2827 Belmont.

Panelist will be city police detective Lyle Sommers, University of Victoria sociology professor Clyde Pope, Esquimalt Senior High School principal Clive Kelly, Rev. Albert King and Mrs. Alex Calder, representing Victoria parents.

The discussion is sponsored by the Oaklands PTA.

Larocque Still In

Clerk Not Told

'He Didn't Resign Properly'

By JIM BRAHAN

Lt.-Col. J. H. Larocque is still chairman of Sidney village.

Col. Larocque resigned from the village chairman's office last week — but Monday night council ruled the resignation out of order.

The resignation had not been addressed to the village clerk, but had been given to council at a committee meeting.

* * *

Village clerk A. W. Sharp said that according to the Municipal Act a resignation must be submitted to the clerk.

Council agreed that Col. Larocque was still the village head until he submits his resignation to the village clerk.

"In my opinion, a person should at least know how to resign properly," Commissioner Douglas Taylor said.

Col. Larocque said in his letter of resignation that he had reached the conclusion he had not been permitted "to add anything of a constructive nature to your deliberation."

Certain matters have been taken up with the provincial government and with North Saanich without reference to council, committee or chairman, he said.

"Under these conditions, I have no other alternative but to resign."

Sidney Collects Money But Can't Pay It Out

* * *

He was ill Monday, and not available for comment.

In other council business, Commissioners Taylor and L. R. Christian went on record as advocating a cut in next year's village mill rate.

Commissioner Taylor noted that the $185,000 roads development bylaw was emphatically turned down by Sidney voters on Oct. 4.

He said he personally was convinced the proposed roads program was a good thing, and fully believed it was necessary for the village.

"We know we could have carried out this program with no increase in taxes," he said.

"Now we'll have more money than we need.

"Our auditors have told us that the financial statements show either too much money is being collected, or we are not providing the services that we should," he said.

He pointed out that council was elected to represent the people and the people have said they do not want money spent on development, they want low taxes.

"We still believe there should be a comprehensive roads program carried out — but the people say no."

* * *

"Therefore I suggest this council should not go on collecting too high taxes, and that we should go on record as advocating a reduction in the mill rate," he said.

He pointed out it is too late to cut the mill rate for this year, but for 1966 both he and Commissioner Christian will work for a decrease in the mill rate of either two or three mills.

Award-Winner

Roderick John Stevens of 1536 Clive Drive was the winner of the Soroptimist Club of Greater Victoria $100 award of merit for graduating from Oak Bay High School, and achieved average marks of 85.25 per cent.

Second Phase Authorized

The board of directors of Simon Fraser University was authorized Monday by the cabinet to proceed with its second phase of development—$6,507,600 worth of capital expenditures.

An order-in-council said the board may proceed with plans for additions to the academic quadrangle and additions to the science complex, furnishings and site service.

Potted Azaleas Growth Clue?

By BILL STAVDAL

Dr. David Ballantyne's 800 potted azaleas at the University of Victoria may someday help provide more food for a hungry world.

If they do, it could be partly because the 34-year-old plant biologist spent years helping his father in their Victoria florist shop.

Dr. Ballantyne, an assistant professor who looks almost young enough to be one of his students, is using azaleas in an attempt to find out what makes their buds lie dormant and why they blossom when they do.

APPOINTED TIME

As a youth, working with his father Allan at North Quadra Florist, he learned how to make azaleas bloom at an appointed time.

Nurserymen expose the plant to six weeks in cold frames, then bring them into warmer quarters. The result is a highly salable product at Christmas and Mother's Day.

EXTRA CROP

But nobody yet knows exactly what sets off an azalea's chemical alarm clock to make it blossom.

If Dr. Ballantyne and others in the same field can find out, it might mean controlled dormancy in food plants and possibly an extra crop each year from some of them.

INHIBITOR

What Dr. Ballantyne does know is that azaleas and many other plants contain a growth inhibitor, a mysterious substance never yet analyzed. Cold weather apparently breaks it down, or as a substitute a hormone called gibberellic acid calls the embryo flowers to life.

"I'm interested in finding out why the chemical or low-temperature storage stimulates growth in this manner," he said Monday in his tiny laboratory on the Gordon Head campus.

He is currently measuring the rate of oxygen consumption by flower buds just beginning to blossom.

"I have a long way to go," he said. "This may take five or 10 years, or maybe the rest of my life."

'LEARNED A LOT'

Dr. Ballantyne recalls that it was his early experience with azaleas that led him to experiment with them when he worked on his doctorate at the University of Maryland. He could see the practical implications for growers, and the plant was relatively easy to work with.

When and if he discovers the secret of the azaleas, says Dr. Ballantyne, "then we will have learned a lot about growth."

Emphasis On Youth

A reserve navy program with its emphasis on youth backed up by veteran experience is seen by the new head of the RCN's reserve divisions.

Commodore Gordon C. Edwards of Hamilton, Ont., who has just taken over the post, said Monday that special consideration was given to Sea Cadets enlisting in the reserve.

He pointed out the University Naval Training Division was not just a subsidy for university but that the naval reserve gets 75 per cent of the graduates from the course.

Ian Arrol's Election Notebook

Comfort for Frustrated

"But, of course, the newspapers won't print the truth." This cliche consistently warms the hearts of frustrated saviours of mankind and knowers of the situation, as rationalization for their failure to make an imprint on public opinion.

* * *

The cliche is cried regularly, not only from Speaker's Corner in Beacon Hill Park, and in beer parlors, but from individuals in political parties, religious organizations and discussion groups of various hues and cries — and, too, by some members of the establishment who fear that "modern falsehoods and distortions of the truth" as "played up in the press" are undermining eternal verities.

It is a tale of woe bemoaned throughout Canada, and, as a matter of fact, throughout all the democratic nations of the world.

* * *

The day when members of the public cease to bemoan the press will be the day when one, and only one, of the contenders for truth is sole victor.

May "the" truth never prevail.

But may the democratic search for the best truth for the time ever continue, a search currently being activated in this area by these candidates for the Nov. 8 federal election. Addresses listed are of central campaign headquarters.

Surprise Show Starts Friday

By EILEEN LEABOYD

There must be magic in the name Lansdowne.

First there's Fenwick Lansdowne who is the creator of some of the finest bird illustrations and paintings in the world today.

Then there's Edith — that's Fenwick's mother, and Pat — that's Fenwick's wife.

And the news is, that Fenwick's wife and Fenwick's mother, are having a joint exhibition at Ego Interiors, 1028 Fort Street beginning this Friday for two weeks. Edith will exhibit ceramic figures, and Pat will show copper and enamel jewelry and work in glass.

The show is a surprise perhaps, but then the Lansdowne family is an unusal family endowed with an astonishing amount of creativity and energy.

★ ★ ★

Victorians, who take almost a civic pride in Fenwick's career, may be interested in knowing that his latest commission is being undertaken at the request of Professor Ripley, the head of the Smithsonian Institute, for whom the local artist will illustrate a book on ruff birds (small marsh birds).

He is currently also working on a seven-volume book for an Eastern publisher, called "Birds of Canada." First volume to be ready late in 1966.

His Mother

This remarkable artist has a remarkable mother.

Born in a small river port in Manchuria, and married to an engineer who worked in Hong Kong, she spent most of her life on the China Coast, except for schooling in England.

Painting and drawing were always her absorbing hobbies. There being a lack of Christmas cards in the Far East, she began designing and painting them for herself and friends.

Looking at a few of the cards she saved, its easy to see why Mrs. Edith Lansdowne soon found a booming business. One year—1937—she remembers with a certain anguish, hand painting 6,000 cards which by now she was selling to a firm in Hong Kong. Along with the cards she was also selling larger paintings "depicting the various types one sees in the teeming streets of China" for the tourist trade in the Colony.

But everything changed in 1940.

With the threat of Japanese invasion women and children were evacuated, and Mrs. Lansdowne arrived in Victoria with her son that year.

★ ★ ★

She left behind her, her father, her husband, and her brother. They were put in prison camps.

During the next five years, she heard three times from the Orient. Once to learn of the death of her father, once to hear of the death of her brother, and once to hear that her husband was very ill.

Her husband survived the war years, was released from prison, but died last year following 16 years of ill-health.

Although Mrs. Lansdowne doesn't mention it, it doesn't take much imagination to picture her early life in Victoria with small son, and little money and constant living with uncertainty. Among other things, she drove a milk trunk for a while, and turned her hand again to paintings which she sold here and in Toronto.

★ ★ ★

Early this year Edith Lansdowne turned her hand to a new art form—clay. In just a matter of a few months she has created some 50 little figures, which will be featured in the show starting Friday.

"I find a great fascination in trying to reproduce some of the figures no longer seen in the China of today," she says, "such as street-hawkers, an old man enjoying a quiet evening listening to his favourite songbird, pompous Mandarins, Hakka women with frilly hats, the odd and wonderful attitudes of children."

One I particularly liked is a woman with a basket filled with fish, the glaze hand-rubbed to give a faded effect to her shirt.

All her fingers seem so mobile, as if just stopped by a camera. A great deal of Mrs. Lansdowne's own dignity, and compassion and humor seem portrayed.

His Wife

Pretty and vivacious Pat, Fenwick's wife is a young woman so charming and feminine to meet that it would rock the casual visitor's mind to see her at work on her copper and enamel work.

A piece of copper has a short life when Pat sets to work with shears and various tools. "You do need strong wrists for this," laughs Pat.

Her work is very beautiful and includes striking pieces that glow in a hundred hues — from earrings to massive glass door knobs inspired from a trip to Madrid.

Pat was born in Victoria, but grew up in Calgary and Edmonton before coming to live in Victoria three years ago.

She taught enamelling on copper for the recreation commission in Edmonton for several years, then drifted away from it, as the work just seemed too conventional and stylized.

A trip to Venice changed all that. Pat found her interest reawakened by use of other materials such as wire forms, bits of metal and lead, glass and solder and it started her on the trend she now uses.

Most of Pat's pieces are hand-cut and hammered, and she makes striking use of transparent enamel.

★ ★ ★

"The enamels—finely ground glass—give great depth, you can create a mood of seeing as a deep-sea diver would see, or get a depth of sky that is utterly fascinating," said Pat.

Pat's work almost has a quality of sculpture. Her glowing pins, in all sorts of shapes and sizes, can be fastened to a sweater or suit, or can be suspended by chains or fine leather thongs to be worn around the neck.

Some of her pieces are whimsically named, like "Moon over Hong Kong," or "I wish I were a Henry Moore." Some are clear color, others are honey-clear with designs seen below.

The colors are superb with infinite variety, an intricate technique achieved by knowing when to burn them out, and when not to burn them out in a kiln that registers 1,500 degrees at top heat. To achieve some effects, she melts colored beads into the pattern.

★ ★ ★

The big pieces Pat designs are her latest creations, the massive Spanish doorknobs.

They have taken years of work. After her trip to Madrid four years ago, Pat came home to design her own. A friend going to Venice, C. V. Cloggna, had them made in Italy but with unfinished backs. It took another year to find a lock company who could fit them with metal so they could be installed, and with a safety device to prevent them from being stolen.

They are made from crystal and Mosaic glass, will withstand extremes of heat and cold, and are the only ones in North America.

They are almost too enormous, too fabulous and beautiful to be described, or photographed except in color.

Mrs. Edith Lansdowne, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Fenwick Lansdowne, are holding a joint show at Ego Interiors, beginning Friday, Oct. 22.—(Robin Clarke)

CAUSES MOST DEATHS

About half of all deaths nowadays are related to degenerative diseases of the blood, possibly caused by bad diet and exercise.

Const. and Mrs. Allard To Live in Victoria

FULFORD—To the strains of the bridal march played by Mrs. R. S. Taylor, pretty Roberta Jean Akerman walked down the aisle of Our Lady of Grace Church in Ganges on the arm of her father, Robert M. Akerman, to make her marriage vows to Const. Henry Maxeme Allard, RCMP, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allard, Duncan V.I.

The bride's white, floor length gown of silk crepe, was on simple lines, high Empire waist, lace trimmed, as were the elbow length sleeves. Pearl droplets highlighted all trimmings on dress and on the dainty elbow length veil, caught to a pearl crown. Pearl earrings and pendant, gift of the groom, were her only ornaments, and she carried a cascade of creamy-yellow rosebuds.

The Rev Father William Mudge performed the double ring service and the bride's father gave her away. Best man was Const. Richard Brookbank of Essondale.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Tim O'Donnell, and bridesmatrons were Mrs. Dennis Andrews and Mrs. Les Wagg. The bride's youngest sister, Miss Cathy Akerman, was bridesmaid.

All wore identical floor length Empire dresses with cummerbunds at waist, in peacock blue sik crepe. They had wedding-ring head crowns of the same material trimmed with a tiny veil and carried sprays of yellow daisies and rosebuds. The little flower girl, in a white dress and peacock blue sash, was the bride's niece, Patricia O'Donnell, and she carried a small bouquet of flowers.

Ushers were Sgt. Philip Brunner and Cpl. Tom McIntyre both of Ocean Falls, and Const. Dick Hall of Ganges.

Several solos were sung by Mrs. William Rogers of Victoria.

The reception was held at Fulford Hall.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Fred Morris of Ganges.

The bride's going away costume was a double knit wool suit in sports green shade, three piece, black accessories and a light whimsy hat and veil in brown and green shades. The bride and groom will spend the honeymoon up-Island and will reside in Victoria, where Const. Allard will be posted.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Can I be you for a few minutes? Thanks. I'd like to tell all men around 50 years of age that they could save themselves a lot of money on doctor bills if they would tell their wives they still love them once in a while.

Going through the change doesn't really bother a woman very much if she has a thoughtful, considerate husband. The change is a normal transition. Some of my friends have sailed through it beautifully.

With me, it's another story. My husband is always telling me about this woman's shape and that one's sexy walk. Every time an attractive girl waits on us in a restaurant his eyes bug out of his head.

I see a doctor every week for shots and pills. It's easier to blame the change than to admit I'm depressed because my husband makes me feel like a worn-out shoe. I'll bet thousands of other women are in this same lousy boat.—DISCARDED

Dear Discarded: The menopause does produce physical changes which are harder on some women than others. It can also produce emotional changes—depression and suspicion.

A thoughtful, considerate husband however, can help. The wife who feels she's over the hill is bound to have a rougher time of it.

Dear Ann Landers: You let every parent in America down when you said you liked rock and roll. It's plain to see from your pictures that you are wearing a cheap wig and false teeth but I didn't realize you were deaf, too.

Our two teen-age daughters have lost their minds over rock and roll noise. (I refuse to call it music), and we have already been asked to move out of this apartment because of it. They spend every cent of their allowances plus whatever they can earn on trashy records.

When the Dave Clark Five came to town they waited at the airport for hours like morons. When they got home the 15-year-old said, "I touched him. Dave Clark himself. I'm not going to wash my hand for a week."

The last straw was when you said the music of the early 40's had the same beat. If you will tell me how you can get a Glenn Miller record to sound like rock and roll I'll eat this newspaper. —MAD.

Dear Mad: Start nibbling. Another reader who is on your side came up with the answer to your question.

He said, "If you boil a Glenn Miller record for three hours and play it with a shingle nail it will sound like rock and roll."

MENU Magic from the TEST KITCHEN

Successful Party-Makers

Hot canapes and crunchy little nibblers may not "make" the party, but they do help to get things off on the right foot. We can't imagine making them without several kinds of Canadian cheese to speed up the job and make them a real flavor treat.

Potted Cheese

A zippy cheese spread is always more fun served in a little crockery pot surrounded by crisp crackers. For a new one try combining grated Gouda Cheese and a little Blue Cheese with just enough mayonnaise to give a good spreading consistency.

Quick Trick

For another quick and easy cracker spread, beat a package of pimiento or chive Cream Cheese until fluffy. Then, blend in very finely-chopped ripe olives and some slightly crushed capers.

Broiler Treat

Hot canapes must be toasted at the last minute—there's just no getting around it. However, many fillings can be made ahead, and spread on bread rounds all ready for the broiler. One of our favorites combines devilled ham, shredded Cheddar Cheese, ("old" gives best flavor), mayonnaise and a dash of Worcestershire sauce. Remember to cover tightly with clear wrap or foil and store in the frig. on cookie sheets, until ready to bake.

More from the Oven

While you're doing the advance preparation, here's another hot canape that's nice made with rye bread for a change. Cut the bread into circles with a biscuit cutter and spread with well-seasoned cream cheese. To season the cream cheese add dill, celery salt, thyme, paprika, snipped parsley or chives, or any combination thereof—along with salt and pepper, of course. Over the cheese goes a thin slice of onion and finally a topping of mayonnaise. Broil until lightly browned, keeping a watchful eye so they don't burn.

Nutty Sandwiches

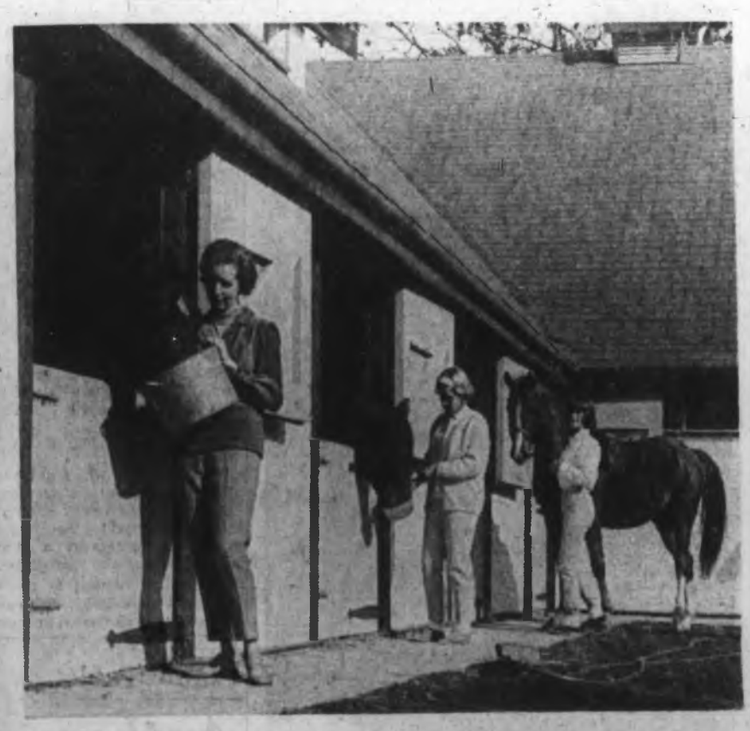

Use salted nuts, sandwiched together with creamy fillings, to fill in any little holes on your party tray. For salted pecans, mix together three tablespoons Cream Cheese with two tablespoons anchovy paste. With walnut halves try equal parts, Blue Cheese and soft butter.

Midget Cheese Balls

Cream Cheese, devilled ham and horseradish make a happy trio. Form into small balls and roll in toasted sesame seeds or snipped parsley. Serve them with pretty party picks so they'll be easy to eat.

Mrs. Rogers Dies

Prominent Early Day Resident

By J. K. NESBITT

Mrs. B. T. Rogers, who died in Vancouver recently at the age of 96 and was for long the cultural and society leader there, was married in Victoria at her father's home in James Bay in June of 1892. Her parents were Mr. and Mrs. James Angus, prominent Victorians before the turn of the century, Mr. Angus being an importer. The Angus home stands yet, at the triangle of Simcoe and Toronto Streets, surrounded now by high rises, government parking lots, shopping centres and small homes, which are relics of the past. It is easily distinguishable because of the lions on the front porch stairway.

The Colonist told of this wedding nearly 75 year ago: "A quiet wedding — Wednesday afternoon at the bride's father's residence, Mr. B. T. Rogers, manager of the B.C. Sugar Refinery was quietly married to Miss Mary I., eldest daughter of Mr. James Angus of this city. Rev P. McF. Macleod officiated, and there were present quite a large number of intimate friends. The happy couple left by the Sound steamer for Portland. The bride's many friends here wish her a long and happy life."

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers took up residence in Vancouver, and built "Shannon," a magnificent French chateau type of home on Granville, which stands yet, the home of Maj. and Mrs. Austin Taylor.

Mrs. Rogers lost three sons, Blythe, Ernest and Phillip; she is survived by a son, Forrest, and three daughters, Mrs. Michel Cherniavsky in France, Mrs. Jan Cherniavsky in Vancouver and Mrs. R. P. Clark of Vancouver.

Trail Ride

Plastic Puddle Did It

By MAUREEN DUFFUS

It was the plastic waterhole that did it.

On an obstacle course booby-trapped with crossed sticks, steep cliffs, fences and bridges and narrow paths through trees, it was the fiendish plastic waterhole that caused most trouble on a competitive trail ride at Metchosin Equestrian centre Sunday.

Over 70 riders from as far north as Nanaimo competed in the two hour ride, arranged by Colwood Trail Riders.

Judging by comments at the finishing line, a Mr. Ed type horse would have had a thing or two to say about that waterhole: defacing the countryside with plastic puddles, indeed!

* * *

Horses weren't too keen on the steep cliffs either, and riders lost points for dismounting and leading the horses down.

Twelve judges stationed along the trail also deducted points for failure to stop and give the horse a breather at the top of a steep hill, and for pushing the horse too hard.

An organizer of the ride explained:

"We tested the course with a fast-walking horse and a slow walker, and averaged the times. Two hours and ten minutes was perfect time, with five minutes allowed either way.

"There was no need to go all out, as they do in American endurance rides, and riders lost points for bringing a horse back too hot. Condition of the horses counts quite a lot."

* * *

Winners in the junior class were: 1. Ricky Gook on Ginger; 2. David Adams on Chief Button and Theresa de Groot on Silverbell; 4. Jean Clapham on Rosie; 5. Jean Clapham on Sparkie; 6. Jerry Brooks on Kandy.

Senior winners were: 1. Heather Rimmer on Mickey; Merle Rimmer on Tricket; 3. Heather Rimmer on Sabu-Ban-Alli; 4. Shirley Pike on Stormy Weather; 5.Richard Gook on Caesar, and 6. Merle Rimmer on El Simba.

Turkey supper in the hayloft followed the ride and later a dance was held in the club house for members of the Metchosin Equestrian centre.

BIG, BIG FLAVOUR . . . IN FILTER, PLAIN OR MENTHOL

Cox Decries Costly Hospital Load

Ratepayers should not be saddled with paying nearly half the costs of hospitals in the district, Reeve Allan Cox told Oak Bay council Monday.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell informed council he was setting up a regional district which would include the area covered by the Sooke, Greater Victoria and Saanich school districts.

This region would deal with sewers, the purchase of regional parks, regulation of sale and use of fireworks, and capital expenditure for hospitals.

POPULATION BASIS

Costs of the capital expenditure for hospitals would be the product of two mills a year, of which half would be paid on a uniform property levy and the other half on a population basis.

The proposal is expected to go before the ratepayers in December.

ESTIMATE

The Victoria and District Hospitals Planning Council has estimated that the region's hospitals will need $13,000,000 during the next five years.

Reeve Cox said the provincial government would contribute 50 per cent and the federal government would contribute $2,000 a bed, leaving the region to raise nearly $6,000,000.

COMMITMENT?

"This is a substantial sum of money and the question is whether or not we should accept a legal commitment of this magnitude on the local level," said Reeve Cox.

He pointed out that two mills for the region came to approximately $500,000 a year, which would make the total about $3,000,000, or only half of what the region would have to raise to meet hospital requirements.

The reeve emphasized he was not opposed to hospitals or a regional board, but felt the senior governments were pawning off their responsibility onto the local governments.

Reeve Cox said the two sources of funds for hospitals, 50 per cent of operating costs from the federal government and two-fifths of the sales tax "put on specifically for hospitals" have "not nearly been used on hospitals."

PROCRASTINATION

Coun. Fred Howes pointed out the municipalities' share, under the proposed region, would be increased from nearly 25 per cent currently being given hospitals, to 50 per cent.

Coun. Harold Carter suggested council strongly endorse the proposal because "further procrastination" would lead to a "larger gap."

Council also:

- Referred to the engineer's department complaints of sewers fouling up the Spoon Bay area off the Uplands.
- Granted permission to the Remembrance Day committee to carry out street sale of poppies on Nov. 6.
- Granted permission to the Oak Bay Band Parents' Association to "run" its annual fall apple sale Friday and Saturday, with proceeds going to the band.
- Granted the Job's Daughters-DeMolay Temple Society permission to hold a peanut drive Nov. 29 and 30, with proceeds going to the society's youth centre;
- Granted the Oak Bay United Church AOTS Club permission to hold a "Nut Drive" on Dec. 7, with proceeds to be used for the group's youth work;
- Endorsed Joint Effort For Fostering Week to advertise need for more foster nd adoptive homes for children who are separated from their parents;
- Granted the police commission permission to dispose of 19 old revolvers for $385, with funds to go for replacement of some of the older service revolvers;
- Adopted a Greater Victoria Intermunicipal Committee recommendation that Christmas and New Year's holidays for municipal offices be Dec. 24, 27 and 31, the same as for the provincial government;
- Delegated the municipal clerk to meet with municipal employees' union representatives to discuss the possible incorporation of the Canada Pension Plan with the municipal superannuation plan.

Saanich Inquest Ordered

An inquest will be held at 7:30 p.m. today at McCall Bros. into the death Saturday of Arthur Davies, 51, of 5385 West Saanich Road.

Mr. Davies was taken to hospital with a suspected stroke but was later found to have a bullet in his head.

AUTOPSY HELD

An autopsy was held Monday morning at the direction of Saanich police.

Private funeral services will be held at Royal Oak Burial Park for Mr. Davies, followed by cremation. Rev. Angus Cameron of Lundavra will officiate.

Mr. Davies is survived by his widow, Marjorie; two sisters, Mrs. Anne Preisswerck and Mrs. W. C. Oszrd, and two brothers, Charles and John, all of Victoria.

'Doers' Needed —Not Arguers For Party First

Social Credit "doers" putting Canada first and not Liberal and Conservative "arguers" putting party first are the need of the nation in Ottawa.

That contention was put forward Monday night in speeches by Victoria Social Credit candidate Frank Hunter and Lands and Forests Minister Williston.

Mr. Williston is just one of four B.C. cabinet ministers who within a period of one week will be speaking at public meetings in aid of the Frank Hunter campaign.

CALL DEPRECATED

Works Minister Chant will join Mr. Hunter at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Optimist Hall, James Bay.

Both the candidate and the cabinet minister Monday night deprecated Prime Minister Pearson's call for a majority government.

As an example of majority government, Mr. Hunter pointed to the "weakness" of the Conservative party "when it had the greatest majority in the history of Canada, 1958-62."

Said Mr. Williston, "Mr. Pearson says he wants a majority government in order to cure inflation.

"What the prime minister is really saying," suggested Mr. Williston, is, 'Give me a majority and I'll introduce tight money.'

"If there is anything we need in B.C., it is not tight money."

Mr. Williston criticized the 11 per cent sales tax on building materials as a Liberal policy holding back development in B.C.

He saw the Liberal government giving subsidies to all other Canadian economic regions, but, for B.C., a "taking-away" policy.

"The tax money that one B.C. woods industry pays to Ottawa is about equal to all the returns we get from all operations in woods industry," he said.

NEED HELP

"We are going to need further federal assistance as we move into the future."

The minister said recognition of the part played by B.C. in keeping the economy of Canada booming, and assistance in keeping it going, will not come from the old-line parties "which grew up in Central Canada."

Woman Socred Candidate Speaks to Sparse Crowd

Making her maiden Esquimalt-Saanich campaign speech before what might have appeared to an ominous 13 members of the public, Social Credit candidate Vera Pipes said last night that her main concern was the abused child.

She was aligning herself with declared Conservative policy when she advocated a ministry of youth should be set up federally.

"It is the duty of our country to see that children are brought up in the proper way," said Mrs. Pipes, mother of six, grandmother of 20.

PROGRESSIVE

"Are we going to make them into people who have no faith in our country, or solid citizens who have received good training, a good home — and proper leadership?" she asked.

She suggested that Ottawa might be borrowing something from the B.C. government, which she said was the most progressive in the land when it came to the neglected child.

In setting up a youth ministry, it would also only be following other countries in the world.

Mrs. Pipes touched briefly on familiar B.C. beefs with the ruiers in the east, but was insistent she was running as a candidate as a Canadian citizen, not a politician.

She was tired, she said, of members of parties slurring each other, instead of deciding to do something for their own country.

While Mrs. Pipes was making her way to a second meeting at Metchosin, Saanich MLA John Tisdalle intrigued the Lake Hill Women's Institute audience with a kind of appeal to the voters of Algoma East and Prince Albert—the constituencies of Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker.

"These two men are vindictive to one another," he said, and the feud would continue if both were returned to Parliament, whatever capacity they held.

CORROSION

Perhaps we can send the message back to the ridings and remove the problem for both the old-line parties," Mr. Tisdalle suggested.

He said it was more corrosion than corruption that was the problem in power today.

Stevedore Hurt at Dock

A 47-year-old stevedore had his left leg pinned by a fork-lift Monday while working on the freighter Archanax at Ogden Point.

James Moreton suffered severe lacerations to the upper leg and was detained in St. Joseph's Hospital.

View Royal Warned

Municipality Uneconomic

Council Studies Report

An attempt by View Royal to operate as a municipality on its own would be uneconomic in the long run, a report received by Esquimalt council said Monday night.

Former deputy minister of municipal affairs B. C. Bracewell said in the report that it would be quite possible for View Royal to operate as a municipality in its own right, "but in view of the heavy program of capital expenditures with which it is faced, it would be, in the long run, uneconomic."

INDIVIDUAL STUDY

Mr. Bracewell, who spent two months gathering information for the 45-page report ordered by Esquimalt and the View Royal ratepayers, suggested a mill rate of 24.6 would be appropriate.

Councillors decided to study the report individually, then call a meeting for discussion in committee. An attempt to have the report discussed at the next council meeting in committee was voted down, 4-3.

Coun. James Bryant suggested councillors study the report then bring it up for discussion in 30 days.

PROPER STEP

Coun. George Argyle, who sat as a member of the original boundary commission, said the report "backed up the commission's report 100 per cent. The tax structure has been improved," he said.

"Were this a study dealing with financial considerations only, the opinion against such a proposal would be inevitable from the standpoint of both Esquimalt and View Royal," the report said. "However, the larger issues and the future welfare of both areas indicate to this compiler that amalgamation is a proper step to take.

"Esquimalt as a district municipality is too small, and would benefits from being enlarged. View Royal needs more planning and control.

Mr. Bracewell said personal inspection of the View Royal area provided convincing evidence that municipal organization ought not to be longer delayed.

"Abatement of nuisances is never an easy achievement, but is more likely to be accomplished at the municipal level through the focusing of public opinion and the quicker responsiveness of a municipal body to the electors' desires," the report said.

Mr. Bracewell suggested a system in the View Royal area which would assure property owners that they could obtain such works as desired upon their undertaking to pay the cost and would not be required to contribute to expenditures elsewhere.

He said Esquimalt ratepayers, while continuing to bear about 75 per cent of the tax load, would of necessity for at least five years, receive a proportionately smaller share of service.

He added it was not likely that general service to the municipality would decrease, only that on balance View Royal would need to receive a substantially greater proportion of capital improvements.

"Upon amalgamation, the by-laws and regulations in force in Esquimalt will automatically apply throughout the combined area," the report suggested.

Piano Too!

Anthem Lack Scored

Performances at the McPherson Playhouse will end with God Save the Queen but the question of a suitable piano for the city owned theatre is still under review.

These were two of the problems dealt with by the city council recreation and community services committee Monday.

Members of the recreation and community services committee were told Monday that there was resistance by certain groups which rented the theatre to ending performances with God Save the Queen. It was not customary in some types of performances, and "spoiled the flavor."

Mrs. W. S. Emmerton wrote to say that she attended a recent performance of Come Blow Your Horn at which neither God Save the Queen or O Canada was played.

Such omission in a city like Victoria was "regrettable," she said.

The grand piano at the McPherson Playhouse is worse than bad—it's a disaster and an insult to the artists who are asked to play on it, the committe was told.

University of Victoria Professor Max H. Edwards said he was prompted to write by the recent recital by Witold Malcuzynski.

Recently, said Prof. Edwards, "the greatest pianist in the world," Svjatoslav Richter, was asked to perform on the same piano or one equally bad.

Committee chairman Ald. A. W. Toone said the problem was engineering, rather than artistic. It was simply a matter of finding the space backstage to store an instrument the size of a concert grand.

Several solutions have been considered, including an apron on the stage and a hydraulic lift to bring the piano up from the orchestra pit.

War Ministry Studies Wives

LONDON, (UPI)—A working party of the British Ministry of Defence is studying how naval welfare can be generally improved.

One specific problem being tackled by the committee, under Capt. P. G. Lachlan, director of naval service conditions, is how to keep navy wives from getting lonely.

This Accident Had to Come

LONDON (UPI)—The Sunday Express reports what probably is the first traffic accident involving a car and a ship at sea.

The newspaper said Volker Lange, 24, a German, ran his amphibious car into the 10,000-ton British cargo ship Rotherwick Castle in the Straits of Gibraltar.

The car sank.

WHAANG LEATHER lay back of pace under wraps, tried to move up on rail at quarter pole, had no room on inside, went to outside on top turn, wore leaders down turning for home and drew away from field. TOP BRACKET made up ground through last three-eighths, went to front turning for home, but was no match for winner in final eighth. BABY JOE, well placed throughout, moved dangerously ahead of stretch but could not take over.

TOMMY CAN broke fast, was taken off early pace, lay back to last quarter under snug handling, was shaken up on top turn, gained steadily, wore leaders down and took over approaching wire. JOEY LARK went evenly back of leaders to last quarter, then came gamely on rail and almost got up in time. REBEL HAWK had to be hustled through first half to take over, and when challenged at head of stretch, had nothing left to hold off first two. ESPERANTE was going well at end. Real Cool Finale Traditional

Last obstacle for Royal Roads recruits is hand-over-hand journey through icy waters of lower lake in school grounds. Traditional obstacle course covers about three miles through rugged terrain and lake has been thoughtfully provided as last obstacle for de-mudding trainees before they return to barracks. Event was held during weekend, and followed by mess dinner.

Harlem Subway Murder

Reporter Finds Suspect

NEW YORK (UPI) — The murder happened with lightning swiftness on a Harlem subway train in front of the victim's horrified wife and infant child.

The search for the diminutive, stiletto-wielding killer was painfully slow.

It led a persistent newspaperman through stale gin-mills in Spanish Harlem, among shadowy black alleys infested with rats and derelicts, and into a dark basement room in an east Bronx tenement.

In a little cubicle he found Jose Antonio Saldana, a 20-year-old machinist who came to New York from Puerto Rico 10 months ago.

Police believe Saldana, who speaks hardly any English, is a killer, the drunken man who, nine days ago stabbed Arthur Collins, 28 to death.

EJECTS DRUNK

Collins, a strapping six-footer who had a bright future as a computer programmer, ejected a drunken little man from the subway car after the man annoyed two elderly women. As Collins returned to his seat beside his 23-year-old Bavarian-born wife and their infant daughter, the man lurched back into the car and plunged a switchblade knife into Collins' heart and then fled.

A citywide police search involving more than 300 officers was launched for Collin's killer.

TELEPHONE TIP

But it was a telephone call to Esli Gonzales, 34, a reporter for a Spanish language newspaper that led to Saldana's capture.

Gonzales received a telephone call from a man who said he knew someone who could provide the killer's name.

IN TAVERN

Gonzales circulated through the shabby neighborhood, talking to barflies and questioning the proprietors and employees of various shops and stores. In one tavern he finally found someone who gave him the name and address of an uncle of the youth and who in turn sought out the accused.

GIVES UP

Gonzales convinced Saldana to turn himself in, and the two went to a nearby police station.

Later in the morning, Collins' widow came to the station house and identified Saldana through a one-way window.

Her quiet courage and lack of emotional outbursts changed as she left the station house. Tears welled slightly in her eyes.

Texas Family Winds Up Trek to Fair

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — Back in 1963, Charlie and Jettie Prickett and their daughter, Carol, decided to go to the New York World's Fair.

Since then, Charlie's broken leg has knitted, two dead and one crippled mules have been replaced and Charlie may still have a chance to be adopted into a Mohawk Indian tribe.

On April, 27, 1963, the Pricketts headed out of Amarillo in a three-wagon mule train. They rolled back into Amarillo Friday afternoon. There were no breakdowns in the entire trip through 10 states, Pricket recalled, unless you count the incident in Chillicothe, Mo., when one mule was killed by a car.

* * *

There was a little delay just 20 miles outside New York. Prickett's leg got tangled in a rope and was broken in three places when he was dragged by a jittery mule.

But the Pricketts, with Charlie's leg in a cast, made it to the Montana pavilion where Charlie worked at odd jobs around the fair grounds until he decided to return home.

Near New Holland, Pa., the Pricketts stayed about four days in an Amish community. Prickett said they felt right at home with their mule-drawn wagon because Amish life remains early American with an aversion for modern conveniences.

* * *

Prickett also said the Mohawk Indians at Gettysburg, Pa., proposed adopting him into the tribe. The adoption has not been completed, he said, because of Washington "red tape."

Carol had to leave her family at Gettysburg in order to return home in time for classes in nursing at Northwest Texas hospital. Her mother and father continued their journey.

Prickett took advantage of the trek to go fishing in every state. Two weeks ago, about four miles outside Higgins, Tex., one mule ate poison and died.

* * *

Prickett said they were able to get along until they reached Canadian, Tex., but there the replacement mule kicked another mule and disabled it.

Friday night, the Pricketts camped on the east edge of Amarillo and finished their journey Saturday by driving through the middle of town.

"It's good to be home," Prickett said.

For Murder of 17,200 Poles

16 Ex-Gestapo On Trial

BOCHUM, Germany (UPI)—A war crimes court Monday heard testimony in the trial of 16 former Gestapo men for the wartime deaths of more than 17,200 Poles.

The group went on trial Sunday, accused of taking part in mass executions of Jews in the Krakow ghetto and shipping thousands more to the gas chambers at Belzec death camp.

Chief defendant in the proceedings is 57-year-old Heinrich Haman, a former commissar of the Gestapo, the Nazi secret police. He is charged with 88 counts of murder.

Nearly 90 witnesses from Canada, Israel, the United States and Australia will testify in the trial, which is expected to last at least six months.

Fingerprints from Skin Assured

Stranglers Face Automation

LONDON—A machine which can take fingerprints from the neck of a person who has been manually strangled has been developed by scientists at the Victoria Infirmary, Glasgow.

Scotland Yard and the FBI have expressed interest in it.

The method, developed by Daniel Graham and Hugh C. Gray, produces a photographic image of fingerprints free of background clutter. "It should prove of immense value in cases of sexual assault and murder," they claim.

* * *

Prints are taken by dusting the area with fine lead powder, covering it with photographic film, and focussing a beam of X-ray on it. The direct effect of the X-rays on the film is negligible, but they stimulate the lead to emit electrons which produce a photographic image of the prints.

Police have always had difficulty in identifying fingerprints left on human skin because it is pliable, porous and liable to shrink. Post-mortem stains often confuse the prints.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many friends and relations for their kind thoughts and beautiful floral offerings in the recent death of Vernon Faites. — The Family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BANNING — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Raymond Banning, who passed away Oct. 19, 1963.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here
And who, though absent, is just as dear.

—Sadly missed and always remembered by Bella, George and Yvonne.

MacNEILL — In loving memory of Mother, Daisy Emma Collie MacNeill, who passed away October 19, 1963.

God calls our loved ones, but we lose not wholly what He hath given. They live on earth in thought and deed, as truly as in His Heaven.

—Always remembered and greatly missed by her family.

PENDLEBURY — In loving memory of Frank, who passed away Oct. 19, 1963.

Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all.
And though the years be many or few,
They are filled with remembrance, dear, of you.

—Doris, Shirley and Bill, Delaine, Leah and David.

SCHOEN — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Olga Schoen, who passed away Oct. 19, 1964.

—Sadly missed and fondly remembered by Don and Peggy Pierce and granddaughter Sandra, also Ernie and Bella Schoen and grandchildren Irwin, Nancee and Maureen.

JONES — In loving memory of Thomas H., who passed away Oct. 19, 1964.

Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear.
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him dear.

—Sadly missed by his loving wife, Beatrice, and sons John H. and Harry.

METCALFE — In loving memory of Joseph Banks Metcalfe, beloved husband and father, who departed this life, October 17, 1958.

"In the morning and at the setting of the sun
We remember him."

—His wife and family.

TV TALK

By JIM TAYLOR

For two years now, Inger Stevens has been chasing the congressman on Farmer's Daughter. On Nov. 1 she catches him, and hoo boy, isn't that exciting?

The exciting part is that the marriage seems to be coming just in time to have the show cancelled.

That ratings war we discussed earlier is hitting the show pretty hard, and after the wedding it just becomes a sort of Mother Knows Best domestic comedy anyway. And the formula that worked before — adorable kids, wise father, understanding mother and one crisis a week — just isn't being accepted any more.

So if you were thinking of sending gifts to that wedding on the Nov. 1 show, I would suggest a nice set of matched luggage. The wedding may just be coming, but for the Farmer's Daughter the honeymoon appears to be over.

Tuesday's Highlights

5 p.m.—Chapter 13 of the great Canadian serial, What's Wrong With B.C. Lions? This time they play Ottawa Rough Riders — 8.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

If you want to survive the rough-and-tumble realities, wishful thinking is not a desirable habit. But at the bridge table you've sometimes got to be a wishful thinker. No pessimist in the East chair could have defeated this game contract. Can you?

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 N.T.	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	All Pass

Opening lead: Club queen

To avoid problems of rebidding a balanced hand in the range of 15-18 high-card points, it is desirable to open all such hands with one no trump, unless there is more than one flaw in that choice — for example, a concentration of high cards in two suits and a weak doubleton. It is reasonably safe to leave to partner the task of finding a four-card major fit by using a conventional two club response —as North did here.

A defender can usually construct declarer's hand with considerable accuracy after a bidding sequence of this type, and on this occasion West's opening lead added to the information at East's disposal. After West has opened the club queen and you—East—have won the ace, can you add a dash of wishful thinking and come up with the winning return?

Since the opening lead marked West with three points in clubs and declarer was tagged with at least 16 for his no trump bid, arithmetic indicated that West could not hold more than four points outside the club suit. If these included the diamond queen, there would be no chance to beat the contract, even if West also held the guarded trump queen. On such a layout, declarer would finesse against West's diamond queen and would thus lose only one diamond, one spade and the club ace.

But if West did not have the diamond queen, he would be likely to have the spade A-x-x or K-x-x, and either of these holdings would suffice to beat the hand provided West also held a doubleton diamond. In these circumstances it is necessary to be a dreamer and to wish those holdings into partner's hand which will set the contract. East therefore returned the diamond deuce at trick two. Having won in dummy, South sensed what was coming and slapped down ace and another trump instead of taking the normal finesse, but West went in with the trump king and sent back a diamond to East's ace. The third-round diamond ruff set the hand.

RETIRE HERE

I spent most of the week before last showing an Ontario client some 2-bedroom, no basement retirement homes in varied price ranges. After they found the one they wanted I received some more calls to my "wanted" ad that had been running in the paper. This is one.
It's an older home, but exceptionally clean and well kept. Nice and warm, easily and economically heated, without cold drafts. Yes, 2 nice bedrooms, cosy living room, all immaculate floors, up to date kitchen, bright dining area off. Range and fridge included. Good, large, new workshop attached at rear of the home. Set back from the street on an easy-to-maintain 60x120 lot in lawns with just enough flowers, etc. Located ½ block from the bus on a quiet, pleasant street close to the Jubilee Hospital. As I said, it's an older place, so please don't expect to see anything ultra-modern. However, it is very clean and very comfortable, and up to date. $11,600. Mr. Poole for appointments.

Few Style Changes, Lower Prices

Car Industry Closes Gap Of Canada-U.S. Prices

By KEN SMITH
CP Business Editor

The debate over the price of the 1966 cars has tended to obscure the ambitious program this key manufacturing industry has laid out for itself during the next five years.

In that period the manufacturers, who didn't even reach the 500,000 production figure until three years ago, hope to roll an average of about 36,000 additional vehicles off their assembly lines each year.

That would raise 1970's production to about 950,000 cars and trucks—a figure that a few years ago would have seemed a pipe dream but now, executives say, should be within reach.

AUTO TRADE

"In fact," says one official, "we have to achieve that level, partly because of our commitments to step up Canadian production under the auto trade plan with the U.S. and partly because we'll need it to justify the expansion programs all of us are into now."

The industry already is assured of its fourth consecutive production record this year, with the estimated final figure of 770,000 cars and trucks outdistancing 1964's record by 99,000.

FEW STYLE CHANGES

It is looking ahead to the 1966 performance, however, in hopes of getting a big jump on stepping up production to the 1970 target.

Because of the comparatively few styling changes in the 1966 models, some spokesmen admit they were concerned over how sales would go in the big spring months of next year.

PUBLIC REACTION

But a Ford of Canada spokesman says early public reaction has been better than expected.

Although sales figures aren't available, a spot check of dealers in the Toronto area drew reports of public interest running as much as 50 per cent above the similar period last year.

CLOSING GAP

Despite the great debate about Canadian vs. U.S. prices, the industry says the gap has been narrowed on most models this year. It also claims lower prices for most 1966 cars compared with similarly equipped 1965 models.

"These price reductions are being offered in a year when we have had to assume heavy additional manufacturing costs, arising out of such factors as the new labor contract and costs associated with plant expansion," Karl Scott, Ford of Canada president, said.

EFFECT ECONOMIES

Earl K. Brownridge, president of American Motors (Canada) Ltd., said the reductions "stongly reflect the effect of both the new Canada - U.S. agreement on automobile tariffs and of production economies resulting from expanding sales."

E. H. Walker, president of General Motors of Canada, noted prices have been generally stable for about six years despite a 44-per-cent increase in hourly labor costs, higher tooling and material costs and increased taxes.

OTHER NEWS

Elsewhere on the business scene, Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd. in Hamilton started construction on 53 new coke ovens at a cost of $13,800,000. Part of Dofasco's $120,000,000 expansion program, it will increase the company's coke production by 50 per cent.

Over 6,000 in Battle

Riot Police Quell Peronist Mob

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — A force of 5,500 riot police used tear gas, truncheons and water cannon Sunday in a five-hour pitched battle with 800 supporters of exiled dictator Juan D. Peron. The Peronists fought back with bricks, stones and bottles.

It was the 20th anniversary of Peron's assumption of power in Argentina. Violence had been feared, and authorities were ready for it.

Police battled the Peronist demonstrators, including many women, though the central part of Buenos Aires.

Two policemen and an undetermined number of demonstrators were injured, but except for a few scattered pistol shots, there was no gunfire.

Federal Police Chief Nicholas Rodriguez reported that 659 Peronists were arrested.

The riots began about dusk near South Side Park when Peronists commandeered several buses and overturned the vehicles as barricades against mounted policemen.

After nightfall, a group of about 800 torch-bearing Peronists tried to march on the Congress Building. When met by police, the rioters dumped gasoline at a street intersection, set it afire and retreated behind the flames. Other Peronist bands roamed the streets, setting fire to trees and shrubbery.

Dead Man's Heart Removed, Kept Alive

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. (AP)—Two Dutch surgeons have removed the heart from a dead man, revived it and kept it alive and beating outside the body for more than six hours—the only recorded case where a man was outlived by his heart.

It could be an important new technique to study first-hand the complex electrical and mechanical pump which keeps human beings alive, the surgeons reported Sunday.

It happened at about 2 a.m. one day last January at the University of Amsterdam in Holland. A 70-year-old man had been struck dead by a severe heart attack.

Doctors already had done everything they could to revive their patient, but it was hopeless, explained Drs. Dirk Durrer and Frits L. Meijler. Death had come shortly after midnight. A relative gave permission for the unusual operation. They had to work quickly while the heart could still be revived.

REMOVE HEART

"We were all emotionally upset," Meijler said, "but we guessed it took about an hour and a half to remove the heart and set it up in the apparatus."

The technique for keeping such organs alive — perfusing them with blood or other nutrient fluids—was first described in the mid-1800s. The Dutch team has been keeping dog hearts alive and beating for hours after their removal from the canines. They did their first dog operation about two years ago.

SHOW MOVIE

The Dutch surgeons described the human operation and showed a colored movie of an operation on a dog's heart at a meeting of the American Heart Association.

Floating in Canal

Woman Shot In Escape Bid

CLEVELAND (AP) —A woman was kidnapped and shot to death, her companion was robbed and a policeman was shot at early Sunday in the neighboring suburbs of Valley View and Independence.

Mrs. James Kosciewicz, 46, struggled in the dark to keep from drowning while her kidnapper on shore reloaded his pistol.

She came to surface in 10 feet of dirty Ohio Canal water. The man fired six more times, killing her with a shot in the forehead.

FLED CAR

Harry E. Scott, 38, of Bath, Ohio, near Akron, Ohio, told police he had grabbed the woman in an attempt to escape their abductor. They fled from her car, tumbled down an embankment and into the canal in Valley View. They went under water as the kidnapper fired six shots. Then he reloaded.

Police are holding two Hollywood, Calif., men — Clyde W. Alameda, 30, and Vincent J. Podojil, 28.

STARTED AT CLUB

The crime spree started outside a night club in Independence where Mrs. Kosciewicz, of Valley View, sat talking to Scott in her car.

Scott told police a man jumped into the back seat and ordered him to follow a car with California licence plates. The man had a gun and took Scott's wallet.

While the cars were parked on a bridge over the canal, Independence patrolmen Pat Discenza and Edward Timinski drove by and asked if there was any trouble. Podojil said he was asking directions to Cleveland. Scott, with a pistol at his back, agreed with the story.

The police drove off, but stopped about 50 yards down the road. Scott drove on by, but police came back to question Podojil again. They arrested him when he could show no identification.

A LOSER

Timinski took Podojil's auto and Discenza, with Podojil beside him, followed. Discenza said they had driven about a mile when Podojil pulled a gun and said he was "a three-time loser" and that he was going to kill him.

He told Discenza to turn around. The officer turned into a driveway but first blinked his lights at Timinski. Podojil fired a shot past his face.

GRABBED GUN

The officer turned around and stopped at an intersection. When Podojil turned to see if Timinski was following Discenza grabbed the revolver. Timinski arrived and they took Podojil into custody.

Police arrested Alameda while he slept with a .32-calibre Beretta on his chest in an Akron motel.

Diplomat Says

Rhodesia In for Trouble

MONTREAL (UPI)—Britain's enigmatic colony Rhodesia, now clamoring for independence, is in for troubled times.

British Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, Lord Caradon, said in Montreal Monday, any country that refused to take into account the views of the majority was "asking for trouble."

Lord Caradon, also head of Britain's delegation to United Nations, said "when there are two races in a country, matters can only be dealt with by consultation."

CONSULTATIONS

He said that in every colonial territory handled by the British, independence had followed consultations.

"The present regime in Rhodesia is not prepared to take part in discussions with all leaders present."

"It's a terrible thing in South Africa where 13 million people are not consulted on their own government," he said.

ONE COMPLAINT

The British UN chief had one complaint about people's conception of the world organization.

"They think our sole job is peace-making. They don't realize that 80 per cent of UN men and money is directed to economic and social reform."

"Our job is to close the gap between the rich and the poor. What's the use of keeping the peace while two-thirds of the world live in poverty," he said.

Why all the excitement over a little piece of metal?

Have you noticed? This Medallion is turning up everywhere these days. On new homes in all sizes, all price ranges. People all over British Columbia are specifying Medallion electrical standards. And leading contractors are happy to oblige them. Why?

(1) Housepower Wiring. In a Medallion home, you get full, family-sized wiring with plenty of capacity, plenty of outlets for your electrical needs – present and future.

(2) Light for Living. Contemporary lighting, planned and placed to help you work easier, relax happier—another built-in benefit of every Medallion home.

(3) Appliance Planning. Basic appliances are planned-in during construction for permanent convenience. With extra provision for tomorrow's electrical wonders.

(4) Other features? Choose from dozens. Carefree electric heating. Automatic electric water heating. Even central air conditioning.

MEDALLION HOME LIVE BETTER ELECTRICALLY

(5) What about resale value? Another good reason. Buyers these days know a Medallion Home represents the best in advanced electrical planning.

(6) And now: new low electric rates! Medallion electric standards let you take full advantage of today's lower-than-ever electric rates. The more you use – the more you save – the better you live.

(7) Any more reasons? Hundreds. Ask your contractor. Ask the man who owns one. Then take advantage of B.C. Hydro's free Home Planning Services – and be sure your new home is designed to modern Medallion standards.

Garden Notes

Weirdies for Rebels

By M. V. CHESNUT

Seems to me the true gardening buff is always a bit of a nonconformist, never content to grow only the tried and true plants found in everybody's garden, but always on the lookout for weirdies which the neighbours have never even seen, much less grown. To such rebels, I suggest a study of the back pages of the bulb catalogues, for in addition to the usual run of tulips, daffs and crocuses, quite a few not-so-common bulbs are listed which can be planted this fall for blooming next year. Many of these are quite easy to grow and fairly inexpensive to buy.

I have in mind, for instance, the Ixiolirion, known as the Lily of the Altai, a very hardy cousin of the Amaryllis, native of the mountainous Altai district of Siberia. One of the last of the spring-flowering bulbs to bloom, Ixiolirion produces masses of lovely deep blue tubular flowers on wiry 12 to 18-inch stems, grand for cut flowers and especially effective in the garden when combined with pinks. Blooming in June just after the tulips, the bulbs are ridiculously cheap, 60c per dozen or $4 per 100. Plant in full sun, 3 inches deep and 4 inches apart.

Allium moly, sometimes called Golden Garlic or Leek Lily, is an ornamental cousin to our common garden onion producing showy heads of bright yellow on 12-inch stems in June. Allium azureum, 18 inches tall, bears umbels of deep blue flowers in July, while the unpronounceable A. ostroskianum from Turkestan grows only 6 inches high, with rounded heads of large pendant bell-shaped flowers in wine red, blooming in May and June. Here again, prices are lower than for the more conventional bulbs, around 50c per dozen.

Fritillaria meleagris, the Snake's Head Fritillary, isn't everybody's cup of tea, as the flowers appear macabre and sinister to some folks. I rather like the thing and find it a real conversation piece, useful, too, in the shadier parts of the garden where the bulbs are planted 4 inches deep, preferably in peaty soil.

Because of its checkered markings, the plant is sometimes called the Checkered Lily or Guinea Hen Flower. The true name, Fritillaria, is Latin for "dice box" and I presume it was so named by some ancient Roman crapshooter. I have the purple variety, mottled with pinkish markings, and the variety Alba, with dainty white drooping bells, and there are about a dozen other named varieties, one of them almost black. Prices run 60c to $1.20 per dozen bulbs.

Lycoris squamigera, the hardy Amaryllis or Magic Lily of Japan, has a most unusual habit of growth. The bulbs are planted in the fall, 5 inches deep in rich, humusy soil and partial shade. In early spring, strong, handsome strap-like leaves will spring out of the ground growing at a fantastic rate, reaching a height of 2½ feet, after which they will turn brown, die down and disappear completely, leaving you wondering why you had parted with 60c per bulb for nothing but a handful of foliage. By June you won't be able to find the location of your Magic Lilies except by their labels.

When August arrives, keep your eye on the spot, especially after a good soaking rain. One by one the flower spikes appear, pushing up stout green stems at the rate of almost six inches per day. At a height of three feet, buds form and open into clusters of pink, lily-like flowers, anywhere from six to nine blooms per stem, and with no leaves at all!

Once established, Lycoris should not be disturbed. They will bloom year after year, increasing and spreading by offsets, and all with no attention whatever.

ERMA BOMBECK Pleads for a Little Levity

Doctor Is In, Please Wait!

Our kids never mind going to the doctor. He's got a neat drinking fountain that you can stomp on the pedal and make the water squirt all over the floor.

He's got stacks of comic books and children's stories. And a cute little table with little chairs and stacks of toys. As an added enticement to pursue poor health, he gives out a small toy after every visit.

★ ★ ★

Of course, I'm not advocating anything quite so obvious for adults, but the medical kingdom could use a little levity and lightness in their offices for no other reason than to distract their patients from their immediate problems.

I have never entered a doctor's waiting room without suspecting the nurse has just sprayed the entire room with eye-smarting disinfectant and replaced all the white light bulbs with yellow, sallow-looking ones.

★ ★ ★

The furnishings are standard. There is generally a special spot on the wall where several diplomas are displayed in black frames from a medical school which, one hopes, is still in business.

★ ★ ★

Almost unconsciously, you read the date your doctor graduated, then figure up on your fingers how old he is. If he is too young, you rationalize his youth by figuring he was probably a child genius and was first in his class. If he is too old, you begin to worry that he still uses leeches to exact a cure.

There are several small tables about, each holding a large ashtray and a stack of literature on what a killer cigarettes are. Somewhere, there is a rack of magazines that are more fun than a boil on an elbow.

Instead of getting your mind off your symptoms, you can amass a whole set of new ones. Provocative magazines such as Your Kidney and You, Hormones Review, The Witch Doctor's Digest of Jungle Diseases. They're all there . . . the little-known monthlies that keep you current on what's new in treatment, medicines and disease.

In every office, of course, is a restless child. (I think they come with the lease.) They skate around the chairs with nothing to do and a lot of time to do it in. They always have an infectious cough. Every two and a half minutes they inquire, "Mama, when are we going to see the doctor?"

Once, just once, I was foolhardy enough to start a conversation with a girl in the doctor's waiting room. "When is your baby due?" I inquired with proper respect and interest. "I'm not pregnant," she said icily. The room became so silent that when I swallowed, the noise gave me a headache.

★ ★ ★

Surely, in this wide world, there is one medical man who has enough of that old pioneer spirit to put a copy of MAD magazine in his racks or put a foolish sign on the door, "PLEASE, DON'T DISCUSS YOUR SYMPTOMS WITH THE OTHER PATIENTS. IT JUST CONFUSES THE DOCTOR." I'd personally beat a path to his door!

SHEILAH GRAHAM Reports from London

CBS Signs Prince Philip

LONDON (NANA)—CBS will pay Prince Philip the sum of $350,000 for one TV special under an agreement with the International Variety Clubs. Of course he will not be keeping the money. It will be divided equally between youth hostels and hospitals in Los Angeles and in Britain. The variety show, to take place next March when Prince Philip goes to the United States for two weeks, will be headed by Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Jack Benny, all of whom will be donating their very considerable talent. Philip will be flying first to Miami from Jamaica, where the Queen will be relaxing on the royal yacht, Britannia. On the same mission of helping youth, Philip will be visiting Los Angeles, New York, Washington and, I believe, Chicago. He will have three days in Hollywood and will stay at the Beverly Hills Hotel, as will Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon about three weeks from now.

★ ★ ★

Sharman Douglas, by the way, has never been so besieged by phone calls from friends and non-friends who want to be sure of invitations for the various parties and functions for Princess Margaret and her husband . . . Danny Kaye, a good amateur cook, will prepare a professional dinner for the Snowdons.

★ ★ ★

Hildegarde, in London, looks 20 years younger than the age she proclaims — 60. How does she do it? Work! She enjoys it . . . Mary Martin due any day to start rehearsals for the December opening here of Hello, Dolly! Then, after a few months, Carol Channing takes over, followed by that other Dolly, Ginger Rogers. The British can't wait. This sort of thing has never happened before.

★ ★ ★

Overheard—Terence Stamp and Michael Caine, who used to room together when they were unknown and broke, marvelling: "Lightning can strike twice." They are both top international stars. Terence made it first in Billy Budd. It took Michael, aged 32, longer — The Ipcress File. Terence loaned his apartment to Monica Vitti, co-star of Modesty Blaise. He's living in a room at Grosvenor House for the duration of her stay.

★ ★ ★

George Peppard, in Ireland for The Blue Max, is using the same enormous garden suite at the Gresham, occupied by Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton while Richard made The Spy Who Came In From the Cold. That other Elizabeth (and I do mean Ashley), the one who loves George, is also at the Gresham. She has been with him most of the time. I doubt whether he would have signed for the film, if she hadn't been. The reason they are postponing the wedding until the spring, I am told, is that they want a big wedding ceremony, cake, reception, rice 'n' everything. They have both been married once before. They have had a long time to decide that this marriage will be the last. As a famous writer wrote, "Let every lover be the last."

STAN DELAPLANE Offers Helpful Hints

Wily Ways to Save Money

A fair fall day around the family scatter. (Four bedrooms, 2½ baths, the better to get bank loans by, my dear.)

Keeping up the place is a good deal of work. We've been operating lately on a book of Helpful Hints. Short contributions by women who found wily ways to save time and money.

"When smoking home-made sausage, I have found the best container is an old, black mesh stocking I wore while working in burlesque . . ."

★ ★ ★

One thing we found out is that you can use vinegar for almost everything.

Women write in that they use vinegar for cleaning brick tile. They clean crepe and mahogany and satin shoes and carpet sweepers.

They rinse things in vinegar—linens, blankets, diapers, wool and their own new-washed hair.

They pour it down drains.

Since we discovered this educational book, the house smells pretty much like a salad.

I said to the head cleaner: "Look, couldn't we go back to the stuff on TV? Where the knight cleans you up with his spear. The vinegar fumes are killing me."

She said: "The book says vinegar does it better. It's a Helpful Household Hint."

★ ★ ★

One thing about this book appeals to me. Other people write it—not to be sneezed at while dusting off verbs and adjectives.

The writing woman writes: "Many ways have been suggested for fixing a stuck zipper . . ."

Immediately dozens of readers write and tell how THEY unstick zippers.

It is perpetual motion. It occurs to me I haven't been giving my all in this department. I HAVE picked up a few labor-saving devices for housewives. And I intend to share.

★ ★ ★

Here is one in the bopk: "I had trouble keeping sharp pencils for doing crossword puzzzles. Now I keep a glass jar on the table full of pencils. In the bottom of it, I dropped a 10-cent store pencil sharpener . . ."

Here is a handy hint I picked up: Pencils can be sharpened easily with a razor blade. Take your husband's razor and remove the blade. Sharpen pencils. Now — carefully wipe off the tell-tale pencil lead on the edge of the blade.

★ ★ ★

Replace blade in razor. Your husband will never know until he shaves again. At which point, you say, "Don't shout at ME. Nobody touches your razor except YOU."

A woman writes: "I use my husband's aerosol can of shaving cream to remove grease from my hands. It leaves a nice smell, too. Just rinse with warm water and that's it."

I learned a hint on that. I think it beats the aerosol shaving cream.

When working with grease, don't work with your bare hands. In your husband's drawer, you'll find a pair of gloves. And you can always plead later, "I thought you said you were going to throw them away. If you really wanted them, why weren't you wearing them?"

There is no answer to logic. He will be forced to admit that.

★ ★ ★

Here a woman writes: "I did not realize until my husband slipped in the bathtub while standing on a rubber mat that these mats do not remain skid-proof."

Five women wrote in with ways to make mats stick.

Nobody wrote in on how to replace the husband — who was probably badly dented when the bath mat went — whoops!

My hint would be to get a large bet down with the insurance company. When the mat slips, you have enough money to be an attractive widow. And probably enough over to have the whole bathroom done over.

'Agent 007' May Be Sugared

LONDON—Mrs. Ann Fleming is angry to hear that a new James Bond thriller may be written. As her husband Ian Fleming, who wrote Bond, died 14 months ago, this is understandable.

The people who want more Bond are Gildrose Productions Ltd., an organization controlled by Booker Brothers, the sugar Company. Ian Fleming sold 51 per cent of Gildrose, which owns copyright in his books, to Sir Jock Campbell, chairman of Booker Brothers, shortly before he died.

"I invented the phrase 'jumping on the Bondwagon' to describe this posthumous trading in the cult," says Mrs. Fleming.

* * *

"I think Ian's books should be left alone. They weren't perfect, but they were unique and individual."

One ghost writer whom Gildrose have approached to write mock-Bond is Kingsley Amis.

* * *

"What we're getting now is a left-wing takeover for Bond. Ian was a right-wing romantic. Old Sugar-Jock Campbell is leftish, inclined to puritanism; so is Amis.

"And what I particulary resent is that the reports of this new book have implied that it was the family who wanted more Bond books to make more money. With estate duty we don't make a fortune out of James Bond, I can promise you. It's not our scheme; it's all thought up by the sugar people."

* * *

Meanwhile, from the sugar people, from Fleming's agent Peter Jansom-Smith and from Amis, come generally placatory noises. "These ideas are all very tentative," say John Murphy, of Bookers and Gildrose. "We're only agreed that in principle a new Bond might be a good idea. If Mrs. Fleming, or Peter Fleming, didn't like a new book we certainly wouldn't bring it out."

Finnish Work Near Kitimat

A team of Finnish forestry experts is coming to B.C. to do preliminary work in connection with a recently awarded tree farm licence near Kitimat, Resources Minister Williston said Monday.

He said he was advised of the men's plans by Pentti Halle, president of Enso-Gutzeit Osakeyhtio, the largest of four Finnish firms which have teamed up with Northern Interior construction man Ben Ginter to build a $60,000,000 pulp and paper mill at or near Kitimat.

German Banker Leaves Island

Dr. Rudolph Brinckmann, prominent German banker and a director of the International Monetary Fund, has left after a vacation in Sooke.

Dr. Brinckmann came here after attending the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund and Bank of International Settlements in Washington, D.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Howard Trueman, a Canadian expert on international agriculture, claims the world's food problems cannot be solved until underdeveloped countries give their people new standards of living to aim for. He told a meeting of the Young World Mobilization Appeal in Ottawa Saturday that young people can help the less privileged of the world.

Wood 'Demolished' Symphony In Violent, Physical Triumph

By WILLIAM THOMAS

A New York newspaper was once invited to send a writer to cover the world championships of professional wrestling held in the cavernous Madison Square Garden.

The paper responded with irony by sending their drama critic.

This newspaper might have pulled the reverse switch Sunday and sent a sports writer to cover the Victoria Symphony performance of Brahms piano concerto.

The Sunday concert was a personal triumph for soloist Robin Wood who conquered the entire orchestra. It was a violent, physical thing—more like the vicious infighting one expects in the final movement of the B. flat minor piano concerto of Tschaikovsky.

ORCHESTRA NO MATCH

Robin Wood attacked the piano and defied it to misbehave as he used it to demolish the orchestra, which proved no match for him.

First he tackled the horn section who have an interesting part in the Maestoso. The horns tried to be brave but just could not stand the pace.

HORNS GAVE UP

Mr. Wood played them right into the ground so that the second time they had the chance they abandoned any hope of revenge and faded into the background.

WOODWINDS SILENCED

The woodwind section joined battle with courage and the oboe came over loud and clear until the piano silenced them.

STRINGS DRUBBED

In their turn the string section was also subjected to a thorough drubbing. Violins called it a day after Robin Wood made it clear he would stand no trifling with Brahms. Cellos were even less fortunate.

The performance was completely at variance to my predictions, but it was brilliant.

It was different. It was exciting.

Mr. Wood gave a fine sensitive slow movement, the adagio in D major.

ALL ROBIN WOOD

But make no mistake, this was not the Victoria Symphony or even Brahms. It was all Robin Wood. The critics who said this was an orchestral work with piano accompaniment must certainly have never heard it played like this. Robin Wood has added a dimension to the work.

ALONE, HE SOARED

The finale was his alone and he soared.

Some of the musical psychoanalysts say this work sings of Brahms and Clara Schumann.

If it does then, their deduction of a relationship "purely platonic" is absolute bunk for Robin Wood makes it a passionate tempest of an affair.

For some strange reason the audience was not quite sure what he was about, for the applause was polite but not up to the performance.

He deserved a standing ovation but it was not accorded.

PREDICTION

Having made one prediction, why not another? In five years from now those in Victoria who love Brahms will say "that was quite an afternoon when Robin Wood offered the first piano concerto." Those who were there will say it with relish, savouring the memory.

The orchestra opened the concert with the Weber overture Oberon. They played well.

DASH OF VERVE

At the risk of seeming picayune it could be said the horns might have been more definite in stating the opening. This and a dash of verve in the finale would have given us a near perfect performance.

After Robin Wood, I left, for anything else would have been a letdown.

A memorable afternoon.

Broadway Realism

Plucky Actor Back Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sammy Davis Jr., recovering from a fistful of broadway realism, left hospital and returned to his starring role in the musical, Golden Boy.

Davis was socked by a replacement actor during the fight scene in the show Saturday night. It was the second time Davis was literally knocked out of the show. On June 30, an accidental kick in the same scene sent him home for the night.

On Saturday, Davis got up from the stage floor and finished the act, then was sent to the hospital for treatment of bad bruises on his head and neck.

As in June, the show went on with Davis' understudy playing his role.

People should be so lucky

As an example of the care and attention that Finning gives to its stock of Caterpillar spare parts, consider the modest gasket.

We say 'modest' because when an inventory covers 25,000 different line items and a value of almost five million dollars, gaskets don't loom that large.

More often than not you'd find them hanging from a wall somewhere. But not at Finning. REASON: This tends to weaken them. And a customer could be hung up with a blown gasket when he least expects it.

So Finning has spent $8,000 on specially-designed drawers to allow each gasket to relax without strain until it's needed.

Now take this kind of thinking and apply it to the other 24,999 types of parts in stock.

You'll see why so many people in B.C.'s rugged basic industries happily rely on Finning . . . the big company that isn't too proud to think small if it means better service.

King Fisherman

Cowichan Trout Plentiful

Colonist subscriber John McKee of Port Renfrew is still uncrowned king of the King Fisherman contest's coho division.

Mr. McKee caught a 21.7-pound coho in San Juan Bay Sept. 29.

Meanwhile, Cowichan Lake continues to produce good catches of trout, with some weighing in up to six pounds.

Prospective Jurors Biased

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — Collie Leroy Wilkins, a young Ku Klux Klansman on trial for his life in the civil rights murder of a Detroit mother, heard a prospective juror say Monday he would never vote for the death penalty in such a crime.

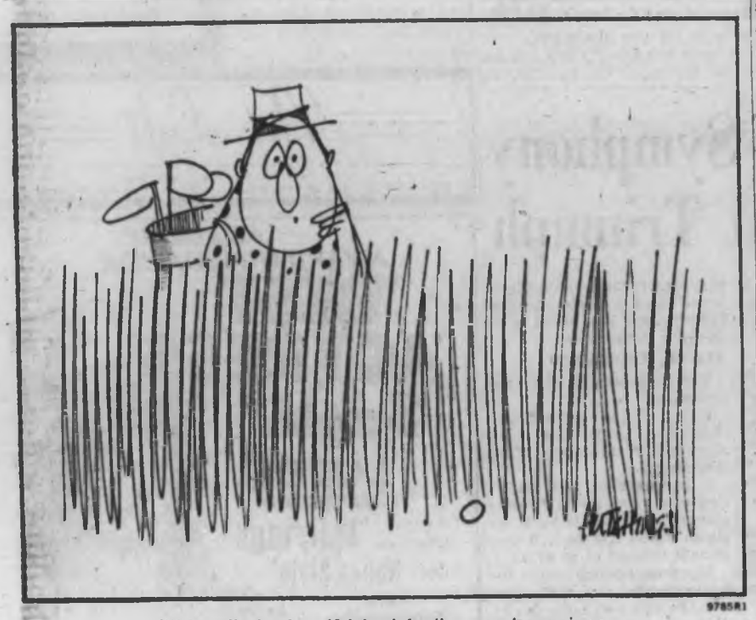

The chunky 21-year-old defendant, on trial for the second time in the nightrider slaying of Mrs. Viola Lizzo, heard other prospective jurors — including a former Klan official — say under questioning that:

- Whites are superior to Negroes.
- The Klan is not a terrorist organization.
- The Klan serves a useful purpose.

The line of the early questioning indicated it would take hours, if not days, to select the 12-man jury.

The first trial of Wilkins, an unemployed auto mechanic, ended in a hung jury last spring after an all-white jury divided 10-2 for conviction.

TETTENHAL, England (Reuters) — Bert Lindsay was so keen on gardening he took his garden with him when he moved to a new home. It took 13 trucks to carry the 40 tons of dirt to Bert's new house 40 miles away. He explained that the soil had produced prize vegetables.

Veteran Instructor

Swim Classes Set

Mrs. Margie Naysmith, veteran swimming teacher and conductor of The Daily Colonist summer swim classes, will carry on at Crystal Garden pool until the end of the year at least.

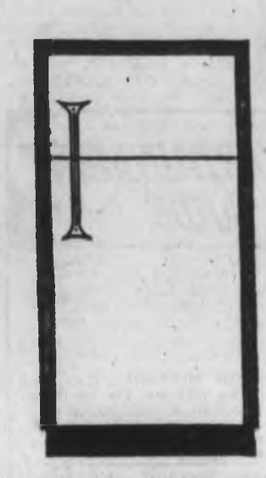

Members of the recreation and community services committee considered the possibility of the city setting up its own learn-to-swim program at the pool, now that the facility has been taken over from the CPR and become a civic enterprise.

RISKS INVOLVED

They were told by Jack Morgan, civic facilities director, that there were risks involved. If the city set up its own program it might find that it was jeopardizing the several volunteer projects, like that conducted by the Red Cross, which have provided valuable volunteer work over the years, he said.

EXCELLENT WORK

Although a privately-run effort and perhaps not compatible with a publicly-owned project, Mrs. Naysmith's scheme was doing excellent work, he said. It was free to all who wanted to join and it was doing particularly well with young married women's classes and pre-school children.

'Denial Of All Great Grits'

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Monday night that Pearsonian Liberalism has started chiselling away at Confederation.

He said Prime Minister Pearson's brand of Liberalism is a denial of what all the great Liberals have stood for.

The provinces have great responsibilities and must have the authority to carry them out. But if they were raised to the status of associate states Canada would have 11 sovereign governments in greater or lesser degree.

MANY STANDING

"When that day comes this nation will never hold together," he said.

The Conservative leader spoke to some 1,200 persons in a packed and clammy-hot auditorium. More than one-quarter of the

Pearson Swings Westward

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson leads his campaign caravan into Western Canada today but for a good deal of the time his mind will be on the other side of the world.

He told newsmen Monday he would be in constant touch with Commonwealth leaders about the worsening Rhodesian crisis.

The Prime Minister's world-wide reputation as a peace saver had thrust him into the centre of desperate negotiations to halt the progress of the crisis which could so easily escalate into another African bloodbath.

Rhodesia was one of the main items on cabinet agenda yesterday. And it popped up again and again during a very busy non-campaign day for Mr. Pearson.

NOTES TRADED

Mr. Pearson said he had exchanged messages with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and the other leaders about "what may require to be done in certain contingencies we hope won't arise."

He was apparently referring to the intention of Commonwealth nations to invoke sanctions against Rhodesia if the African country unilaterally declares its independence.

Mr. Pearson also talked to Paul Tremblay, Canada's United Nations ambassador, and other external affairs officials, about a resolution being drafted for possible use if the crisis worsens.

He accused former Conserva-

Nuclear Devices For Sale

LONDON (AP) — Diplomatic sources and British informants disclosed Monday night a secret decision authorizing sales of nuclear power reactors, for peaceful purposes only, to Communist countries of East Europe.

The decision was reported to have been taken quietly last July by the inter-allied co-ordinating committee, a little-known group known as COCOM. Members are all the 15 Atlantic Alliance countries, excepting Iceland, plus Japan.

If the move is followed by firm deals with interested countries such as Romania, Czechoslovakia and Poland, it could, in the British view, mark a multi-million-dollar breakthrough in trade relations between East and West. For years these relations have been subject to strict control of all goods with a war potential.

U.K. INITIATIVE

Informants said the COCOM decision was taken as a result of a British initiative, backed by the United States.

In Ottawa, a government spokesman said Canada took part in the decision but none of the countries involved have made requests for Canadian-produced nuclear power reactors.

Oil Tanker To Run Picket Line

VANCOUVER (CP) — An oil tanker was expected to attempt this morning to make a run past a floating picket line to reach a British American Oil Co. Ltd. dock.

The tanker, the BA Canada, anchored in Burrard Inlet on Monday.

★ ★ ★

BA officials here would not say where she had sailed from, or where she had loaded. Her normal run is between Venezuela and Halifax, and she is believed to have loaded in South America.

The oil and gasoline aboard was to be pumped into shore tanks at BA's bulk loading terminal in Port Moody, up the inlet from Vancouver.

★ ★ ★

The terminal is normally supplied by pipeline from the company's refinery at Port Moody. The refinery has been out of production since the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC) struck Sept. 14.

A union official said the company will be unable to hire a pilot to dock the tanker.

Erhard Coalition Survives Crisis

BONN (UPI) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard today saved his government coalition in a tense six-hour meeting that lasted until the early hours.

Vice Chancellor Erich Mende, who held the key to the crisis, left the marathon meeting to tell reporters, "the coalition remains in being."

While a full cabinet list has yet to be worked out, he said he will support Erhard for chancellor when his name is put before the Bundestag Wednesday.

The crisis stemmed from Erhard's demand that Mende give up his post as head of the ministry for All German Affairs. Mende threatened to bolt the coalition if he was forced out. It was not known immediately how the situation was resolved.

Erhard confirmed Mende's statement that the four-year-old coalition had been saved.

Sukarno Resists Army Reds Face Pressure

SINGAPORE (AP) — Indonesia's army imposed a military ban on the Communist party in Jakarta Monday, said a broadcast from the Indonesian capital. But President Sukarno was reported resisting military pressure to dissolve the party.

A Jakarta broadcast heard here said a number of parties and organizations linked to the Communist party also were placed under the ban and the powerful, Communist-dominated trade union federation, SOBSI, was outlawed, presumably throughout Indonesia.

The Indonesian army continued its crackdown on Communists believed involved in the Sept. 30-Oct. 1 coup attempt against Sukarno despite the president's appeal to the military to desist.

REDS ARRESTED

A dispatch from Jakarta reported the arrest of the suspended Communist director of the government-run Jakarta radio, Sukirman.

Also reported arrested were Satya Graha, chief editor of the nationalist party newspaper Suluh Indonesia, suspended by the army, and four staff members of the official news agency Antara. This brought the total of arrested personnel from Antara, which was Communist-infiltrated, to 31.

Mobs were reported systematically burning and sacking Communist offices in other parts of the country.

YOUTH WING

The ban on the Communist party in Jakarta was announced in the name of Gen. Umar Hadikasumo, commanding officer in the capital area. He ordered officials of the party and of the other banned organizations to report to the army or police within five days.

Also placed under the military ban were Permuda Rakjat, the Communist party's youth wing, and Gerwani, the party's women's branch.

A Jakarta press dispatch flown to Singapore said an Indonesian cabinet minister reported Sukarno still is resisting army pressures to dissolve formally the Indonesian Communist party.

Former Premier

Rhodesia Seizes Critic

SALISBURY (Reuters)—The Rhodesian government seized former Prime Minister Garfield Todd Monday as he was about to leave for Britain and ordered him confined to his farm for 12 months.

The restriction order followed by only a few hours Prime Minister Ian Smith's rejection of British Prime Minister Wilson's latest offer to continue talks on Rhodesia's demand for independence.

Todd, a champion of Negro-majority rule, was served with the restriction order at a Salisbury house just as he was preparing to fly to Britain to address a televised Rhodesia teach-in at Edinburgh University in Scotland.

LAST-MINUTE STEP

In London, Wilson sent a cable to Smith in an 11th-hour effort to persuade Rhodesia not to seize independence from Britain unilaterally.

Todd was scheduled to share the platform at the teach-in with Britain's former Conservative prime minister, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, and Cledwyn Hughes, the British Labor government's minister of state for Commonwealth relations.

NO DRAMA

Todd's host in Salisbury, Frank Haddon, said the special branch police arresting officers arrived as Todd was eating dinner. Haddon said:

"There was no drama. They were so gentlemanly and British you have no idea. The senior officer could not have been nicer."

CARRIES FIGHT

Todd has carried his fight for Negro rule in Rhodesia, where an all-white government rules 4,000,000 Negroes and only 220,000 whites, to the United Nations.

The Rhodesian government said it is studying the texts of Todd's UN speeches last April for possible subverions. A Rhodesian law makes it an offence for citizens to make subversive speeches overseas. Todd denied any subversive intention.

RULE BY FORCE

He said the only alternative to negotiating rights and liberties for various Rhodesian racial groups is the maintenance of white rule by force.

He once said that drastic measures such as restriction without trial "had the result of putting the white people on top of a smouldering volcano."

MEDIATION DENIED

Todd's restriction came a few hours after Smith rejected Wilson's proposal for mediation in the Rhodesian independence dispute by leaders of Commonwealth countries.

Smith also said his government has made up its mind whether to defy Britain and

Underwater Domicile Big Success

MONTE CARLO (UPI)—French marine explorer Commander Jacques Yves Cousteau said Monday his most recent project—the three-week research mission in his underwater house Pre Continent III—was a complete success.

The pressurized sphere, which kept six men under water at a depth of 330 feet for 22 days, surfaced four days ago, but the oceanauts completed their decompression only Monday.

Secret Pact Hinted

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Douglas Fisher, New Democratic party House leader in the last Parliament, said Monday he believes the Liberal government has a secret pact or agreement with President Johnson to send Canadian troops to Viet Nam after the Nov. 8 federal election.

In an interview with radio station CJLX, Mr. Fisher said he knows for a fact the liberal government drafted a plan for sending communication and transportation personnel to Viet Nam.

MILITARY LEAK

He said the draft was on Defence Minister Paul Hellyer's desk in August. He credited a defence department source for leaking the information.

Mr. Fisher, who does not plan to contest the Nov. 8 election, termed as nonsense allegations by Creditiste Leader Real Caouette that the Liberals plan to introduce military conscription after the election.

He said conscription would be political suicide for the Liberals.

Four Jail Rebels Hold Hostages In Prison Hospital

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Four rebellious convicts held a half-dozen hostages for several hours at Southern Michigan Prison Monday, commandeered the penitentiary's surgical centre and grabbed its narcotics supply.

After three terror-filled hours, the prisoners released two doctors and a guard they had threatened with home-made knives. Later, they decided to release their three other hostages and surrender.

All of the hostages were reported in "good health" by Louis Utess, administrative assistant to warden George Kropp. About 40 state policemen, armed with riot guns, were dismissed from stand-by duty.

NO REASON

During Monday's disturbance, one prison official said: "All we are hearing from them over the intercom is a lot of angry talk that has no definite rhyme or reason. And they are using the intercom only when they choose to. We haven't really been able to discuss this with them to see what their demands are."

Held hostage were Dr. W. R. Latchaw, 62, of Jackson; Dr. Hamner Hannah, a University of Michigan consultant; guard inspector Joseph Demobskey, 58, and guards George Hutchins, 48, Ronald Thompson, and Walter Gould.

Warden Kropp did not immediately release the names of the inmates involved, and all but local reporters were refused admission to the prison during the incident.

Beer Talks Into Sixth Day

VANCOUVER (CP) — Negotiators go into their sixth day of talks today still seeking a common ground to end the brewery workers' strike.

Brewery representatives and officials of the International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers (CLC) have been talking to conciliation officers since last Wednesday.

Chief provincial labor conciliator Reg Clements said Monday he is still hopeful of a settlement.

Hundred Turned Back From Quebec Inquest

QUEBEC (CP) — Some 100 persons Monday were refused entry to a tight-security coroner's inquest into the death of four persons whose bodies were found recently in different parts of the province.

Thirty Quebec Provincial Police officers guarded all entrances to the building as Dr. Paul-W. Desruisseaux opened the inquest into the deaths of Redempteur Faucher, 47, Paul Brie, 44, both of Quebec City, Alberic Bilodeau, 52, of Ste. Marie de Beauce, Que., and Paul Chandonnet, 38, of Sherbrooke, Que.

The inquest was originally scheduled to be held in the criminal assizes courtroom but was switched to a smaller room. No explanation was given but it was believed to be a security move to reduce the audience to a minimum.

The smaller room, with space for an estimated 100 persons, was three-quarters filled with police and newspaper men.

Everyone admitted to the inquest was searched by police before entering the courthouse.

Scientist Believes — May Unlock Mystery

New Probe Cancer Enemy

By BOB MACKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — An instrument used mainly to detect minute quantities of metal in microscopic samples eventually may unlock the mystery of cancer, a U.S. scientist said Monday.

H. P. Dryer of Dearborn, Mich., said the microprobe, an instrument developed about five years ago, has been used almost entirely in metallurgy.

★ ★ ★

"But in the next couple years there will be a big swing to biology.

"We only have theories now, but the microprobe will enable us to examine processes taking place in blood samples and in living cell tissues."

The microprobe bombards its test sample with high energy electrons, and determines the presence of elements by measuring the x-rays given off by the sample during the bombardment.

"But its early use was restricted to metal research as it only could detect heavier elements. Now, it can identify all but the five lightest elements known to man.

"We still can't use it for hydrogen, but we can locate as little as a hundredth of one per cent of heavier material, like iron or copper."

Mr. Dryer, manager of the applications laboratory of Applied Research Laboratories, Inc., of Dearborn, said microprobe improvements have made the instrument a key analysis instrument in areas where analysis was impossible before because of the minute size of samples.

★ ★ ★

In the case of cancer it would enable scientists to determine the chemical differences between good and malignant cells.

"There are certain elements a malignant cell will pick up. With proper development work, the microprobe should show us how the process takes place."

The same could hold for work in genetics, "but there still is much more work to do."

★ ★ ★

While the microprobe will not determine amounts of light elements, there is a process where tracers of a heavier element can be aded to the light element.

"We've already done this in plant work, determining the cause of nutrition deficiencies due to either too much or too little of an element in the soil."

Mr. Dryer is in Ottawa for a three-day symposium sponsored by the Canadian Association of Applied Spectroscopy.

Cleanliness Costly

Price Index Jumps

OTTAWA (CP) Cleanliness now, and financial protection against automobile accident and sickness charges in the future, are the biggest contributors to recent increases in living costs.

Compared with a year ago, the latest available official statistics show:

1. It costs $214.90 to obtain the automobile insurance which a year ago cost $169.90.
2. It costs $219.20 now to pay for the prepaid medical care plan that a year ago cost $193.20.
3. And toilet soap which cost 13 cents last year now costs more than 15 cents.

These are increases of more than 25 per cent, 13 per cent and 15 per cent respectively.

The figures don't indicate the costs of specific insurance policies or brands of soap.

The survey is taken late in every month to compile the bureau's consumer price index for the following month, based on 1949 prices equalling 100. The index was 139.4 in August, just a tenth of a point off from its all-time peak. It dropped another three-tenths of a point to 139.1 last month.

SHOES, HELP

Two other major price increases in the past year have been in children's shoes and the cost of household help. From an index of 154.9 a year ago, children's shoe prices have moved to 169.1. And the household help index has risen to 202.3 from 184.4.

The cost of shelter and of household operations together make up 32 per cent of the total index, and food costs account for 27 per cent.

TWO PER CENT

The August food index meant that it cost $13.78 for a sack of groceries which could be purchased a year ago for $13.51. This is an increase of two per cent.

And in August this year, the combined cost of owning or renting a house or an apartment, along with fuel, electricity, home furnishings and supplies was less than two per ...igher than a year ago. ...ousing index was 141.2 this year, compared with 138.7 ...ar earlier.

NATO Studies Alternate Sites

LONDON (UPI) — The possibility that French President Charles de Gaulle may ask NATO to take its headquarters out of Paris is forcing officials to seek alternative bases outside of France, authoritative sources say. Despite formal denials, plans under active study include Britain, Belgium and Luxembourg as the most likely sites for NATO's political and military headquarters if the move becomes inevitable.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police have ordered radar equipment for experimental use in patrolling Vancouver streets. Police traffic superintendent Alan Rossiter said he hoped the equipment would be in use by the end of the year.

Long Shot Pays Off

ST. ALBAN'S, England (Reuters)—Christine Weaver, 20, faced a problem when her parents won a family cruise on the liner Queen Mary in a competition—she didn't want to tell them she preferred to stay home for Christmas with her fiance, Julian Powell.

So Julian, 21, tried a 1,000,000-to-1 shot, and entered a similar competition run by another firm.

He was among the top prize winners, and will join the Weavers on the liner's Christmas cruise.

Seven Miners Dead

Workers remove last of six miners' bodies from smoked-filled coal mine Monday near Clarksburg, W. Va., following a fire that broke out when coal-digging machine cut electrical cable, causing short-circuit. Seventh miner was brought out alive, but died minutes later. Chalk marks along tunnel corridors made by seven were grim evidence they had stayed alive for nearly day following blaze.

Horse Thief

HORSE THIEF SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Police here are looking for a thief who stole two quarterhorses valued at $2,000.

Police Seek Elusive Gunmen

WILLIAMS LAKE (CP) — RCMP said Monday they will continue searching for another two or three days for clues that would lead them to phantom gunmen who shoot at forestry service boats.

They said investigations following a pitched battle on Quesnel Lake last week have drawn a blank. The lake is 40 miles from this community 200 miles northeast of Vancouver.

A B.C. Government Forestry Service boat was shot at 30 times last Thursday night from both land and a boat in the water. Forester George Dorrans, 45, said he got off 16 shots in return.

BALLISTIC TEST

Bullets taken from the hull of the boat were sent to RCMP headquarters in Vancouver for ballistics tests.

RCMP here said they have checked every known boat and boathouse on the 85-mile-long lake.

But the lake's 600-mile shoreline dips in and out and police said the boat may be hidden in a small cove.

"We've got our own plane searching the lake, as well as two men in a boat," an RCMP spokesman said.

NO SIGN

"They'll continue in the area for at least another two or three days. But so far there has ben nothing."

He said there were two communities on the lakeshore, Horsefly and Likely, but nobody had reported any strange boats in the area.

Forester Dorrans suffered minor face cuts in the Thursday night gun battle.

Rasputin Recalled in Court

NEW YORK (UPI)—The ghost of Rasputin was evoked in State Supreme Court Monday as the aged niece of Czar Nicholas II testified she never met the "mad monk" who was murdered in her palace by her husband and cousin in 1916.

"I did not know him but I knew of him," Princess Irina Romanoff Youssoupoff said crisply, her dark eyes flashing at the memory of old gossip that linked her to the licentious semi-literate peasant who held unrivalled power at the Czar's court.

ADMITS KILLING

The gaunty elegant princess, 70, daughter of Grand Duke Alexandre Mikhailovitch and Grand Duchess Xenia, took the witness stand to support the claim of her husband, Prince Felix Youssoupoff, for $1,500,000 damages from the Columbia Broadcasting System. Youssoupoff admits killing Rasputin to save Russia from political chaos.

But the Prince, 79, insists that a CBS television film, Rasputin, the Mad Monk, shown on CBS-affiliate stations in Chicago and New York in 1963, was an invasion of his privacy, made without his consent and partially inaccurate. His attorney, Herbert P. Zelenko, read into the record a pre-trial statement by CBS that the film was made without Youssoupoff's consent.

MATTER OF HISTORY

The network claims Rasputin's murder is a matter of history and therefore in the public domain as a subject for literary or dramatic treatment. It points out that Youssoupoff, Grand Duke Dmitri, and two other conspirators declared themselves the assassins 50 years ago and the prince even wrote a book about the episode.

Youssoupoff specifically complained that the film made an "inaccurate" assertion that he used his beautiful bride of a few months as "seductive bait" to lure Rasputin to the Youssoupoff's Moika palace in St. Petersburg (Leningrad).

At the close of Monday's session, the princess testified that she had been ill for four months and was in the Crimea when Rasputin's murder occurred. She denied ever sending for Rasputin to cure a headache, as mentioned in the television script, and said she did not know her husband used her headache as a ruse to get Rasputin to their palace until she read it later in his book.

Bleak Moor Yields Body

MANCHESTER (CP)—Police conducting a week-long search on a bleak moor near here Saturday found the almost complete remains of an unidentified young girl. The discovery came as a dramatic climax to the search, sparked off after a man was heard to boast about burying a body on the moors.

Hospital Projects Unveiled by Martin

Plan development of two hospital projects in Vancouver was announced Monday by Health Minister Martin.

One is a new 240-bed children's hospital adjacent to Vancouver General Hospital; the other is expansion of St. Vincent's Hospital, incorporating a nursing home, psychiatric, rehabilitative and intensive care facilities for 118 patients.

Mr. Martin's announcement of approval in principle to the projects gave the hospital boards authority to proceed with sketch plans, cost estimates and financing.

Eskimo Joins Council

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP) — Abraham Okpik, the first Eskimo to be named to the Northwest Territories Council, warned his new colleagues Monday that he intends to pull no punches in his new job.

"I want no favors from you because of my origin," Mr. Okpik told council as it opened a special session to draft a brief to the advisory council on the development of government in the territories.

"I will express my convictions and be ready to criticize what I think should be criticized," he said.

Fluent in English, Mr. Okpik has worked as a translator for the northern affairs department. He now is a liaison officer for the department in Yellowknife helping Eskimo miners and their families adjust to living in an urban environment.

Mr. Okpik was born in a tent in Aklavik, one of the few northern settlements where Indians and Eskimos mingle.

On Bicycle

Boy, 10 Hurt By Car

A 10-year-old boy is in St. Joseph's Hospital in fair condition after a collision with a car Sunday afternoon.

Saanich police said Darrel Strangahan, of 4119 Holland, came down the driveway at 3852 Wilkinson on his bicycle onto Wilkinson Road.

His bicycle struck the right front of a car driven by Leon Mollin, 154 Linden.

The boy was taken to hospital suffering from shock, a skull fracture and a fracture of the left collarbone.

4-H Awards for Saanich

Achievement presentations were made to members of two Saanich 4-H clubs over the weekend with 4-H supervisor for southern Vancouver Island Ken Jameson of Duncan handing out the awards.

The first three winners, for Saanich 4-H club, Eileen Hoskin, Allen Looy and Richard Michell received their awards at the club's annual banquet at the Farmers' Pavilion, Saanichton Experimental Farm.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Jameson told club members they were fortunate in having Joseph Taylor as their adult leader. Mr. Taylor is one of two farmers who last August represented British Columbia on an exchange trip to Ontario.

Also attending the banquet were assistant supervisor of 4-H clubs in B.C., Wayne Wickems and Mrs. Wickems.

An annual achievement tea was held at St. Stephen's church Hall, Saanich for members of the 4-H Home Arts Club who received their awards, ribbons, badges and certificates from Mr. Jameson.

First three winners in the club's A group were Heather Lord, June Simmonds, Jean Lord; in B group—Corinne Jack, Darlene Jack and Selena Kelly.

Special guests were Gordon Landon, director of extension of the provincial government of agriculture and Mrs. Landon.

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

This Special Hemorrhoid Remedy Contains a Unique Healing Substance That Relieves Pain As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "Itching Piles". It is most embarrassing for the sufferer during the day and especially aggravating at night.

If you want satisfactory relief —here's good news. A renowned research laboratory has found a unique healing substance with the ability to promptly relieve the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported. This improvement was maintained over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions—even cases of long standing.

This was accomplished by a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—developed by a world-renowned research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Newspaper Advertising Stimulates Buying

Canada Savings Bonds are issued by the Government of Canada. Any Canadian resident may buy them. They come in various sizes—$50, $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000. The limit is $10,000 per person.

The 1965 Bonds have a life of 12 years. They pay you good interest every year—4½% for each of the first two years, 5% for each of the next six years and 5½% for each of the remaining four years.

You don't have to keep your Bond for the full 12 years if you don't want to. You can get your money back any time. Just take it to your bank, trust or loan company. They'll give you its full face value plus earned interest. It only takes a few moments.

Canada Savings Bonds are easy to buy for cash or on instalments. Banks sell them. So do investment dealers, stock brokers, trust and loan companies.

You can also buy them on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. A $100 Bond will cost you less than 29¢ a day. (The Bonds you buy on the Payroll Savings Plan are identical in all respects to the Bonds you buy for cash.)

Canada Savings Bonds are a great way to save. They pay good interest. They are easy to buy. You can cash them any time.

Everyone has something to save for. To get what you want a little faster, buy Canada Savings Bonds.

Salmon Body Demands Federal Aid

By JOY HUNTLEY

CAMPBELL RIVER—A resolution asking the federal government to allocate funds immediately for a spring salmon rearing system in the Campbell River was passed by a large majority at a meeting here Sunday of commercial fishermen, conservationists, resort owners and fisheries experts.

The group met at the invitation of the local Chamber of Commerce to debate the values of increased spawning facilities for spring salmon.

Although everyone in attendance was unanimously in favor of increasing the stocks of Chinook salmon, those who voted against the resolution felt that the money would be best spent on further research first. Although the resolution did specify work to be done on the Campbell River it was explained by Sonny Ross, fisheries chairman that it was assumed that research would be included and other facilities on other rivers would follow.

The crowd listened attentively for four hours to the discussions and debates with a panel of experts and questions from the floor, followed by statements from three representatives from the Federal Department of fisheries. Chairman was Duncan Marshall.

PACKED HALL

Arguments and evidence for and against such a spawning ground were presented to the packed Legion Hall by the many groups represented and individual authorities. Roderick Haig-Brown, author and authority on sports fishing, first speaker on the panel, said that he did not believe a spawning channel in the Campbell was necessary. Spawning in the river was good and it must be some other factor that prevented the fish from returning.

The other panelists who all spoke in support of the channel were James C. Murray, president of B.C. Wildlife Federation, Burnaby, Bruce McPhee, president of Save Our Salmon, Courtenay and Phil Peterson of Campbell River for the auto courts and resorts association. Mr. Peterson pointed out that the Chinook salmon is the main attraction here for tourists—a million dollar inreach a billion dollars by 1967. reach a bilion dollars by 1967.

NOT ENOUGH

Speaking for the department of fisheries, R. E. Mclaren, chief biologist in charge of the fish research development branch in Vancouver admitted that conservation of fish runs had not been undertaken until threatened by hydro development on B.C. rivers in 1950. The department's aim to maintain salmon stocks at the level reached in the 1950's was challenged from the floor as not being good enough.

Local district protection officer Tom Rothery and assistant biologist Dick Crouter assisted Mr. Mclaren in answering the flood of questions from the members of such organizations as the Tyee Club of B.C., the Pacific Trollers Association, the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, the Save Our Salmon members, the B.C. Wildlife Federation, the Auto Courts and Resorts, the Chambers of Commerce, local airlines and three of the candidates for the coming election.

Dr. Richard Murphy spoke for the Tyee Club and illustrated his remarks with a graph showing the serious drop in fish caught over 30 lbs. and recorded by the club members.

Aid Children

Women's Council Active

NANAIMO — The Council of Women here is still seeking homes to help abandoned and wayward children in the Nanaimo area.

Originally the group had tried to interest the public and city council in a remand home, but Monday afternoon the women decided a receiving home would suit Nanaimo's needs better.

Mrs. J. S. Healy will head the council's committee and it is hoped to set up a group home at the same time.

FOSTER HOME

A receiving home is a short-term home for abandoned children or for children difficult to place in a foster home.

It is planned for the receiving home to also have one bed in it for remand cases from magistrate's court.

PARK LAND

The Council of Women received a letter from Bob Pedersen, B.C. Wildlife Federation parks conservation chairman, asking the group to continue its interest in preserving Newcastle Island as a park.

A meeting will be arranged with Mr. Pedersen to ensure the objectives of the two groups don't clash.

FERRY FARES

The meeting endorsed a resolution presented by Mrs. Robert Creighton that "any girl up to the age of 21 that is employed part time or full time must be ensured her transportation home from her place of work between midnight and 8 a.m., and the transportation must be supplied by the employer."

Considerable discussion was given to the high B.C. ferry fares. Mrs. A. B. Hall will meet with Ted Stroyan, president of the Association of Chambers of Commerce on the island, as this group intends to present a brief to the provincial government.

Two Counts Bring $300 Fine

LADYSMITH — John Lister of South Wellington was fined a total of $300 Monday after pleading guilty in police court here to charges of driving a car while his licence was suspended and leaving the scene of an accident.

The charges arose from a three-car collision Sunday afternoon on the Trans-Canada Highway near the Cedar Road cutoff.

A passenger in one of the cars, John Mather of Victoria was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where he is reported in fair condition with facial injuries.

LEFT TURN

Lister was southbound on the Trans-Canada Highway when the accident occurred, police said. Also involved were Mrs. John Forsyth of Ladysmith who was attempting to turn left into a service station and James Andrew Taggart of Victoria whose car crushed into the rear of the Forsyth car.

Wayne Donald Wilson of Nanaimo was fined $250 on a charge of impaired driving and being a minor in possession of liquor. Police said Wilson's car went out of control and plunged into a ditch at the Trans-Canada Highway and Bayview.

Delinquency Panel Topic

Delinquency in juveniles will be topic of a panel discussion at 8 p.m. today in Oaklands school, 2827 Belmont.

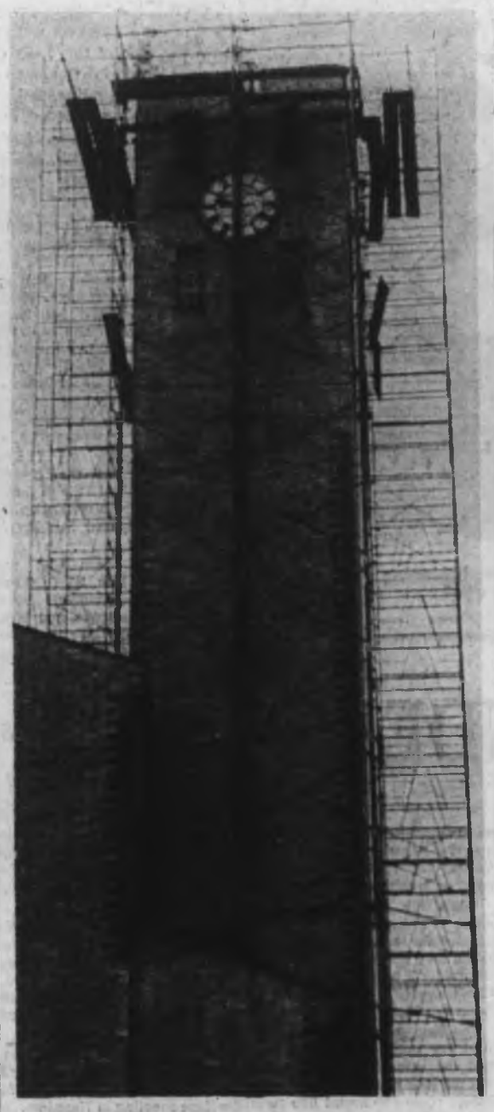

Panelist will be city police detective Lyle Sommers, University of Victoria sociology professor Clyde Pope, Esquimalt Senior High School principal Clive Kelly, Rev. Albert King and Mrs. Alex Calder, representing Victoria parents.

The discussion is sponsored by the Oaklands PTA.

A 47-year-old stevedore had his left leg pinned by a forklift Monday while working on the freighter Archanax at Ogden Point.

James Moreton suffered severe lacerations to the upper leg and was detained in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Mountain Snows Herald Winter

ALBERNI—Winter is not far away in the Alberni Valley with snow showing well down Mount Arrowsmith and Mount Klitsa, according to Colin Wilson at McCoy Lake weather station.

A total of 3.45 inches of rain fell between Oct. 12 and 17, bringing this month's total to 9½ inches. Mr. Wilson said heavy rains in the valley over the weekend appeared as heavy snowfall on the surrounding mountains.

Regional Board Considering New Objectives

COURTENAY—The regional district here is going to get a second chance to do a job.

The regional district of municipalities and outside areas was given provincial government approval earlier this year to raise money by taxation to build hospitals.

When the Sisters of St. Joseph, who operate the hospital at Comox decided to build a hospital from their own funds, the regional district board was left without a purpose.

LETTERS PATENT

However, a letter from Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell to city council Monday night notified municipalities and outside areas in the regional district he will recommend to the lieutenant-governor-in-council that supplementary letters patent be issued the regional board which:

- Would empower the regional district to undertake a study of water resources in the district and,
- Provide that costs shall be shared on a basis of assessment for school purposes by the areas within the district.

So now the frustrated regional board may have some work to do again in the near future.

Crash Injures Duncan Girl

SHAWNIGAN LAKE—A 14-year-old Duncan girl is in satisfactory condition in King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan with injuries received in a traffic accident on the Malahat Sunday night.

Thelma Hagen suffered an injured leg when the car in which she was a passenger crashed into a rock bluff. Driver of the car, Wayne Joseph Dennis, 17, of Lake Cowichan and four other passengers escaped injury.

Constable Tells Jury

Shooting Described To Murder Hearing

NANAIMO — A shot, a puff of smoke and a woman slumping in the seat of a police cruiser were described to a Supreme Court jury Monday as the Fall Assizes opened with the capital murder trial of Bert George of the Quamichan Indian Reserve.

George, 22, is charged in the July 17 slaying of 28-year-old Doseanne Isabel James of the Quamichan Indian reserve.

CALL TAKEN

RCMP Constable Dennis McDonald told the jury and Mr. Justice Victor Dryer that in the early hours of July 17 he drove his police cruiser to the James home on Quamichan Road after receiving a call reporting an argument at a party in a nearby house.

He said that when he arrived he found Mrs. James and George lying in the grass in the back yard of the home.

SCYTHE BLADE

When George got up, Const. McDonald said, he noticed a scythe blade on the ground. While taking the woman to his car he became aware there were gashes on her arms and legs.

He said it was then he decided to talk to George again but found he had vanished.

HEARD SHOT

He searched the house and backyard, Const. McDonald said, and when he returned to the front of the house he saw a man standing by the police car.

The constable told the jury he heard a shot, saw a puff of smoke and the woman slumped down in the front seat of the police car.

NO SIGNS

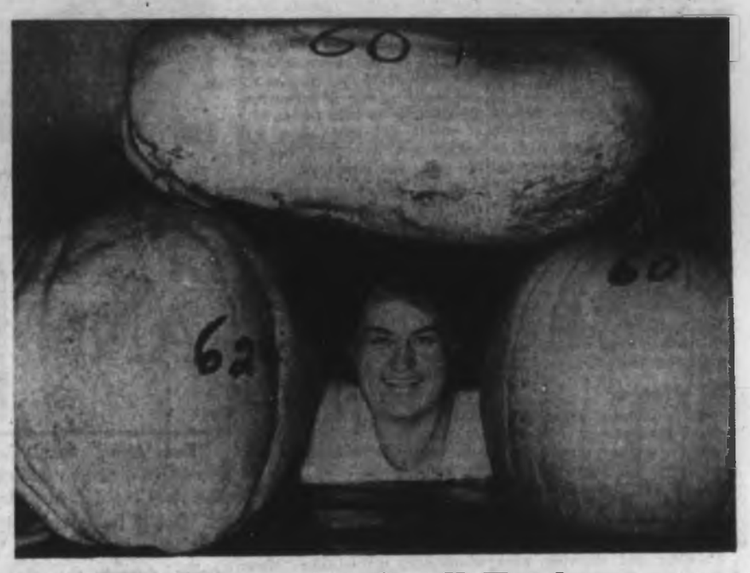

He rushed to the car and took a .22 calibre rifle away from George and placed him under arrest.

The constable said he examined the woman after he had handcuffed George, but was unable to find any sign of a wound. He then rushed the woman to King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan.

BULLET HOLE

Earlier Dr. James Goodbrand of Duncan, testified that he answered an emergency call at the hospital and found what he thought was a bullet hole in the woman's chest.

The trial continues today.

Second Phase Authorized

The board of directors of Simon Fraser University was authorized Monday by the cabinet to proceed with its second phase of development—$6,507,600 worth of capital expenditures.

An order-in-council said the board may proceed with plans for additions to the academic quadrangle and additions to the science complex, furnishings and site service.

Plans Worthless Without Action

NANAIMO—Planning helps a community choose its own future but "no plan is worth anything if it is not implemented," A. H. Roberts, planning director for the Capital Region Planning Board in Victoria, said here Monday.

Mr. Roberts was the first speaker in a panel discussion held as the second part of a community workshop at the Tally-Ho Motor Lodge by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with the B.C. Chamber.

Theme of this year's workshop was Planning for Community Progress. Every community on Vancouver Island sent representatives, plus Powell River. Chairman was Ted Stroyan, president of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island.

PUBLIC PROPERTY

Planning gives the community an opportunity to look at and understand itself, Mr. Roberts said.

"Everybody is directly concerned with planning," he said and illustrated his point by saying that 46 per cent of Victoria is publicly owned.

Stanley Endersby, municipal planner for Burnaby, told the delegates, "In the long run the public will decide on what type of plan it needs, but it is not the job of the planner to decide the type of life the community should lead."

Panel Maps Community Development

* * *

Alderman R. A. Williams of Vancouver and a professional planner, said the fact could not be avoided that planning is public intervention in the development of the city.

Most towns in B.C. now have planners or consultants, he said, and in the small towns the consultants find their first job is to prove the value of planning.

PANEL TALKS

Don South, director of the regional planning division for the department of municipal affairs, wound up the panel discussion.

"We are being threatened with single purpose unit government, each giving the people in the community one service," he said.

He said his department "was usurping perhaps a field that should be left to free enterprise."

Speaking of regional districts Mr. South said that even the east coast of Vancouver Island was one community.

His department had found while doing a survey for the extension of Ladysmith's boundaries that people from Crofton and Harmac crossed on the way to work. Both communities have large pulp mills on the outskirts.

Mr. South said regional districts are not another level of government but a chance for areas to buy services.

SLIDE SHOW

"A sense of identity in the community is still preserved. The greatest enemy to both the regional district and community planning is fear of the unknown," he said.

The morning session saw W. J. Sheriday, assistant general manager of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce give an introductory talk followed by a slide presentation by Ted Rashleigh, executive director of the B.C. division of the Community Planning Association of Canada.

Socred Scores Old-Line Parties For Lack of Constructive Ideas

PORT ALBERNI — Neither of the old-line parties has offered any constructive ideas but the newspapers, radio and television have been filled with the day-to-day bickering of two men trying to convince themselves that they alone can bring about "the salvation of our system of personal initiative and free enterprise," Social Credit candidate J. M. Gagnon said here.

Mr. Gagnon said Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker have devoted their time to accusations and post-mortems and in doing so "are writing their own obituaries."

TEN POINTS

"We of the Social Credit Party profess the tenet that man alone is the most important factor in our society and has the inherent right to determine his destiny, the right to freedom of speech and expression of his thoughts," Mr. Gagnon said.

He said the Social Credit national executive has formulated a 10-point program to place before the electors.

"This program encompasses all the issues at stake, both national and international. We have placed our national interest above party consideration with emphasis on nuclear disarmament; control of the national resources and expansion of our trade and commerce."

Mr. Gagnon said his party plans to ensure the stability of the labor force.

Greater federal contributions toward education costs will also be given full consideration.

CITES ALBERTA

"This is the only way we will interfere with the education system of the various provinces," Mr. Gagnon said.

"The results of Social Credit ideals, and the implementation of Social Credit principles are well known to all Canadians," the Socred candidate said.

He cited 30 years of Social Credit government in Alberta and 13 in British Columbia.

Barnett Blasts Election Call

PORT ALICE—Tom Barnett, New Democratic Party candidate in the Nov. 8 federal election, said at a meeting here Sunday he could only guess at Prime Minister Pearson's reasons for calling the election.

"I can only guess that the financial interests that pull the strings behind the Liberal Party did not like the consideration that this minority government had to pay to the opinions of their own backbenchers and to MPs of the opposition parties," Mr. Barnett said.

He said that "any doubt as to who pulls the strings of the Liberal Party were dispelled by the fact that a minister of the Crown, Arthur Laing (minister of northern affairs), was forced to apologize to the Toronto Stock Exchange for announcing certain newly-discovered petroleum deposits publicly."

Pearson 'Afraid' Of Electorate

HORNBY ISLAND — Prime Minister Pearson is "afraid to face the electorate," Conservative candidate in Comox-Alberni William Macadam told a meeting here. He said it was "the duty of the prime minister to discuss the important issues with all Canadians and not just those in the large cities." The Conservative leader John Diefenbaker is meeting Canadians from coast to coast, he said.

Chamber Seeking Terminal Move On Salt Spring

GANGES—A move of the ferry terminal at Fulford to a new site at Isabela Point is being urged here.

Chamber of Commerce has passed a motion which will press B.C. Ferries to move the Fulford terminal of the ferry that runs to Swartz Bay.

REDUCE RUN

The chamber says a terminal at Isabella Point would reduce the run from 45 to 20 minutes.

Members say with double service the same vessel could handle twice the traffic without increasing operating expenses.

ISLAND PENALIZED

Residents of this area believe Salt Spring Island has been penalized by having the terminal at Fulford.

Alberni

Driver Fined $200

ALBERNI — Raymond Arsenault was fined $200 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident and $30 for careless driving when he appeared in court here as the result of an accident on River Road last week.

Police said Arsenault's car sideswiped another car Thursday night, finally crashing into a power pole and plunging the Sproat Lake and River Road areas into darkness. Arsenault abandoned the car at the scene and was arrested by police later.

Gerald Fred, a passenger in the car that was sideswiped, was taken to West Coast General Hospital with severe facial cuts and later transferred to St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria.

Referees Clinic Sunday

CUMBERLAND — A second clinic for referees and coaches will be held at the home of Bob McKellar next Sunday when Harold Cronk, educational director for the British Columbia Basketball Association will interpret rule changes and answer any questions.

Referees will meet at 1:30 p.m. and coaches will attend at 7 p.m.

Mr. Cronk, well-known basketball educator and referee, who handled the Canadian Senior A Men's finals in Alberni last year, held his first clinic with district referees Sunday night after spending Sunday afternoon holding a similar workshop in Alberni.

LOCAL RULINGS

Prior to the clinic local referees met and decided:

- Mrs. McKellar would be their official administrator.
- Playing centres requiring referees should get in touch with Mrs. McKellar as referees will not choose their own games.
- Centres should make their requests for referees well in advance as there will be no guarantee of referees being available if the request is made less than 48 hours prior to game time.
- A full schedule of fees will be sent all centres within the next few days.

Also elected were Mrs. Robert Veitch, vice-president; Mrs. Barry Volkers, secretary; Harvey Cornell, treasurer; Mrs. Gordon Irvine, social convener; N. H. Webb, badge convener, and John French, ways and means committee.

CAMPOUT, HIKE

New Scoutmaster, Phil Denninger, reported 16 Scouts in this year's group. He said the Scouts took part in an overnight campout and hike on Bald Mountain, early in October.

Future plans include a hige up Heather Mountain, in the Nitinat area, and a two or three-day winter campout in December.

Cubmaster Wayne Speer reported 26 Cubs in his group this year, and all Cubs are working toward their proficiency badges.

Skin Diver Finds Body

TOFINO—The body of Andy Charlie, 22, of the Opitsau Reserve a quarter of a mile from here, was located in the waters around Tofino Sunday by skin diver Garry Gibson.

RCMP said Mr. Charlie had been reported missing Saturday afternoon after he went shopping in Tofino. He is believed to have fallen off the wharf here.

He is survived by two brothers, Joseph Alex and Wilfred Frank; and four sisters, Mrs. Alex Masso, Mrs. Marie Manson and Colita Manson, all of Opitsau, and Mrs. Charlie Nickie of Toronto.

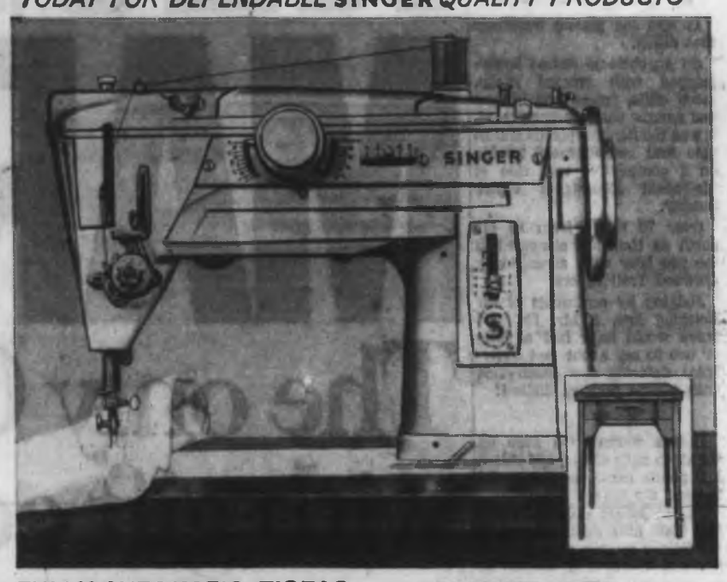

Representative Reappointed

COMOX—The cabinet Monday reappointed Ronald L. Nyblett of Comox as provincial government representative on the board of St. Joseph's General Hospital, for a further two-year term. His last term expired in August.

'Denial Of All Great Grits'

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Monday night that Pearsonian Liberalism has started chiselling away at Confederation.

He said Prime Minister Pearson's brand of Liberalism is a denial of what all the great Liberals have stood for.

The provinces have great responsibilities and must have the authority to carry them out. But if they were raised to the status of associate states Canada would have 11 sovereign governments in greater or lesser degree.

MANY STANDING

"When that day comes this nation will never hold together," he said.

The Conservative leader spoke to some 1,200 persons in a packed and clammy-hot auditorium. More than one-quarter of the

Pearson Swings Westward

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson leads his campaign caravan into Western Canada today but for a good deal of the time his mind will be on the other side of the world.

He told newsmen Monday he would be in constant touch with Commonwealth leaders about the worsening Rhodesian crisis.

The Prime Minister's world-wide reputation as a peace saver had thrust him into the centre of desperate negotiations to halt the progress of the crisis which could so easily escalate into another African bloodbath.

Rhodesia was one of the main items on cabinet agenda yesterday. And it popped up again and again during a very busy non-campaign day for Mr. Pearson.

NOTES TRADED

Mr. Pearson said he had exchanged messages with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and the other leaders about "what may require to be done in certain contingencies we hope won't arise."

He was apparently referring to the intention of Commonwealth nations to invoke sanctions against Rhodesia if the African country unilaterally declares its independence.

Mr. Pearson also talked to Paul Tremblay, Canada's United Nations ambassador, and other external affairs officials, about a resolution being drafted for possible use if the crisis worsens.

He accused former Conserva-

RHODESIA SEIZES FORMER PREMIER

Todd Wants Negro Rule

SALISBURY (Reuters)—The Rhodesian government seized former Prime Minister Garfield Todd Monday as he was about to leave for Britain and ordered him confined to his farm for 12 months.

The restriction order followed by only a few hours Prime Minister Ian Smith's rejection of British Prime Minister Wilson's latest offer to continue talks on Rhodesia's demand for independence.

Todd, a champion of Negro-majority rule, was served with the restriction order at a Salisbury house just as he was preparing to fly to Britain to address a televised Rhodesia teach-in at Edinburgh University in Scotland.

LAST-MINUTE STEP

In London, Wilson sent a cable to Smith in an 11th-hour effort to persuade Rhodesia not to seize independence from Britain unilaterally.

Todd was scheduled to share the platform at the teach-in with Britain's former Conservative prime minister, Sir Alec Douglas - Home, and Cledwyn Hughes, the British Labor government's minister of state for Commonwealth relations.

NO DRAMA

Todd's host in Salisbury, Frank Haddon, said the special branch police arresting officers arrived as Todd was eating dinner. Haddon said:

"There was no drama. They were so gentlemanly and British you have no idea. The senior officer could not have been nicer."

CARRIES FIGHT

Todd has carried his fight for Negro rule in Rhodesia, where an all-white government rules 4,000,000 Negroes and only 220,000 whites, to the United Nations.

The Rhodesian government said it is studying the texts of Todd's UN speeches last April for possible subverions. A Rhodesian law makes it an offence for citizens to make subversive speeches overseas. Todd denied any subversive intention.

RULE BY FORCE

He said the only alternative to negotiating rights and liberties for various Rhodesian racial groups is the maintenance of white rule by force.

He once said that drastic measures such as restriction without trial "had the result of putting the white people on top of a smouldering volcano."

MEDIATION DENIED

Todd's restriction came a few hours after Smith rejected Wilson's proposal for mediation in the Rhodesian independence dispute by leaders of Commonwealth countries.

Smith also said his government has made up its mind whether to defy Britain and

Underwater Domicile Big Success

MONTE CARLO (UPI)—French marine explorer Commander Jacques Yves Cousteau said Monday his most recent project—the three-week research mission in his underwater house Pre Continent III—was a complete success.

The pressurized sphere, which kept six men under water at a depth of 330 feet for 22 days, surfaced four days ago, but the oceanauts completed their decompression only Monday.

Secret Deal

Nuclear Devices For Sale

LONDON (AP) — Diplomatic sources and British informants disclosed Monday night a secret decision authorizing sales of nuclear power reactors, for peaceful purposes only, to Communist countries of East Europe.

The decision was reported to have been taken quietly last July by the inter-allied co-ordinating committee, a little-known group known as COCOM. Members are all the 15 Atlantic Alliance countries, excepting Iceland, plus Japan.

If the move is followed by firm deals with interested countries such as Romania, Czechoslovakia and Poland, it could, in the British view, mark a multi-million-dollar breakthrough in trade relations between East and West. For years these relations have been subject to strict control of all goods with a war potential.

U.K. INITIATIVE

Informants said the COCOM decision was taken as a result of a British initiative, backed by the United States.

In Ottawa, a government spokesman said Canada took part in the decision but none of the countries involved have made requests for Canadian-produced nuclear power reactors.

Masters Of Trivia

NEW YORK (UPI)—Columbia University not only produces scholars of distinction, but experts on trivia. It's Trivia team defeated Barnard, Bryn Mawr and Princeton in the first intercollegiate trivia contest.

The team was the first to come up with answers to such questions as Riley's address in Life of Riley (1313 Bluebird Lane, San Francisco), and the eccentric inventor in Donald Duck (Gyro Gearloose).

Oil Tanker To Run Picket Line

VANCOUVER (CP) — An oil tanker was expected to attempt this morning to make a run past a floating picket line to reach a British American Oil Co. Ltd. dock.

The tanker, the BA Canada, anchored in Burrard Inlet on Monday.

* * *

BA officials here would not say where she had sailed from, or where she had loaded. Her normal run is between Venezuela and Halifax, and she is believed to have loaded in South America.

The oil and gasoline aboard was to be pumped into shore tanks at BA's bulk loading terminal in Port Moody, up the inlet from Vancouver.

* * *

The terminal is normally supplied by pipeline from the company's refinery at Port Moody. The refinery has been out of production since the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC) struck Sept. 14.

Four Jail Rebels Hold Hostages In Prison Hospital

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Four rebellious convicts held a half-dozen hostages for several hours at Southern Michigan Prison Monday, commandeered the penitentiary's surgical centre and grabbed its narcotics supply.

After three terror-filled hours, the prisoners released two doctors and a guard they had threatened with home-made knives. Later, they decided to release their three other hostages and surrender.

All of the hostages were reported in "good health" by Louis Utess, administrative assistant to warden George Kropp. About 40 state policemen, armed with riot guns, were dismissed from stand-by duty.

NO REASON

During Monday's disturbance, one prison official said: "All we are hearing from them over the intercom is a lot of angry talk that has no definite rhyme or reason. And they are using the intercom only when they choose to. We haven't really been able to discuss this with them to see what their demands are."

Held hostage were Dr. W. R Latchaw, 62, of Jackson; Dr. Hamner Hannah, a University of Michigan consultant; guard inspector Joseph Demobskey, 58, and guards George Hutchins, 48, Ronald Thompson, and Walter Gould.

Warden Kropp did not immediately release the names of the inmates involved, and all but local reporters were refused admission to the prison during the incident.

Beer Talks Into Sixth Day

VANCOUVER (CP) — Negotiators go into their sixth day of talks today still seeking a common ground to end the brewery workers' strike.

Brewery representatives and officials of the International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers (CLC) have been talking to conciliation officers since last Wednesday.

Chief provincial labor conciliator Reg Clements said Monday he is still hopeful of a settlement.

Sukarno Resists Army Reds Face Pressure

SINGAPORE (AP) — Indonesia's army imposed a military ban on the Communist party in Jakarta Monday, said a broadcast from the Indonesian capital. But President Sukarno was reported resisting military pressure to dissolve the party.

A Jakarta broadcast heard here said a number of parties and organizations linked to the Communist party also were placed under the ban and the powerful, Communist-dominated trade union federation, SOBSI, was outlawed, presumably throughout Indonesia.

The Indonesian army continued its crackdown on Communists believed involved in the Sept. 30-Oct. 1 coup attempt against Sukarno despite the president's appeal to the military to desist.

REDS ARRESTED

A dispatch from Jakarta reported the arrest of the suspended Communist director of the government-run Jakarta radio, Sukirman.

Also reported arrested were Satya Graha, chief editor of the nationalist party newspaper Suluh Indonesia, suspended by the army, and four staff members of the official news agency Antara. This brought the total of arrested personnel from Antara, which was Communist-infiltrated, to 31.

Mobs were reported systematically burning and sacking Communist offices in other parts of the country.

The ban on the Communist party in Jakarta was announced in the name of Gen. Umar Hadikasumo, commanding officer in the capital area. He ordered officials of the party and of the other banned organizations to report to the army or police within five days.

Also placed under the military ban were Permuda Rakjat, the Communist party's youth wing, and Gerwani, the party's women's branch.

A Jakarta press dispatch flown to Singapore said an Indonesian cabinet minister reported Sukarno still is resisting army pressures to dissolve formally the Indonesian Communist party.

India Claims Line Violations

NEW DELHI (UPI) — India Monday charged that Pakistani troops attacked across the cease-fire line in Kashmir with mortars and machine-gun fire. It said the attack was repulsed and the Pakistanis suffered some casualties.

Secret Pact Hinted

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Douglas Fisher, New Democratic party House leader in the last Parliament, said Monday he believes the Liberal government has a secret pact or agreement with President Johnson to send Canadian troops to Viet Nam after the Nov. 8 federal election.

In an interview with radio station CJLX, Mr. Fisher said he knows for a fact the liberal government drafted a plan for sending communication and transportation personnel to Viet Nam.

MILITARY LEAK

He said the draft was on Defence Minister Paul Hellyer's desk in August. He credited a defence department source for leaking the information.

Mr. Fisher, who does not plan to contest the Nov. 8 election, termed as nonsense allegations by Creditiste Leader Real Caouette that the Liberals plan to introduce military conscription after the election.

He said conscription would be political suicide for the Liberals.

Jury Blames Four Men For Lye Covered Body

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — A Coroner's inquest this morning found four men criminally responsible for the death of one of four victims of any arson-for-insurance racket.

The five-man corners jury took only 32 minutes to render a criminal ruling in the death of Alberic Bilodeau, of St. Marie Quebec whose decomposed body was found burried this month in a caustic lye covered grave in the bleak woods St. Gilles about fifteen miles from here.

The jury verdict followed lenghty statements by all four of the men in custody, Jean-Jacques Gagnon of Montreal; Ovillard Boulet, 52; Andre Lamothe, 41; and Fernand Quirion 43.

Bilodeau was one of four victims unearthed by Quebec provincial police over a scattered area of the south shore of the St. Lawrence. He had been shot at least once through the head before he was stripped and covered with the lye solution.

The inquest into the causes of death of the remaining three victims was continuing into the early morning hours.

Scientist Believes — May Unlock Mystery

New Probe Cancer Enemy

By BOB MACKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — An instrument used mainly to detect minute quantities of metal in microscopic samples eventually may unlock the mystery of cancer, a U.S. scientist said Monday.

H. T. Dryer of Dearborn, Mich., said the microprobe, an instrument developed about five years ago, has been used almost entirely in metallurgy.

* * *

"But in the next couple years there will be a big swing to biology.

"We only have theories now, but the microprobe will enable us to examine processes taking place in blood samples and in living cell tissues."

The microprobe bombards its test sample with high energy electrons, and determines the presence of elements by measuring the x-rays given off by the sample during the bombardment.

* * *

But its early use was restricted to metal research as it only could detect heavier elements. Now, it can identify all but the five lightest elements known to man.

"We still can't use it for hydrogen, but we can locate as little as a hundredth of one per cent of heavier material, like iron or copper."

Mr. Dryer, manager of the applications laboratory of Applied Research Laboratories, Inc., of Dearborn, said microprobe improvements have made the instrument a key analysis instrument in areas where analysis was impossible before because of the minute size of samples.

* * *

In the case of cancer it would enable scientists to determine the chemical differences between good and malignant cells.

"There are certain elements a malignant cell will pick up. With proper development work, the microprobe should show us how the process takes place."

The same could hold for work in genetics, "but there still is much more work to do."

* * *

While the microprobe will not determine amounts of light elements, there is a process where tracers of a heavier element can be aded to the light element.

"We've already done this in plant work, determining the cause of nutrition deficiencies due to either too much or too little of an element in the soil."

Mr. Dryer is in Ottawa for a three-day symposium sponsored by the Canadian Association of Applied Spectroscopy.
